CHAMBERLAIN HITS AT HITLER'S 'SINISTER IDEAS'

Insists Nazis Prove They Want Peace.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The British government's reply to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech yesterday, in which the German dictator challenged this country to an economic war over export markets and demanded the return of colonies taken from Germany after the world war, was delivered tonight by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. Speaking before the house of commons, Chamberlain announced that he refused to have any dealings with Hitler until the latter showed by deeds and not by words that he really wanted a peaceful settlement in Europe.

With the feeling prevalent in Britain that Hitler's speech was particularly anti-British, Chamberlain suggested that the Fuehrer had "sinister ideas in the back of his head." He declared this country would not discuss grievances with Germany unless the atmosphere were more favorable than at present.

Demands Limit on Arms.

"If and when the time comes that we can find a spirit corresponding to our own, this country would not be unsympathetic and we should be ready to make a contribution to the general appeasement of Europe," the prime minister said.

Chamberlain amplified this point by declaring that Britain would agree to share export markets with Hitler or give back German colonies only if the Fuehrer set a limit on his armament race, and presumably on his naval and air program.

"What we want to see is not only words which indicate a desire for peace but, before we can enter a final settlement, we must see concrete evidence of a willingness to enter into an arrangement, if not for disarmament, at any rate for a limitation of armament," Chamberlain said.

It is known that the British admiralty is much upset by Hitler's plan to build more warships.

Commons Backs Premier.

Chamberlain characterized the Fuehrer's speech as "a long one covering a wide field, but not the speech of a man who was prepared to throw Europe into another crisis. There were many passages in the speech which indicated the necessity of peace for Germany as well as for other countries."

At the conclusion of the debate which was on Chamberlain's foreign policy, a motion for adjournment—in effect a test vote on the prime minister's policy of appeasement in Europe and nonintervention in Spain—was won by the government. The vote was 258 to 135.

Maj. C. R. Atlee, Labor leader, had opened the debate with a spirited attack on Chamberlain's policy of nonintervention in the Spanish civil war.

"Disgust with the policy grows in the country," Atlee said.

Warns of War Danger.

Chamberlain, in reply, declared nonintervention in Spain was and is still the best policy.

"I do not consider the situation in Spain is, at this moment, a menace to the peace of Europe," he said, "but most emphatically I do consider the abandonment of nonintervention must inevitably lead to an extension of the conflict in Europe."

Chamberlain said that during his recent visit to Rome he received new assurances from Premier Mussolini that Italy "had nothing to seek from Spain after the war was over." He urged parliament to stop doubting Mussolini's word about this. He added that he had similar assurances from Hitler.

Boasts of Prestige Abroad.

The prime minister asserted that his Munich policy of appeasement is now beginning to show results "and I think the public is realizing that our efforts have resulted in an enormous and ever rapidly increasing addition to our defensive strength."

"As to our prestige abroad," he declared, "it has never stood higher than it does today. There never was a time when our friendship was more generally desired and sought by other countries. It is untrue to say that the policy of appeasement has failed. On the contrary, I maintain that it is steadily succeeding."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, retorted:

"Where is Britain's prestige high? Read American newspapers and you will find we have no prestige at all."

G. O. P. Fights Illinois Budget Waste

STATE'S 'LUMP FIGURE' SYSTEM HELD SLIPSHOD

Benson on Trail of Useless Bureaus.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—An economy bloc of Republican leaders in the senate today started their campaign to reduce the record-breaking Illinois budget.

Arnold P. Benson.

Republican house members, who have been in the majority since the November election, had previously announced their intention to take similar action.

Republican senators immediately pounced on the big lump sum items in the 190 pages of proposed expenditures when the budget appeared before them.

Benson Demands Facts.

Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, leader of the G. O. P. minority in the senate, said he would demand a breakdown of the lump sums. He termed the lump sum method of appropriating, which has been used to give executives wide latitude in spending, a slipshod practice which ought to be stopped.

Senator Benson said that lump sums make it difficult for the legislature to determine what amounts are actually needed.

"The Republican members of the appropriations committee will call in department heads and insist that they reveal details not given in the budget," Benson said. "Perhaps we'll discover that some bureaus and commissions are not needed."

The present budget is the largest in the last five biennial periods and is twice the size of the budget of 1927. It stands at $456,586,771 for the two years starting July 1, $1,303,031 more than estimated revenue. Expenditures from general funds are estimated at $244,453,031.

Acting Governor John Stelle left the road to economy wide open by not indorsing the budget when he sent it to the legislature.

"Near" Balance, Says Nudelman.

Finance Director S. L. Nudelman told the legislature that the gap of $1,303,031 between estimated resources and expenditures leaves the budget "within striking distance of a balance."

By having the figures completed today he achieved a record. Not since 1917 has the budget been ready in January, as required by law.

It is in Nudleman's finance department that the most glaring examples of lump sum budgeting occur.

The general office of the department is down for $198,420 in salaries, the tax commission division for $209,860, the division of purchases and supplies for $110,000, division of printing for $120,700, bureau of multigraphing for $56,520, division of oil inspection for $385,000, the liquor revenue division for $365,000, and the sales tax division for $2,985,000.

Horner Office Lumped.

Gov. Horner's office salaries are in for a lump sum of $61,200 in addition to his salary of $24,000. Acting Governor Stelle has listed some of his office employés, but not all, for a lumped figure of $24,600, a reduction from $29,000.

"Office expenses" is a favorite label for lump sums. Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes' department has "office expenses" listed at $138,300, and "operation" at $153,100.

The automobile division of this department puts "office expenses" at $278,850, "operation" at $670,440, and travel at $95,000.

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett's department lists "office expenses" at $120,000, travel at $190,000, and examination of books and accounts of state department at $150,000.

The Illinois commerce commission, of which James L. Slattery is chairman, gives salary classifications, but not the number of employés to be hired for its lump total of $1,108,950 for salaries and wages.

SMUGGLING SUSPECTS

PILOT RELAYS 'HELP' CALL HE SEES PRINTED IN DEEP SNOWBANK

Albuquerque, N. M., Jan. 31.—(AP)—An airplane pilot's report that he saw the word "Help" printed in deep snow near an isolated ranch house fifty miles east of here sent highway workers and state police to that snowbound area with road opening equipment tonight. William Parker of Bartlesville, Okla., the pilot, said no sign of life was evident. He said the snow in the region, cut off from the outside for several weeks, was three or four feet deep and made landing out of the question.

PLAYFUL OCEAN THROWS ROCKS AT CAPE COD SOCIETY

Boston, Mass., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Seaside homes and cottages were battered tonight by surf in the wake of a 24 hour northeast blizzard that blew itself out after tieing up transportation and taking four lives. Huge combers threw stones through boarded windows in the summer resorts of Nantasket and Cohasset, and high water isolated sections of several Massachusetts north shore communities.

The Portland lightship radioed tonight she had been swept off her station and was bucking heavy seas three-quarters of a mile southwest of her usual position off Portland harbor.

Snow, drifted to four feet deep, still fell in the district, but tomorrow's forecast is "fair."

COURT HEARS IT'S BILLY WHO GIVES NANNY BAD NAME

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 31.—(AP)—An expert witness defended the Zacchinis' goat in Circuit court today on a charge of offending the public nose.

The goat—a figure in a nuisance suit against the "Human Cannonball" family of circus fame—could not have been the animal that smelled so, testified P. A. Blate, a former zoology teacher, because this goat is a lady goat. The males, he told the court, are the ones who have—to speak—put the goat family in bad odor with the public.

Neighbors are seeking court relief, charging they have been disturbed by trapeze acts in scanty clothes, practice cannon shots, noisy bees—and the goat. 14

To Slap Wife or Not--That's The Question

What the Courts Say:

CASE NO. 1.

Yesterday Mrs. Mary Kuhar, 21 years old, 11530 La Salle street, appeared before Judge Philip J. Finnegan of the Circuit court to ask a divorce from John Kuhar Jr., a trap drummer in a dance band. After relating that she was 21 years old, Mrs. Kuhar was asked why she deserved her freedom.

"My husband slapped me," she said, "on June 7, 1938, ten days after we were married. He was angry because I wouldn't go to a dance. Six days later he slapped me again."

"Did the slaps leave marks?" inquired the court.

"Yes. Red marks, and on my face," was the answer.

"Under the law," said Judge Finnegan, "cruelty must consist of violence great enough to endanger life. A slap does not endanger life. A man may slap his wife as hard as he wants to if he doesn't kill her. If more wives were slapped there would be fewer divorces."

He continued the hearing until April 22, but indicated there would be no divorce unless something more than the two slaps was cited as evidence.

Before Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court came Mrs. Gwendolyn A. Bishop, 26 years old, 6811 Paxton avenue, part owner of a riding academy. She demanded a divorce from Edward W. Bishop, 51, because he had slapped her several times. He became angry, she asserted, because she rode horses more expertly than he did.

"Any blow that inflicts pain is cruelty," averred Judge Nelson. "The law permits a divorce if two such acts are proved, and I always grant it."

As alimony Mrs. Bishop was given a terrier called Whiskers.

CASE NO. 3.

Slaps also figured in the case of Mrs. Frances Eccardt, 22 years old, 6659 Stewart avenue, who was granted her freedom from Charles Eccardt on the ground of cruelty. Judge Robert C. O'Connell, however, did not have to make as close a decision as the other jurists. Mrs. Eccardt claimed that her husband had threatened her life.

The Common Law Holds:

In correcting his wife, a husband may use physical force, so long as he does not maim or permanently injure her. The courts in England held that a rod or a stick no thicker than the husband's thumb was permitted in wife spanking.

What Some People Say:

Mrs. John Winterbotham Jr., 1238 North State street—"If a wife is to be slapped she should have the right to slap back. Any one with any spunk at all feels like slapping once in a while. Slapping might avert many divorces."

Mrs. Wilbur E. Fribley, leader in the Chicago Woman's club—"If a husband slaps his wife, it's no marriage at all. Only the ignorant get their way by striking people. It's illegal even to strike a horse. Judge Finnegan's statement seems incredible. I'm glad I'm not his wife."

John M. [100 Per Cent] Nichols, president of the first National Bank of Englewood—"It's not customary in this country to slap women, but the husband in this case may have been justified. If the wife isn't satisfied with the decision she can appeal."

NO THANKS, WEATHER BUREAU, WE'VE GOT SOME SNOW ALREADY

More snow is forecast for today. But Chicago, with the loop and most of its principal trafic arteries cleared after the 14.9 inch fall of Monday, need not begin to quake in its side-street drifts.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said the weather map indicated the snow might be heavy, but he considered this unlikely. Temperatures will be somewhat higher today, he added, and drop a little tomorrow.

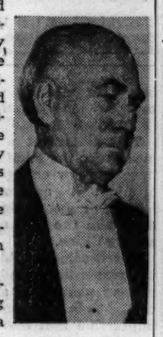
The city, the Park district, transportation companies, and individual property owners coöperated to clear Monday's snow. Elevated lines were on regular schedules yesterday and street cars and buses were giving almost normal service. Most suburban roads were passable last night. All public and parochial schools, except the six for crippled children, will be open today.

The monthly weather summary showed that the mean temperature for thirty days just passed was 31.9 degrees, or 8.2 degrees above normal. The month was the seventh warmest January since 1871. The percentage of sunshine was 28, making the period next to the gloomiest on record.

Dies Shows Up Attack on Quiz as a Red Copy

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—A striking similarity between a speech inserted in the congressional record by Representative Kent Keller, Illinois Democrat, and a pamphlet distributed by the communist party of America was bared to the house rules committee today by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.].



Rep. Kent Keller.

The rules comittee is holding hearings on a resolution to extend the life of Dies' committee on un-American activities. Approval of the resolution is considered certain.

Keller has been leading the administration's fight against extension of the investigation. Dies cited numerous similarities between the two pieces of writing.

Author Is Communist Worker.

The communist pamphlet is a 31 page document entitled "The Un-American Dies Committee." It was written by Adam Lapin, Washington correspondent for the Daily Worker, official organ of the communist party of America. It was published several weeks ago by Workers Library Publishers, Inc., of New York, and retailed at 2 cents a copy.

The speech by Keller, which Dies charged is, in effect, a copy of the pamphlet, was inserted in the congressional record by Keller last Saturday. Keller stated that he had delivered it over the radio on Jan. 20. It was not delivered on the house floor.

Keller urged in a preliminary statement, also printed in the record, that members of the house wire Chairman Adolph Sabath of the rules committee, protesting against extension of the Dies committee at this time.

Urges New Dealers' Support.

The communist pamphlet also carried a plea to "New Dealers and members of the communist party" to write their congressmen, urging them to fight against continuance of the Dies inquiry.

"Here is an illustration," Dies told the committee, "of a member of congress inserting communist propaganda in the congressional record. The pamphlet and the speech, in many instances, are almost identical in phraseology. The order in which arguments are presented is exactly the same. There can be little doubt in any one's mind that one was based upon the other."

Both Keller and Lapin were present as Dies made his charge. Keller denied the accusation. He and Lapin later put on a demonstration for re-

SENATORS HEAR U. S. IS ALLIED IN FRENCH PACT

President Admits Aid in Plane Sales.

France Gives Thanks

PARIS, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Air Minister Guy La Chambre today paid tribute in the chamber of deputies to President Roosevelt, declaring he is responsible for France's receiving the best American airplanes. La Chambre referred to orders for 200 pursuit planes. He said such purchases were necessary to supplement French war plane production. "I cannot allow criticism of our purchases abroad which are possible only because the great American democracy is giving its entire help—because in serving France it is serving the cause of peace," he declared.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The government of the United States has made commitments to both France and England which amount to a military alliance. This was made unmistakably clear today by President Roosevelt at a secret meeting of the senate military affairs committee at the White House, according to senators present.

The President revealed what senators described privately as a "cold blooded" foreign policy calling for 100 per cent coöperation with France and England, which he designated as the "democracies," in the event of war between those countries and the "aggressor nations"—Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy.

Terrifying Picture Given.

The President went so far as to say that our present first line of defense is in France, according to members of the military affairs committee. He gave them a lecture on present world conditions pointing to the menace of Nazi Germany's territorial aspirations in a manner that was calculated to be terrifying.

Members of the committee were astounded by the President's attitude. They said it means that all pretense of American neutrality in foreign wars has been abandoned; that steps already have been taken which would lead us inevitably into Europe's next war.

The committee members said the President assumed entire responsibility for the sale of war planes to France, asserting that such a deal fitted into this country's foreign policy.

They said Mr. Roosevelt reminded them that he is commander in chief of the army and navy and, as such, has the authority to approve or disapprove France's purchase of planes here.

Pledged to Secrecy.

The President was quoted by the committeemen as asserting there would be little need of continuing the committee inquiry into the French purchases because he has definitly taken responsibility for the sales.

Any further inquiry, it was said, merely would disclose the activities of the President's subordinates in making the sales possible.

Members of the committee were exhorted and pledged to maintain the strictest secrecy concerning what they heard at the White House. This injunction, which was respected to a greater degree than is usual in the case of confidential, off-the-record meetings of congressional committees, increased the senators' misgivings.

It became apparent a few hours later that the disclosure of Mr. Roosevelt's purposes will have far-reaching repercussions in congress, particularly with respect to the pending "emergency" armaments program.

G. O. P. Parley Called.

Senate Minority Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon called a conference of the Republican membership for tomorrow when the nature of the White House conference became known. At this conference the Republicans will determine the positions they will take on the President's national defense program.

Such veterans as William E. Borah of Idaho and Hiram Johnson of California are expected to put up a fight reminiscent of their historic stand against the league of nations in 1919.

The meeting of the military affairs committee in the White House was itself reminiscent of the Wilson era and the league of nations fight. It was the first time a President of the United States had appeared before a committee of congress since President Wilson, in 1919, went before the senate foreign relations committee and told the members that this government had no knowledge of the secret European treaties when America entered the world war.

Status Revealed in 1936.

In these secret treaties the allied powers agreed upon the manner in which they would divide the spoils of war, including Germany's colonial empire, and carve up the map of Europe. The senate munitions investigation in 1936 produced records and correspondence showing that the Wilson administration had complete information concerning the secret treaties.

The meeting of the military affairs committee with the President grew out of revelations that resulted from the crash of a Douglas bombing plane, constructed for war department competition, at Los Angeles Jan. 23. Captain Paul Chemidlin, a representative of the French air ministry, was injured in this crash, and John Cable, the test pilot, was killed.

The senate committee's investigation disclosed that the French air mission in this country to buy $65,000,000 worth of the latest type military planes had been given authority to inspect the Douglas bomber, with a view to placing a large order, before the war department itself had had an opportunity to test it for use by the United States army.

Roosevelt Rôle Learned.

At a session with Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring and Secretary of the Treasury Henry A. Morgenthau last week, the committee learned that President Roosevelt personally directed that the French mission be given permission to inspect and purchase the latest American military planes. The war department had refused such permission, on the ground that it was a mistake to disclose military and technical secrets to a foreign power.

Importuned by Secretary Morgenthau and William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, Mr. Roosevelt wrote to the secretaries of war, the navy, and the treasury requesting full cooperation with the French mission.

Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], chairman of the military affairs committee, arranged today's meeting as a result of a motion by Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], adopted without objection on Saturday, demanding that Morgenthau produce a copy of the President's letter.

President Uses Strategy.

The plan, presumably, was to spare Morgenthau the embarrassment of having to produce the President's letter. The plan worked, for the President, putting on one of the exhibitions of "charm" for which he is famous, literally talked the senators out of their desire to see the letters to the three cabinet officers.

The President assured the senators, however, that no military secrets had been disclosed to France. They accepted his assurance, but some of them, confessing later that they felt a little foolish, wondered why Secretary Woodring, Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf of the army, and Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, had opposed the special privileges desired by the French mission until Mr. Roosevelt intervened.

Turning to the broader questions of foreign policy and the pending national defense program, the President gave his lecture on the state of world affairs and the Hitler menace to civilization. He took the position that France and England must be saved at all costs and that this country stands ready to give them all possible assistance.

If France and England should be defeated, Germany and Italy would soon dominate South America and the United States would be threatened next, the President argued. Already, he told the senators, the Fascist powers have gained an economic foothold in certain South American countries which at any time may produce the overthrow of their governments.

When Mr. Roosevelt emphasized his determination to give all possible assistance to France and England, and it dawned upon some of the senators that he was speaking in terms that implied definite commitments in the event of war, one of them asked him what was to become of our neutrality law. He said he would cross that bridge when we came to it.

Two Possibilities Seen.

This statement was interpreted to mean that the President would either have the law changed, to permit discrimination against an aggressor nation, or would simply ignore it, as he did in the case of Japan's aggression in China.

The President told the senator that the responsible heads of the "democracies" were fully aware of his position. This confirmed the senators' impression that there had been definite understandings and commitments. After the conference they cited press dispatches from Paris as corroborating evidence of what they had been given to understand.

The dispatches quoted Guy La Chambre, the French air minister, as expressing gratitude to President Roosevelt for helping France get the best planes in the world.

There also was corroborative evidence in the statement last week of French Premier Edouard Daladier, who told the chamber of deputies: "At this moment France turns her thoughts particularly toward the great Anglo-Saxon nations which have given us their words to be at our side. Britain's friendship is very precious to us, and we think of the United States, whose President addressed words to us which touched us deeply."

Wants More Planes.

Without mentioning any definite figures, the President told the senators that the 3,000 additional army airplanes contemplated by the pending national defense program are by no means enough. One senator said he indicated that "the sky is the limit" as to the number of airplanes the United States ought to build. Members of the committee were convinced that he will seek by one means or another to build a far greater number of planes than the pending $552,000,000 emergency defense program contemplates after congress has passed it.

The President made only one reservation in expressing his determination to coöperate with the British and French aerial armament programs. He said they must pay cash.

Presumably this was to allay senatorial suspicions concerning Secretary Morgenthau's still mysterious rôle in the French airplane deal. Aware that Morgenthau is closely associated with the British and French governments by virtue of the tri-partite monetary and exchange stabilization agreement, some senators had smelled a rat intent upon circumventing the Johnson act.

Bans Loans to Defaulters.

The Johnson act prohibits any loans or credits to foreign countries that have defaulted on their war debts, thus proscribing both France and England. Since Morgenthau manages secretly a 2 billion dollar stabilization fund, the senators suspected that some arrangement might be made to extend credit to France in the guise of stabilizing the franc.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] surprised his colleagues on the military affairs committee by talking up to Mr. Roosevelt. He demanded to know whether it isn't time for this government to crack down on the communistic régime in Mexico, if the Nazi peril is all that the President said it is.

Reynolds told the President that Mexico has seized about $750,000,000 worth of American oil, agricultural, and mining properties and is bartering $17,000,000 worth of the confiscated American oil for Nazi manufacturers. By permitting Mexico to get away with this, isn't the administration in effect aiding the Nazi economic penetration of Latin-America? he asked.

The President admitted that Mexico is a difficult problem, one that is receiving careful consideration.

At his press conference today, Mr. Roosevelt said that he had discussed many things with the senators and that they had gone away satisfied.

He said the object of the administration's efforts to promote the sale of military airplanes to France was to get the American factories on a mass production basis before our own national defense program is ready for them. He said he told the senators that France has been given no military secrets.

Parallel Attacks on Dies Inquiry

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Subjoined are quotations showing the similarity of language used in two attacks upon the Dies committee investigating un-American activities. One was by Kent Keller [D., Ill.] and the other by Adam Lapin, a communist writer. Among the striking similarities pointed out by Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] were the following:

KELLER—Edward F. Sullivan [committee investigator] was at one time on the pay roll of the Railway Audit and Inspection company, a notorious anti-labor detective agency.

LAPIN—Edward F. Sullivan, labor spy, paid several hundred dollars by that notorious anti-labor outfit, the Railway Audit and Inspection company.

KELLER—The malodorous James True and Associates. . . .

LAPIN—James True, one of the most malodorous propagandists.

KELLER—Typical of the kind of un-American propaganda spread by True and Sullivan is the following quotation from their bulletin, Industrial Control Reports of Aug. 1, 1936:

LAPIN—Messers True and Sullivan, who put out a scurrilous publication fancifully entitled Industrial Control Reports.

KELLER—Operating under the Rome-Berlin-Tokio-Dies slogan.

LAPIN—He [Dies] and his committee unofficially joined the Rome-Berlin-Tokio axis.

KELLER—A man [Sullivan] who had carried on anti-Catholic propaganda. . . .

LAPIN—Sullivan has been active in carrying on propaganda against Catholics and the Catholic church.

KELLER—It heard Jacob Spolansky, who did labor espionage for the National Metal Trades association. . . .

LAPIN—Another "authority" on the labor movement was Jacob Spolansky, a former operative for the National Metal Trades association.

KELLER—Perhaps some of the witnesses to whom the Dies committee gave its critical attention belong in the category of Edwin Banta. . . .

LAPIN—The committee gathered a handful of irresponsible witnesses. Such as a certain Edwin P. Banta. . . .

KELLER—Harper Knowles has been the secretary of the Associated Farmers for some time. . . .

LAPIN—Harper Knowles was former executive secretary of the vigilante outfit, Associated Farmers. . . .

KELLER—What is the Associated Farmers? The La Follette committee has just completed its investigation of this organization. It is financed by big industrialists.

LAPIN—The La Follette committee is probing this so-called farmers' organization, which is financed and led by the greatest industrialists in California.

KELLER—Wire the chairman of the rules committee. . . .

LAPIN—Write to your congressman today.

Last of 2 Planes in French Order Ready for Delivery

Burbank, Cal., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Delivery of the last two planes of a $262,000 order from the French air ministry will be made late this week, officials of the Lockheed Aircraft corporation said today. The planes have a top speed of 250 miles an hour and a nonstop cruising range of about 2,000 miles. They will be put into service by Air Afrique, which operates passenger and express service between Marseilles and Madagascar.

porters, shaking hands and averring they never had met before.

Both Charge "Plot."

The communist pamphlet by Lapin and Keller's speech both accused Dies of a political "plot" to injure the New Deal. The Dies committee revealed the communistic affiliations of many officials high in the Roosevelt régime.

Dies was charged in both documents with listening to evidence which helped to defeat Frank Murphy of Michigan and Elmer Benson of Minnesota in their campaigns for reelection as governor. Both papers referred to President Roosevelt's condemnation of the committee as a reason for stifling it instead of authorizing it to continue its work.

[The striking parallel between the two attacks is set forth in an adjoining column.]

VOLCANOES, NEW QUAKES RENEW FEARS IN CHILE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Unusual volcanic activity, new earth tremors, and electrical storms raging throughout the high Andes caused new fears today for survivors of an earthquake last week which took perhaps 30,000 lives in southern and central Chile.

Map locates Chilean volcano, active after 200 years.

At least three volcanoes were unusually active. The governor of Biobio province reported that Antuco volcano, 9,807 feet high, had come to life after two centuries of inactivity. He said the glare from Antuco's crater could be seen seven miles away. Antuco is 125 miles southeast of Concepcion. The Llaima volcano, about 170 miles south of Chillan, and the Quizapu volcano, near Talca, also in the southern zone, showed minor displays of life.

El Salto observatory in Santiago announced that Chile was going through a "season of earthquakes." A quake of moderate intensity was felt last night in La Serena, 600 miles north of the zone of last week's disaster, and another in Chillan, which virtually was leveled last week.

A cyclonic storm born in the Andes swept through the town of Los Andes yesterday, stalling a train carrying food and medicine to the disaster area.

PLANS TO KEEP BRAIN TRUSTERS SECURE IN JOBS

Roosevelt Starts Study of Civil Service.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today began a study of the civil service for the purpose of devising some means of extending the benefits of the merit system to brain trusters without injury to their dignity.

The President announced the appointment of a committee which is to consider the best way of applying civil service principles to the professional, scientific, and certain administrative and technical positions in the government service.

Asked whether the move was not calculated to find some means of blanketing his bright young men under the civil service, the President replied testily that was not the whole idea.

Consider Tests Undignified.

Brain trusters consider the competitive examinations of the civil service beneath their dignity and their opposition caused a hitch in the President's program to extend civil service to the alphabetical units the administration has created. However, they were interested in the security offered by civil service against house cleaning by succeeding administrations.

This problem has been under study for several months, it was learned, and has delayed bringing the employés of emergency units into civil service under a blanketing order the President issued last June 24. Today Mr. Roosevelt announced that 45,000 employés would be placed under civil service tomorrow.

Frankfurter on Committee.

The fact that the President is concerned over what may become of his bright young men was seen in the reason that Justice Felix Frankfurter was made a member of the committee. The justice's law classes at Harvard turned out hundreds of lawyers who have been given key spots in the administration.

The committee is to be headed by Justice Stanley Reed. Other members in addition to Frankfurter and Reed are Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago; Attorney General Frank Murphy; William H. McReynolds, administrative assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau; Leonard White, former Republican member of the civil service commission, and Gano Dunn, president of J. G. White Engineering company.

PRESIDENT ASKS MANTON TO QUIT BENCH AT ONCE

Accepts Resignation of Accused Judge.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan 31.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today "gratefully" accepted the resignation of Martin T. Manton of New York, senior judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the second circuit, who is charged with accepting nearly $450,000 from litigants before his court.

Judge Manton.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

In the letter accepting the resignation Mr. Roosevelt suggested that Manton no longer sit in cases. The President hardly gave Manton time to wind up his affairs.

The judge suggested that his resignation be accepted about March 1 so that he would have time to clear up pending court matters. The President at his press conference emphasized that he would accept the resignation as of next Tuesday.

Takes Action at Once.

Mr. Roosevelt accepted the resignation within a few minutes after it reached his desk. He thrust aside all other matters to send his letter to the judge.

Manton wrote: "I hereby tender my resignation as United States Circuit judge for the second judicial circuit, to take effect at your pleasure and not later than March 1, at which time I will have been able to finish the business now in my hands."

The President's reply was without the usual first name salutation he employs customarily in accepting resignations. It began with the stiff formality of "My Dear Judge Manton."

"I have received your resignation as United States Circuit judge for the Second judicial circuit, and I hereby accept it to take effect on Tuesday, Feb. 7," the President wrote. "This will give you an opportunity to dispose of such pending matters as the public interest requires, but this means, of course, that you will no longer sit on cases before the court."

Grand Jury Inquiry Starts.

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Presentation of the evidence in the case of Martin T. Manton, senior judge of the federal Circuit court of Appeals, who resigned under fire, was begun this afternoon before the federal grand jury at the request of Attorney General Frank Murphy.

The presentation will be in charge of United States Attorney Gregory F. Noonan personally. Judge Manton will have an opportunity to be heard if he wishes.

NEW DEAL WINS COURT VICTORY OVER 700 HOMES

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The government's condemnation of land for the Crab Orchard lake project, termed by its critics "another New Deal brainstorm," has been given impetus by a legal victory over an objector.

Federal Judge Fred L. Wham yesterday denied a motion by G. W. Kirk and Effie Kirk, owners of eighty acres in the affected area, asking for dismissal of condemnation proceedings against them.

The area the government seeks includes between 700 and 800 farm homes, 20 business houses, 60 miles of roadway, 2 coal mines, and 15 cemeteries.

HOOVER TO SPEAK ON U. S. FOREIGN POLICIES TONIGHT

Former President Herbert Hoover will speak tonight before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations on "President Roosevelt's New Foreign Policies." Dispatches from New York quoted Lawrence Richey, Hoover's secretary, as saying that Hoover would make the talk "in an effort to bring objectively before the country for national discussion the important changes that are now being proposed in America's traditional foreign policies."

COMEDIAN BURNS IS FINED $8,000 FOR SMUGGLING

Actor Also Pays $9,770 in Civil Penalties.

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—George Burns, funny man of radio and screen, today was fined $8,000, given a suspended sentence of a year and a day, and placed on a year's probation for smuggling.

George Burns and His Wife, Gracie Allen.

Federal Judge William Bondy imposed the sentence on Burns' plea of guilty to two indictments charging he smuggled two bracelets and a ring into this country.

While the fine of $8,000 is not high considering Burns' income, which averages $4,000 a week, it is nearly twice the value of the smuggled gems and almost eight times what the duty would have been. The government placed a value of about $4,885 on the jewels, which Burns gave to his wife and professional partner, Gracie Allen.

Pays $9,770 Civil Penalties.

In addition to the fine Burns yesterday settled civil penalties totaling $9,770—twice the value of the smuggled items. He also had the expense of at least three round trips between Hollywood and New York, besides fees he must pay his attorneys.

The comedian obviously felt anything but humorous as he stood before Judge Bondy. He spoke not a word during the proceedings.

Carl Newton, his lawyer, in urging leniency, said the actor already had suffered in excess of the usual penalty in such cases and that his record is "without blemish."

As the judge intoned "I sentence you to one year and a day in prison . . ." Burns' face, already pale, blanched even more. Then he sighed with relief a moment later when the judge added: "I shall suspend imposition of sentence during good behavior."

Must Report Twice Monthly.

This means the comedian must make personal reports about twice a month to a federal probation officer, that he must keep the officer advised of his activities and obtain permission whenever he wants to leave the officer's jurisdiction.

Any violation of probation rules will make him liable to serve the suspended sentence. He must not be seen in the company of questionable characters nor frequent resorts of unsavory reputation.

Under federal law most crimes punishable by sentences of a year and a day, or more, are felonies. Violations of the customs law, however, are specified by statute as misdemeanors regardless of the penalties involved. Accordingly, Burns loses no civil rights through either the plea or the sentence.

Friend Still to Be Tried.

After the brief court proceedings today, federal authorities announced that Burns will be available as a witness at another trial growing out of the activities of Albert N. Chaperau, international soldier of fortune, who has pleaded guilty to smuggling jewelry and clothing for notables in film and café society.

The impending trial obviously is that of Jack Benny, old friend and radio rival of Burns, who pleaded not guilty to similar charges involving $2,131 worth of jewelry. Benny is scheduled to go on trial here Feb. 14.

In addition to Burns and Benny, numerous other radio and screen celebrities were questioned in connection with the investigation of Chaperau's smuggling activities. Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer, was the first person charged in the case. She pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence.

SLAIN WOMAN'S SISTER TELLS OF DEATH THREATS

Testimony yesterday at a coroner's inquest indicated that William Harlev threatened Miss Georgiana Fitz Hugh with death several times before he shot and killed her Sunday night in her hotel aparament at 5653 Kenmore avenue. Harlev shot himself later and is in a critical condition in the Bridewell hospital.

Mrs. Virginia McAlpine, sister of Miss Fitz Hugh, said Harlev had insisted Miss Fitz Hugh accompany him on a trip to Miami. This offer was refused, the sister said. Miss Fitz Hugh was quoted as having said she could not love Harlev. Harlev is 52 years old, married, and lives at 1857 South Ridgeway avenue. Miss Fitz Hugh was 47.

"Harlev called my sister Sunday afternoon," said Mrs. McAlpine, "and told her she did not have long to live. A friend warned us later that he was carrying a pistol."

The inquest was continued to Feb. 9.

HINES JURY HEARS GHOST STORY OF SUICIDE GANGMAN

First Trial Testimony of Graft Is Read.

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The jury at the second trial of James J. Hines on charges that he was the political fixer for the 20 million dollar a year policy racket of the Dutch Schultz gang listened today to Assistant district attorneys read the testimony given by George Weinberg at the first trial. Weinberg, who managed the policy racket for the gang and was star witness for the state against Hines, killed himself Sunday.

The reading of the transcript, which probably will take two days, was begun after general sessions Judge Charles C. Nott Jr., ruled that the testimony was admissible.

Judge Nott ruled that the death of a material witness does not preclude the admission of his testimony, if it has been duly taken elsewhere in a court hearing.

Two Assistants Read Testimony.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, prosecuting the case in person, delegated the reading of the Weinberg testimony to two assistants. Herman McCarthy sat in the witness chair and read the answers of Weinberg while the questions which had been put to the gangster were read by Francis Hogan.

In his testimony at the first trial Weinberg said he paid enormous sums to Hines from the profits of the rackets, told of what Hines allegedly did to fix cases in the courts for the gang, and testified that the gang raised money to help Hines elect former District Attorney William C. Dodge.

The reading of his testimony began after the judge ruled that the jurors should be told that Weinberg killed himself, but that there should be no speculation in the presence of the jury on the motive for the suicide. Judge Nott himself informed the jurors.

Suicide Cause Not Issue.

"A witness who testified at a previous trial of this case has since died," said the judge. "The law allows the admission of his testimony at a subsequent trial. Therefore the testimony of George Weinberg may be read to you.

"George Weinberg died last Sunday in Westchester of a bullet wound in the head inflicted by himself. I cannot impress upon you too strongly that you must not speculate as to the cause. The cause so far as we are concerned is not known. The reason is not material here."

The judge made his ruling on the admissibility of the Weinberg testimony after an argument between Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief counsel for the defense, and District Attorney Dewey.

BRITAIN TO PAY FOR LOSS OF LIFE FROM AIR RAIDS

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The British government's decision to pay compensation for the loss of life and destruction of property from enemy bombardments or bombing attacks was announced in the house of commons today by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer.

Separate insurance schemes will cover British merchantmen and the supplies of "essential" war materials they will carry. There will also be insurance on commodities for export.

"The risk is one which affects us all," Simon said, "and the particular person or the particular property which is struck is the casual victim of the general peril which the state is engaged in doing its best to resist."

JACKIE COOGAN AND MOTHER TO STOP FIGHTING

Compromise Is Near in Accounting Suit.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Coogans and the Bernsteins, their lawyers said today, have decided to take in their linen.

An out of court settlement of Jackie Coogan's 4 million dollar accounting suit against his mother and his step-father, which led to an exchange of accusations and recriminations, is being worked out.

"There have been discussions leading toward a settlement," said William Rains, Coogan's attorney. Lawyers for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein confirmed this.

Trust Fund Neglected.

Jackie sued his mother and Bernstein, the Coogans' business manager, for an accounting of the millions he said he earned as a child star. Jackie contended that his father, Jack Sr., killed in an automobile accident in 1935, had often stated—legally as well as verbally—that he intended to set up a trust fund out of his son's immense earnings.

Jackie said no such fund was ever set up, and he received only $1,000.

In both depositions and statements last April, when the action was filed unexpectedly, Mrs. Bernstein declared that it was never her nor her late husband's intention to give Jackie any considerable sum because too much money would spoil him.

Mother Claims Earnings.

She added that a minor's earnings belong wholly to his parents.

The Bernsteins also said Jackie's earnings totaled only $1,300,000 and that much of it had been spent on Jackie's upkeep during his 'teen years after his retirement.

In the midst of Jackie's troubles, he and his wife, Betty Grable of the movies, separated. Yesterday, in El Paso, Jackie said he and Betty had patched up their differences and Betty, in Hollywood, confirmed this with the admission they will seek a new love nest soon.

BRITISH AIR MINISTER SAVES SELF IN RIOT BY LIFTING VOICE IN SONG

Sir Kingsley Wood.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Sir Kingsley Wood's mental agility saved him from a possible beating by angry British Fascists tonight at a Limehouse town hall political meeting that ended in a riot.

Invading the tough district on behalf of a Conservative party candidate, the plump little air minister said in a speech "we are proud of Chamberlain"—the prime minister. Fascists in the rear of the hall, hissed, booed, and drowned out the speech.

"Our balloon barrage system ——," the air minister began. Toy balloons filled the hall. Fireworks exploded. Some groups began dancing the Lambeth Walk and others sang "Tipperary."

Finally, when a Conservative on the platform shouted, "You noisy rabble," fists began to fly. Women yanked hair and a group of hefty men surged toward the platform. Sir Kingsley began singing "God Save the King," and the fighting stopped. As the last strains died away police arrived and the air minister ducked out the back door.

2 HELD TO JURY FOR ROBBERY.

Jerry Lesk, 20 years old, 5609 South Francisco avenue, and Frank Hankiewicz, 19, of 1356 West 51st street, were held to the grand jury on robbery charges yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber.

FIND TWO DEAD IN ZINC MINE; HUNT 3 MORE

Picher, Okla., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The bodies of two miners, trapped in a huge fall of rock, were removed tonight from the Southern zinc mine near here and more than 200 men dug into a vast pile of stone under which the bodies of three others were believed buried.

The bodies recovered were identified as those of Jess Corssland and Fred McComber.

"There is no question that the other men are dead," said H. C. Snodgrass, Kansas district mine inspector.

Forty men were working in the mine, across the line in Kansas, at the time of the rock fall, seven of them in the drift where the cave-in occurred. Two of the seven made their way out despite injuries.

NAZI PRESS RIPS INTO U. S.; OBEYS A TIP BY HITLER

Charges American Brutality in Porto Rico.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—The Nazi press today dutifully obeyed Reichsfuehrer Hitler's tip to direct propaganda against the United States. Hitler suggested the attack in his speech to the reichstag yesterday.

The Schwarzes Korps, official organ of the Hitler Guards and the police, devoted two columns to "Roosevelt in the Glass House." It gave lurid descriptions of alleged American brutality in Porto Rico. Nazi Germany stands up as the defender of Porto Rico, crushed by the United States and exploited by American capital, the paper said. The rule of Gov. Blanton Winship of Porto Rico was likened to that of Dictator Josef Stalin of soviet Russia.

Scolds Coffee Buyers.

The Schwarzes Korps scolded the German public for the hours they spent standing in line to buy coffee. The editorial included an involved declaration that if coffee came from America nobody would want it anyhow, because "America's Jewish government clique is agitating against Germany to couple the campaign of hatred with profits on armaments."

Casual readers got the impression that the United States is to blame for the lack of coffee. Although Germans showed some measure of patience when Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering launched and enforced his campaign of "guns instead of butter," the coffee shortage is rousing the anger of the people and especially the hausfrau.

The Lokalanzeiger chose the cotton problem for its attack on the United States under the headline: "Hunger in the Cotton States."

Two Conservative Papers Die.

Two old conservative German newspapers ceased publication today. The Berliner Tageblatt was absorbed by the industrialist organ, Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. The Kruezzeitung—once Bismarck's organ—disappeared completely.

Newspapers owned by actual newspaper concerns are dying rapidly. The year book of the Nazi party shows that the party officially owns more than 300 newspapers. There were only 119 Nazi newspapers in Germany in the first year of Hitler's reign. In reality, the power of the state-owned press is infinitly greater than these figures reveal, because, while the Nazi papers mushroomed into big organization, their surviving rivals barely managed to exist by the skin of their teeth.

The Nazis, who formerly denounced "big trusts and concerns," have welded together the newspapers of entire districts, merely changing the masthead for different localities.

Boasts of Air Defense.

Although the German press headlined the passage in Hitler's speech about his faith in a "long peace," rearmament remains the order of the day.

The Wehrmacht, official organ of the supreme command of the fighting forces, disclosed with pride details of the air defenses on the western border facing France. In an article Lieut. Gen. Kitzinger, commander of the western fortifications zone, described the air defense measures as "an air barrier of a strength and size never before achieved."

All hangars, anti-aircraft batteries, searchlight batteries, and other equipment are protected by armor and reinforced concrete, he said. The air defense emplacements run parallel to and just behind the entire length of the fortifications zone.

Balloon Barrages Prepared.

"Searchlight batteries are attached to the anti-aircraft artillery and their illumination zone corresponds to the firing zone of the guns," Lieut. Gen. Kitzinger said. "Balloon barrages are stationed in particularly important zones. These are sent aloft on steel cables."

[In a balloon barrage netting or steel strands are anchored between balloons, thus providing a hazard for enemy planes.]

The Nazis claim the balloon barrages can attain a height which makes it practically impossible for planes to fly over them.

Seize 60 in Naples 'Corner' as Coffee Soars to $1.50

NAPLES, Italy, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Police arrested sixty persons here today on charges of cornering the local coffee market and running the price up to the equivalent of $1.50 a pound. The recent coffee shortage in Naples was attributed to the group. Rome and other Italian cities have had coffee shortages. Importations have been halted pending negotiation of a new trade agreement with Brazil.

FASCIST GENERAL PRAISES ITALIANS IN SPANISH WAR

Tells Duce 355 Died in Catalonia.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Jan. 31.—A full account of the part Italian volunteers played in the Catalan offensive in the Spanish civil war from Dec. 23 to Jan. 27 was given today by Gen. Gambara, commander in chief of the volunteer corps, in a detailed report to Premier Mussolini.

Gen. Gambara said an aggregate of seventy officers and 620 men were killed, and 350 officers and 4,000 men wounded during the offensive. Of these the Italian casualties were thirty-nine officers and 316 men killed and 200 officers and 2,000 men wounded, he said.

The figures, when added to those previously published, raise the total of Italian casualties in Spain since the beginning of the civil war to about 17,000.

Captures 16,500 Prisoners.

The report said that during the offensive the CTV [corps of volunteer troops] captured 16,500 prisoners out of a total of 40,000.

The CTV engaged 108 loyalist battalions, or about half the total loyalist reserves, and advanced a depth of 155 miles in enemy territory, Mussolini was told.

The CTV was composed of one all-Italian division—the Littorio—and three mixed divisions—the Black, Green, and Blue Arrows.

Gen. Gambara said the battle ended on the night of Jan. 27 when the CTV vanguard completely surrounded Barcelona from the north, occupied Badalona, and isolated the Catalan capital from what remained of its army and from France.

Begin Counterdrive Dec. 28.

"Within eight days of the opening of the Catalan offensive," the general said, "the Lerida-Tarragona highway was cut by the CTV. This success upset defense plans. In an attempt to recuperate lost positions the republicans [loyalists] launched a counteroffensive on Dec. 28 which reached its maximum intensity on Dec. 30."

The CTV repulsed the attack aimed at its left flank and continued to advance in accordance with the "new tactical principle that the flank is in effect defended by a frontal attack," Gen. Gambara wrote.

"On Jan. 4, as a consequence of our repeatedly proved superiority, Borjas Blancas was captured," his report said.

Hits at Igualada.

"The loss of this town caused crumbling of the first republican [loyalist] defense based on the conception of 'dynamic counteroffensive.' The CTV then advanced along the 'corridor' between Vinaixa and Montblanch with Igualada as the objective because the last named was a vital center of Barcelona's fortification belt."

Proceeding with great speed along the Sarreal-Santa Coloma highway, Gen. Gambara went on, the Littorio division occupied the latter town.

"The continuity of advance was made possible by the rotation of CTV divisions which, while united and supported in formidable quadrilateral formation, engaged in battle alternately," Gen. Gambara concluded.

HITLER AND DUCE RENEW PLEDGES OF FRIENDSHIP

Predict Fighting Speech by Mussolini Today.

ROME, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Twenty thousand Blackshirt troops encamped in Rome tonight in expectation of a fighting speech tomorrow by Premier Mussolini. Fascists felt that Reichsfuehrer Hitler with his speech yesterday had strengthened Italy's hand in her colonial demands on France.

If Duce is expected to speak at a celebration of the founding of the Fascist militia sixteen years ago. Today he and Hitler exchanged telegrams reaffirming Italian-German friendship. A statement from official quarters declared Hitler's reichstag speech pledging support if Italy were attacked showed the "unshakability of bonds between Italy and Germany."

Predicts Crisis Over Colonies.

Colonial demands of the two nations "will dominate a large part of European history in the near future," Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist spokesman, wrote in Il Giornale d'Italia.

"Solidarity between Italy and Germany can develop, whenever it might be assailed by any reckless foreign aberration, into an armed alliance," Gayda wrote, "ready to let loose an ever ready mass of 125,000,000 men powerfully armed and spiritually fired.

[It was apparent Gayda meant the combined populations of Germany and Italy, not merely the adult male populations of the two countries.]

"Hitler knows Italy does not seek undue adventures nor think of disordered, aggressive violence against the vital interests of others, but asks only just payment of accounts and respect for its proved rights."

New Army Calls Reported.

When Italian and German colonial demands would reach the crisis stage was unpredictable. Some observers thought they might be pressed after a final rebel victory in Spain.

"Italian and German questions are bound together and are laid on the table with perfect synchronization," said Il Lavoro Facista, organ of the Fascist syndicates.

In private quarters there were rumors that specialists of the reserve army class born in 1912 as well as reserve officers born in 1896 had received letters instructing them to await orders. The government on Jan. 25 called 60,000 reservists of the 1901 class to report Feb. 1, and indicated more would be called.

Hitler Aid in Rome.

Victor Lutze, chief of German Hitler troops, was in Rome for the Fascist militia celebration. Since its founding the militia has provided thousands of fighters for the conquest of Ethiopia and to aid the Spanish rebels.

Two thousand veterans of the Spanish war will be among the 20,000 that goosestep past Mussolini tomorrow after a ceremony at the unknown soldier's monument, where Il Duce will award decorations for valor and address his followers.

Mussolini's speech is expected to glorify 3,045 Blackshirts who were killed and 6,390 wounded in the Ethiopian and Spanish wars. The speech is anxiously awaited for an indication of his intentions this year.

Windsor Turns Down Bid to Rally of British Legion

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The duke of Windsor today indicated he was not likely to return to England for at least six months. Replying to an invitation to a rally next summer of the west Wales district of the British Legion, the former king wrote for himself and the duchess: "While we greatly appreciate the invitation our plans for a visit to England are not sufficiently advanced to make it possible for us to accept."

MOSCOW HINTS IT WOULD WELCOME NAZI FRIENDSHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 31.—Condemning Great Britain's policy of appeasing the Fascist dictators and reviling France for failing to open its frontiers for aid to loyalist Spain, the Moscow Izvestia today hinted that the soviet Russian government may change its foreign policy.

"Should Germany extend a hand to Russia, it will not remain floating in the air," Izvestia said.

The paper was indignant because of the treatment recently accorded Ivan Maisky, soviet ambassador in London. Maisky was not received by Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, either before or after the latter's visit to Rome with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Izvestia's article recalled to observers recent reports of German-Russian negotiations for a trade treaty, which Moscow was reported willing to sign providing Germany would abandon its plan to create an independent Ukrainian state.

THOUSANDS RIOT IN LONDON; CRY 'ARMS FOR SPAIN'

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Thousands of demonstrators, shouting "we want arms for Spain," snarled trafic in Piccadilly circus just as the many theaters of the west end were emptying tonight.

Some of the demonstrators attempted to lie down in the streets. They were yanked up by policemen. Mounted police rode onto sidewalks to disperse the demonstrators. More than 30 were arrested.

The group went into Piccadilly after about 2,000 had demonstrated outside the house of commons, shouting "let Chamberlain come out here" and "we demand arms for Spain." Twelve persons were arrested while trying to carry a coffin into the house as Chamberlain was speaking in defense of his policy of non-intervention in Spain's civil war.

BRITISH SPEED UP AIR REARMING TO CATCH GERMANS

Predict They'll Pass Nazis in Output of Planes.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31.—On the eve of the beginning of a crucial period in the European gladiatorial arena, the British today said they were giving the Germans a run for their money in the production of fighting planes. Experts said that in three months' time British warplane production would exceed that of Germany.

Special articles in the press stressed that Great Britain is accelerating rearmament in the air. In the Daily Telegraph, Group Capt. L. G. S. Payne said the present output of military planes has been quadrupled in the last 12 months and now exceed 400 planes a month. Thus, he said, for the first time in several years Britain is within a reasonable distance of equalling the German production rate. This rate is estimated to be about 650 planes a month.

Output Near War Peak.

The Daily Herald went further. It said British production is nearing the world war peak of 3,000 planes a month.

It is claimed that Britain this year—the fourth of a five year expansion program—will see a plane turned out every few minutes with the production rate three times that of last year.

These figures are all estimates. Just how many planes the British have is a secret. The outburst of claims about the production rate follows Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's statement Saturday that production "had been doubled in the last few months."

It is a fact that nearly 2,000 firms are working on aircraft production. Some factories, such as Viscount Nuffield's and Lord Austin's, are not yet on a full production basis.

Capt. Payne pointed out that while production capacity is limited, provision for the fleet air arm must reduce the number of machines available for home defense. He said the need still exists for an increase in first line strength of the counter offensive bombing force reserves.

Cite Three Causes for Lagging.

The claim that production of military planes is up to scratch is significant. There is no doubt the British have been lagging far behind other countries in both military and civil aviation. The British attribute this to three causes:

1. The failure of Earl Baldwin, when he was prime minister, to embark on an air expansion program enabled the Germans to get a two year jump in plane production between the years of 1933 and 1935. The British expansion plan began in 1935.

2. Because, contrary to the German policy of throwing economics overboard and concentrating on warplane production without consideration for costs, the British tried to keep up both ends of the policy of extending exports and trade and, at the same time, centered as much expenditure as possible on air rearmament.

3. The difficulty in the initial stages of getting this country's industry organized for mass production. British industry is not organized for mass production like the American or German, except, perhaps, the automobile industry. The shadow factory scheme of production was intended expressly to repair this deficiency.

[Under the shadow factory scheme certain plants turn out plane parts which then are assembled in other factories.]

Mrs. August Bernero and her children, Sandra, age 2, and Donna, 8 months.

If his wife would get a divorce, August Bernero would be willing to pay and pay, his attorney told Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday. But Bernero is opposed to paying separate maintenance to his wife, Martha, who is 29 years old and lives at 4915 Louise avenue, Niles Center. Mrs. Bernero had asked Judge Robert C. O'Connell to cite her husband for contempt because he is $42.50 in arrears on monthly payments of $85 he had been ordered to make.

The matter is urgent, Judge O'Connell was told, because the couple's two babies, Sandra, 2 years old, and Donna, 8 months old, are having to go without proper food and clothing. The case was continued to Feb. 14.

LOYALISTS FIGHT IN MOUNTAINS TO HALT REBEL PUSH

Defend 'Devil's Bridge' Near Pass to France.

LA TOUR DE CAROL, France [on the Spanish Border], Jan. 31.—(AP)—Spanish government's anarchist unit, the Durruti, fought desperately along the gorges of the upper Segre river on Devil's Bridge today to protect Puigcerda, the road and rail gateway to France.

Knee deep in heavy snow in the Pyrenees, the column comprising about 10,000 men tried to hold the rebels south of Seo de Urgel, thirty-four mountain miles west of Puigcerda along the French border. The anarchists had little or no artillery, but were well equipped with automatic rifles and small arms. Their attackers were well trained Navarrese mountain troops, who dragged field batteries with them.

The Navarrese fought their way up the Segre river gorge to the towns of Coll de Nargo, Figols, and Organa, and then stormed and captured Figols peak, ten miles south of Seo de Urgel.

Rock Archway Beside River.

By sundown they had reached the foot of Devil's Bridge, a huge ridge of rock forming a natural archway by the side of the river gorge. There the Durruti column held. Beyond Devil's Bridge the twisting highway rises gradually to Seo de Urgel, already deserted by most of its civil and refugee population.

Government troops hastily threw together barricades for a new defense line across the highway between Seo de Urgel and Puigcerda.

High in their tiny mountain republic, Andorrans excitedly followed reports of the battle nearby. If Seo de Urgel falls, Andorra's only road connection with Spain will be in rebel hands.

Declare 40 Are Traitors.

At Puigcerda, meanwhile, Col. Garci Vivangos clamped strict military control over the refugee swollen town after a war council in which forty civil guards were found guilty of treason. The forty, who were supporters of the anarchist leader of Puigcerda, Enrico Quintella, escaped into the mountains. Quintella, who attempted to seize control of the town a few days ago, also had disappeared.

About 15,000 refugees were jammed around the Puigcerda railway station seeking entry into France. French authorities at La Tour de Carol, first railroad station on the French side, were passing about 3,000 refugees per day into France by train. All were women, children, old men, and wounded soldiers. At Le Perthus and Cerbere, other points along the border, about 3,000 crossed at each point.

France Brings Up Troops.

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Heavy reënforcements of French troops poured into the frontier region opposite Catalonia tonight to form a barrier against a possible mass retreat of the Spanish government army.

Generalissimo Franco's rebel armies, favored somewhat by better weather, regained some momentum in their smash against the center of the line along which the government sought to defend its remaining one-fourth of Catalonia.

The rebels were reported less than five miles from the important highway junction, Vich, about thirty miles north of Barcelona and the same distance from the French border. The town was under the fire of Franco's field guns. Vich dominates a main highway through the Pyrenees to the border at Puigcerda.

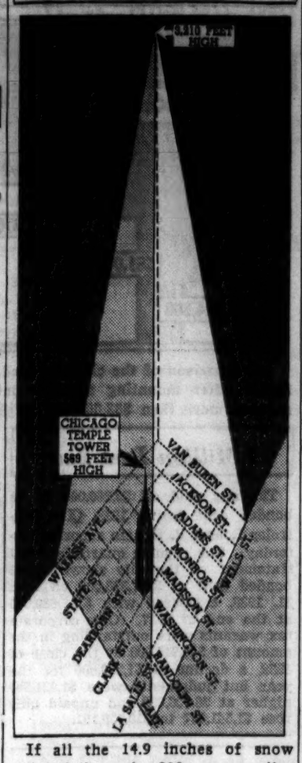
Pyramiding Snow



If all the 14.9 inches of snow which fell on the 202 square miles of Chicago were piled on an area the size of the elevated loop, it would make a pyramid 3,210 feet high. The loop covers 156 acres. Sunday night and Monday's storm covered the city with 269,146,092 cubic yards of snow, which weighed 22,877,418 tons.

A group of weather maps and snowfall charts in Tuesday's TRIBUNE furnished excellent material for the science classes at the Henry R. Clissold Elementary school, 2350 West 110th place, G. P. Drueck, principal, said yesterday.

Fifty copies of the Jan. 31 TRIBUNE were purchased for the use of students in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades. Miss Nettie Anthony, science teacher at the school, is using the charts as part of her instruction on weather conditions. Drueck said the maps and charts were readily understood by the students.

The Tribune art work showed the series of circumstances that brought on Monday's big snowfall, together with a record of the heaviest snowstorms of the last forty years.

CITIZENS DESERT TINY BIT OF SPAIN WITHIN FRANCE

Flee from Llivia in Fear of Franco Attack.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 31.—On the margin of the general flight of Spaniards before the advancing troops of rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco, an exodus of the entire population of Llivia—a tiny bit of Spain entirely surrounded by French territory—took place today.

Arrow locates Spanish town inside of France.

The exodus of the 500 citizens from their village, which is about four miles inside of France, northeast of Puigcerda, illustrates the terror sown by Franco's propaganda—which penetrated republican [loyalist] territory in advance of his front lines. It also showed the jittery state into which the whole of southern France has fallen as a result of the collapse of Catalonia's defense.

A Threat to France?

The desertion of Llivia gave rise in Perpignan and elsewhere to a crop of extravagant rumors. One said that Franco plans to occupy Llivia, and perhaps establish an air base there, threatening strategic French border positions from the rear.

The curious position of Llivia as a tiny dot of Spain in the midst of France dates back to the treaty of Pyrenees signed in 1659, under the terms of which all villages in the region were yielded by Spain to France. For some reason Llivia, which was classed at the time as a municipality, was allowed to remain Spanish.

Joined by Neutral Road.

Llivia is connected to Spain by a road which is under French control but neutralized by the treaty. The French permitted the Llivians, including the civil guards, to flee along this road but have kept mobile guards stationed along it to prevent any other Spanish refugees from trying to escape along the same route.

What attitude the French authorities would take in the event Franco attempted to occupy Llivia could not be ascertained. Inspection of the locality convinced THE TRIBUNE correspondent, however, that there is no possibility of its being used as an outpost against France, because there is not enough level ground in the region for even a primitive airport. Moreover, terms of the treaty forbid the sending of troops along the neutral road.

Hordes of deserters from the loyalist army have flocked to the French frontier at Puigcerda and the republic of Andorra to the west. The French border guard turned them back, including 1,500 who pretended to be wounded. The soldiers reported a lack of food and munitions and the lack of means to obtain fresh supplies.

Sentences Convicted Bank Bandit in Fake Money Case

Harold I. Peterson, who is serving a 20 year sentence for robbery in the Missouri state penitentiary, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Charles E. Woodward in federal District court to serve a year and day concurrently with the robbery term for possession and passing of counterfeit money. Peterson was indicted in the counbond and fled to Missouri. There he robbed a bank and was sentenced for that crime. He told the court yesterday that the federal indictment made it impossible for him to be paroled on the state charge.

IMMORTAL IN BRONZE

By CALEB

AGAINST the backdrop of swirling fog that shrouds our Michigan Avenue Bridge, a curtain seems to rise. Ghostly hands reset the stage for one fleeting glimpse into a drama of danger and gallantry never conjured into existence by any playwright. Solid stone and towering buildings dissolve into snowdrifted wilderness. Civilization's uproar becomes such utter silence you can hear the creak of thongs, the sharp crack of broken twigs, the rasp of rough keel over boulder-strewn trail.

These, going by in the unbroken dimness of an uncharted world, are Shapes of Destiny. On their valor, on the surety of their passing, on the hazard of their final arrival, hang a thousand miracle events in the future making of the America-to-be.

You could touch them as you pass; but you don't even see them. The figures: seven men, a woman, an infant, and a dog. The setting: primeval vastness, the bleak solitude of an unknown new land. A pioneer handful of skinclad Frenchmen and Indians on snowshoes, portaging their birchbark canoe over the site of "the world's youngest large city," a century and a half before its existence.

You could touch them as you pass by; yet you don't even see them. For these unsung, forgotten heroes have been phantoms some two hundred and fifty-eight years; the memory of them is now only a glimmer in the far-off mirage of History. Faces bent to the sharp forest winds, backs straining to the hard pull of laden canoe and frozen trail——

But suppose we pause for a moment and rescue this scene, in our minds, from the centuried oblivion that has swallowed it. Let us see it in the sharp, realizing light of its true significance; the significance that, had this intrepid band not passed here, there might have been no Chicago! Bitten in bronze, a plate tells why: "In honor of Rene Robert Cavalier Sieur de La Salle and Henry de Tonti, who passed through the Chicago River on their way to the Mississippi, December, 1681."

The very fact that we are standing here announces that their valor did suffice. Surety did crown their passing. Never could miracle events have rested in safer hands. For La Salle, with Tonti, their faithful Indians, canoe, and dog, found their Mississippi . . . and this immortalizing bronze is but a shadow of the legacy they left behind in a famous Chicago street, and in scores of famous Chicago buildings, businesses and institutions, that today bear the historic name LA SALLE.

U. S. CIVILIZATION ROOTED IN EARLY TENNESSEE AREA

Model State Organized at Jonesboro in 1784.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Jonesboro, Tenn., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—This valley between the Great Smoky mountains and the Cumberlands, where the Watauga, the Nolichucky, and the Holston waters flow, has been called the germ cell of American civilization.

These hills that open to all windows here may lift the thought of today's children to a friendly universe and its Maker, or to the possibilities of an American Ruhr backed by agriculture, or to the many social problems that have been left in the wake of a marching people.

When the population of the region, now in the millions, was about 25,000—made up of English, Scotch-Irish, Welsh, Germans, and French Huguenots, who filtered through the mountain troughs from Virginia and the Carolinas from 1770 on in an ever increasing wave—life was a desperate adventure and freedom something to fight for.

Model Government Set Up.

Uncertain whether they were a part of North Carolina or Virginia, certain that they would get no help from any government against foreign powers and lurking savages, these men who were more than settlers, for they were projectors, undertook self-government and protection, first in the Watauga association and then in "the lost state of Franklin."

This state was organized with Jonesboro as its capital in 1784, with a constitution providing a model government in protection of civil and property rights and a Bill of Rights declaring the following:

"That all political power is vested in and derived from the people.

"That the people of the state ought to have the sole and exclusive right of regulating internal government and the police thereof.

"That the legislative, executive, and judicial powers of government ought to be forever separate and distinct from each other.

"That freedom of the press is one of the greatest bulwarks of liberty and therefore ought never to be restrained.

"That all men have a natural and inallenable right to worship God Almighty according to the dictates of their own conscience.

"That a frequent recurrence to fundamental principles is absolutely necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty."

Taken in by Tennessee.

After two years of existence the state became a county of North Carolina and in 1796 formed part of the new state of Tennessee. John Sevier, whose record as an Indian fighter and leader of colonial troops in eastern raids against the British made him a popular figure, was the wise governor of Franklin. When North Carolina enemies had him arrested for treason he simply rode out of the courthouse to freedom. He was six times governor of Tennessee and four times elected to congress.

From here emanated the spirit of men of elemental force and dignity, men who were resolved to die if necessary to leave a government of freedom to their children. They established the church and the first school west of the mountains, now Washington college near here. They helped turn the tide against the Indians at the Battle of Point Pleasant, went to the aid of Charleston in 1775, aided in the opening of Cumberland Gap and the founding of Nashville, and backed George Rogers Clark on his expedition to the northwest. The seeds of liberty nourished in the western hills of Virginia became here a vigorous plant that pushed its tendrils clear across the continent.

Honor Memory of Pioneer.

The ten commandments are engraved in brass over the door of the Jonesboro courthouse today, and there is a fountain memorial to Jacob Brown, merchant and gunsmith, who founded a settlement on the Nollichucky river eight miles away, fought under Sevier at Kings mountain, became a major of the State of Franklin militia, and was the ancestor of two governors of Georgia.

In a meadow back of the veterans' home at Johnson City is the cabin of Robert Young, whose trusty rifle killed the British commander at Kings mountain, Col. Patrick Ferguson. Ferguson's grave is an untended little pile of stones near a spring at Kings mountain, where the wounded crawled to drink. All is quiet there now except the rustling of the wind in the winter leaves and the sound of the little brook over stones.

The influences, the results of that place are powerful but invisible, just as are the commandments over the courthouse door at Jonesboro and the human rights written with blood into the constitution of the state of Franklin.

The Young cabin looks as though he had left it only yesterday, telling his wife and children to stay close to the door and keep the door and three small wooden windows closed. It is a firm cabin of ax hewn logs, a double cabin 20 feet wide and 60 feet long, with a loft reached by ladders. It is the same kind of a cabin and loft that may be seen at New Salem, where Lincoln crawled up to sleep. There is a runway in the middle and a division for two fireplaces. It is surrounded by cedar, honey locust, and crabapple trees. A cardinal sings in the hedge. In the near foreground today are railroad tracks, big hospital buildings, and a rayon mill.

Jonesboro rests on its laurels. It has not grown much since the early days, and on its narrow streets many of the pioneer houses still stand. The Chester inn, a two story white building with an ancient and sagging porch, looks much as it did when Andrew Jackson, James K. Polk, and Andrew Johnson stopped there. Next door, however, a pretty English type inn has been built where modern bus travelers can get all the comforts of home.

Jackson's Duel Recalled.

The story is told of a duel fought near here between Jackson, then a practicing lawyer, and Waighstill Avery, another lawyer, after Jackson had substituted a side of bacon for a law book by Bacon in Avery's saddlebags. Jonesboro remains an agricultural center, more conscious perhaps of its history than other towns and less touched by the pulsing industrial life to the north and south.

In Sevierville, one of the gateways to the dim blue line of the Great Smoky mountains, a town on the Pigeon river where John Sevier once lived and where his soldiers set up claims and drove off the Indians in a battle at Boyd's creek, one may observe many of the problems that are troubling the members of the Southern Welfare conference. This is not so much in the town itself, which has the normal comforts and opportunities, but in the mountain visitors seen on the streets, those who come in with mule teams or walk from the hidden valleys that civilization has forgotten.

Poverty and ignorance are apparent in too many faces that stare into the bright store windows. The dreams of the pioneers have not been fulfilled here. Perhaps it was always so, for it is noted in the state papers of John Sevier as governor of Franklin that he expressed concern for the poor and made provision for them.

Bible Training School.

The newest industry in the Sevierville countryside is a Bible training school under the auspices of the Church of God. This has taken over the Murphy Collegiate institute buildings and campus on a hill back of town, and has gathered an assortment of eager young persons who are planning to go into church work.

They have a radio program and a correspondence school and many rules. There are about 150 students and expenses are $125 for six months. The college has some rich farm land which helps out in the expenses. Church, chapel, and Sunday school are required, and the playing or singing of "unbecoming worldly songs" is frowned upon. There are twenty-seven rules of conduct to live up to and much work and study to be done. The Rev. Zeno C. Tharp is the head.

"Them is rock bottom rules and they won't hear to breaking them nohow," said a new student from the wilds of Alabama.

Pastors, evangelists, and Christian workers come out of these schools, and the mountains are dotted with community settlements and other aids to the people, supported by outside help.

Youth Problem Apparent.

The youth problem cuts across all problems, and it is noticeable that here and in other parts of the hills the churches are drawing youth; that they are accepting the Christian faith and way of life as a fundamental approach to all their other problems. At a recent youth conference only about 25 in 1,000 expressed desire to spend their lives on farms. The others are looking toward jobs and a new life away from the hills.

They declared the need is for vocational training, for more industrial high schools, where business would use the apprenticeship system while the young people were still in school. It was stated that the greatest threat to democracy was the three and a half million to five million young people in the south not in school and not working; that in this they had lost their American birthright.

[The eighth article in this series will tell of the conquest of Cumberland Gap and some of the problems of the southern Appalachians.]

BRITISH AIRLINER ESCAPES ATTACK BY JAP WARSHIPS

Plane Fired On Near Isle Off South China.

HONGKONG, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A radio message saying "we are being fired at by Japanese warships west of Waichow" was received here today from the pilot of the Imperial Airways plane Delia en route to Bangkok, Siam, from Hongkong with two passengers.

Dotted line indicates route of plane and arrow the point of attack.

Waichow Island is off the South China coast where the Japanese have been attacking Pakhoi, and near French Indo-China, over which the British plane passes on its regular route to Bangkok.

The plane was not hit, it reported later, and landed safely at Hanoi, Indo-China. Another Imperial Airways plane, a few minutes behind the Delia, was not fired upon.

The incident followed a recent warning by K. Okazaki, Japanese consul general at Canton, against British, French or other foreign planes flying over Japanese-occupied areas to and from Hongkong. Imperial Airways officials said their planes did not fly over any Japanese-occupied areas.

Chinese Burn Jap Plane.

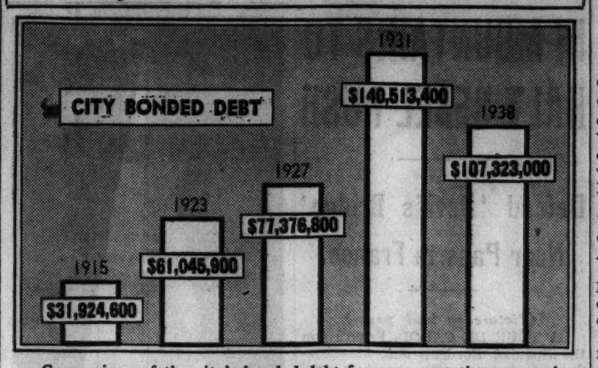
SHANGHAI, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Chinese guerrillas today burned a Japan Airways company commercial plane after it made a forced landing in a rice field near Nanking. The crew of three Japanese escaped.

Gen. Wu Tries for Peace.

PEKING, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Gen. Wu Pei-fu, once-powerful Chinese military leader, said today that negotiations for him to head a "peace movement" were under way with Japanese army commanders.

Gen. Wu said nothing regarding a new central government for Japanese-occupied areas of China. There have been reports that he had agreed to head such a government. The general once was considered anti-Japanese.

City Debt Cut in Last 7 Years



Comparison of the city's bonded debt for representative years since 1915. After mounting steadily until its peak in 1931, it has been reduced more than $33,000,000 in the last seven years.

9 Million Last Year

The city paid off $9,366,000 of its bonded debt during 1938, City Controler Robert B. Upham reported yesterday. The regular quarterly fiscal statement of the city showed total bonded debt of $107,323,000 on Dec. 31, 1938, compared with $116,689,000 at the end of 1937. City corporate tax warants were outstanding in the amount of $46,915,000 at the close of 1938, a decline of $1,290,000 for the year but judgments were $1,021,591 higher at $6,906,832 and unpaid bills rose $1,541,697 to $10,750,191.

New Bedford Mayor Freed of Bribe Soliciting Charge

Taunton, Mass., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Leo E. J. Carney, recently inaugurated for a second term as mayor of the textile city of New Bedford, tonight was acquitted of charges that he solicited a $25,000 bribe for a city garbage collection contract. Carney was indicted last October by a special grand jury which investigated New Bedford municipal affairs and indicted forty-five persons, including eighteen city officials. The mayor was reëlected while under indictment.

SAYS U. S. SEEKS CANADIAN LAND FOR EXPANSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 31.—C. H. Cahan, former secretary of state for Canada, today charged in the house of commons that the "politicians in Washington" were seeking territorial expansion in Canada. He said they were imitating Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini in their demands.

Cahan said one claim from the United States was for a fifty mile wide corridor from the United States to Alaska.

"This is even more insolent than Hitler's claim to the Memel corridor or Mussolini's claim to Tunisia," he commented.

Quoting from newspaper dispatches from Washington, D. C., he charged that the American war department is studying the development of the deep sea channel in the St. Lawrence as part of the defense plans of the United States. He alleged another claim was that Great Britain should deliver Bermuda to the American government.

Aims at Husband, Shoots Bystander; Asks Clemency

Mrs. Anna Hall, 32 years old, who fired a shotgun at her husband Dec. 2 but missed him and slightly wounded a bystander, pleaded guilty yesterday in the Kane County Circuit court to assault with intent to murder. Judge Frank W. Shepherd took under advisement a plea to place her on probation. Mrs. Hall's husband, Frank, is a farmer residing near Elgin.

FIVE TOWNS LIVE IN FEAR OF 'BOYS' AT STATE SCHOOL

St. Charles Unit 'Problem Child' of Prisons.

(This is the second article of a series describing conditions in the penal institutions of Illinois.)

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

One of the problem institutions in the Illinois penal system is the St. Charles Training School for Boys. Originally intended as a home for dependent boys, it has become an unwalled stopping place for young toughs working their way up in the business of major crime.

St. Charles Training school [arrow] and five towns menaced by inmates.

More than 500 young thieves and hoodlums roam the 1,265 acres. Ordinary farm fence is all that surrounds the grounds, which stretch for two miles along state highway 330, three miles west of the town of St. Charles in the Fox river valley.

Guards Bear No Arms.

The guards are known as attendants so that no prison stigma will attach to the institution. And they are attendants in fact since they carry no arms and have nothing except their fists with which to maintain discipline. Many of the inmates, whose ages range from 16 to 21 years, are husky enough to be in the prize ring.

From this school come many of the vicious criminals of tomorrow. In fact, many of the inmates are the criminals of today. As soon as they manage to escape or be paroled, police say, they go back to robbery, rape, and thievery.

The prisoners, if they can be called such, can and do escape at will. All they have to do is to avoid the vigilance of their keepers. If fleet of foot, they can easily outdistance the attendants, who are not in the same fine athletic fettle in which their charges are kept by a definite pleasure and training program.

Admit Charges Belong in Prison.

Capt. W. T. Harmon, managing officer of the school, and his assistant, Arnold J. Rauen, say they are doing the best they can to maintain discipline. They admit that at least 25 or 30 per cent of the "boys" do not belong in the school. They are too tough, said Capt. Harmon. They should be in a walled prison.

The school is not equipped to handle criminals. It was not built for thieves and hoodlums. When the late John W. [Bet a Million] Gates donated the ground for a state school for boys he had in mind an institution for under privileged children, not young criminals. Little did he dream, say the people of St. Charles, that his philanthropy would come back to plague his former neighbors in the Fox river valley.

But it has come back. Residents of the five towns of St. Charles, Elgin, Aurora, Geneva, and Batavia live in constant fear of escaped hoodlums from the St. Charles school. They make sure windows and doors are bolted before they retire at night. The merchants have revolvers ready for a possible invasion by St. Charles boys.

Dr. I. G. Langum, mayor of St. Charles, is one of those who believes in preparedness.

"See that," said Mayor Langum as he slid open a drawer in the desk of his office and pointed to a revolver. "I keep it handy at all times because of those so-called boys from St. Charles. We never allow our daughter to go out at night unless she is chaperoned. If she goes to the west side of town either my wife or I or a police squad pick her up and see her safely home."

W. T. Harmon (left), managing officer of St. Charles training school, and his assistant, Arnold J. Rauen.

"Some day the St. Charles school will wrap itself right around some governor's neck," added Mayor Langum.

The mayor's attitude toward the school is common to most of the townspeople. They do not blame Capt. Harmon. As one town official put it; "He is a fine man in the wrong pew."

Capt. Harmon went to St. Charles after 20 years of teaching and coaching at Illinois college in Jacksonville. He has worked out an effective program for his younger charges who do not have criminal backgrounds. His friends say he would have a good measure of success in rehabilitating boys if he did not have to contend with the older and tougher element sent to him by the Juvenile, Criminal, and Circuit courts throughout the state. His assistant, Rauen, is considered capable in his work with the boys but he is obliged to spend many evenings chasing runaways.

Five Escape Since Jan. 1.

Capt. Harmon says that only twenty-four of his charges ran away from the school during 1938. The year 1939 got off to a flying start, however, with five escapes on Jan. 5.

In this connection Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan of Chicago believes that many of the younger inmates are contaminated in St. Charles under the present system and that much police work is wasted as a result of the numerous escapes. The institution does not keep an accurate record of escapes, but officials admit that these have averaged more than twenty-five a year in the last five years.

"I think St. Charles is a splendid place for minor offenders," said Chief Sullivan. "It should not be used to incarcerate young men who commit felonies. They contaminate boys who would not otherwise turn to serious crimes.

"Every institution should have adequate security for the type of people placed therein. In recent years reform interlopers have been advocating no security at our institutions. Many of the St. Charles prisoners stop there only long enough to fatten, some only for a cup of coffee. The police arrest young criminals after weeks of tedious work, only to find that they have escaped from St. Charles. It certainly is discouraging."

Chief Sullivan cited a few cases of St. Charles escapers as proof of his statements.

One was Bradford [Skippy] Fields, who in 1934, boasted in the Chicago detective bureau that he and his gang committed 200 robberies. Fields, then 17 years old, prided himself on being the leader of the "Saturday night gang" of young hoodlums who terrorized north side residents.

Fields spent several terms in St. Charles, making his final escape in 1933 when he and four other youths drove away in the superintendent's car. He is now serving a one year to life sentence in prison.

Two Slain in Robbery.

Harry L. Walder, 19 years old, and Howard Allen, 16, two St. Charles escapers, were fatally shot by the Chicago police in an ambush in 1934 after they were trapped in the robbery of a restaurant at 1947 Fullerton avenue. They were identified by 125 robbery victims as they lay in the county morgue.

The most recent case, Chief Sullivan said, was that of Kenneth Altenburg, 15 years old, and Elton Pentecost, also 15, both of Evanston. Within a week after they walked away from St. Charles they started a five day crime wave in Evanston. When captured they confessed thirty automobile thefts, six robberies, and four burglaries. They were sentenced to one year to life in prison.

U. S. GRAND JURY URGES QUIZ INTO NEW YORK WPA

Evidence of Ignorance and Fraud Found.

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Charging general laxity in the Works Progress administration, the November federal grand jury, which has returned several indictments against WPA contractors, returned a presentment today to Federal Judge William Bondy urging an investigation of all WPA frauds in New York.

The presentment, copies of which were sent to United States Attorney General Frank Murphy, and to Gregory F. Noonan, acting United States attorney in New York, urged that the inquiry be conducted under the jurisdiction of one prosecutor. The implication was that a special prosecutor should be named.

Graft Is Indicated.

"The examples of law breaking which we found," the jury's presentment said, "indicate the presence of that common factor in all public affairs—graft and the condonation of graft."

The presentment said the grand jury had returned indictments charging criminal participation by WPA officials in submitting false claims to the United States treasury department, that witnesses frequently disclosed facts which merited scrutiny and that the pursuit of these facts gave indications of separate frauds and at times shocking official ignorance.

Jury Tells Fixing.

"Testimony before this grand jury," the presentment said, "forcefully called its attention to many instances of supplies sold to the government through the agency of contacts, many instances of equipment rental maneuvered by payment of gratuities, many instances where certifications of vouchers depend upon the whim of a fixed employe. These are some of the matters, the cumulative effects of which indicate a general laxity in the administration of public works."

The presentment, which was signed by Robert P. Beggs, foreman of the grand jury, explained: "The administration of public works is a grave responsibility when we consider the vast amount of money invested in the creation of work and the absorption of millions of idle man hours."

HAMMER SLAYER GETS A 60 YEAR PRISON SENTENCE

Sigurd Andersen, 47 years old, a WPA laborer, was found guilty of murder yesterday by Judge Robert Jerome Dunne of Criminal court, who heard the case without a jury, and sentenced to sixty years in prison. On Dec. 10 Andersen killed Mrs. Dagmar Olsen, 57, in whose home at 3600 Wrightwood avenue he had roomed for three years. At the end of a five day drinking spree, Andersen confessed, he struck her with a hammer, stabbed her with a screw driver, and slashed her throat with a bread knife. Mrs. Olsen had criticized his drinking. Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach pleaded for mercy.

Ax Raiders Rest a Week, Then Smash 3 Handbooks

After a week's layoff ax squads from the state's attorney's office went into action again late yesterday and wrecked three handbooks in rapid succession. The raids were at 1430-32 Madison street, 950 Madison, and 923 Madison. Six men were arrested as keepers.

ADMITS SLAYING MANUFACTURER IN INDIANA ROBBERY

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 31. — [Special.]—Raymond Duvall, captured ten days ago in Louisiana after eluding federal agents for a year and two days, today confessed the holdup slaying of Clayton C. Potts, owner of the C. and G. Potts Machinist company of Indianapolis on March 15, 1937.

Duvall said he shot Potts, who was 74 years old, when the manufacturer grappled with him.

Duvall was accompanied in the Potts robbery by Leonard C. Jackson and Amos E. Ward, both ex-convicts. Jackson and Ward are serving sixty year terms in the West Virginia state penitentiary for a $39,800 bank robbery in which Duvall was the leader.

Duvall is a native of Indianapolis. Ward's home was in Charleston, W. Va. Jackson came from Danville, Ill.

WITNESS TELLS WPA DONATIONS TO CHAVEZ FUND

Testimony of Politics Is Heard by Jury.

Albuquerque, N. M., Jan. 31.—(AP)—"Cash on the barrel-head" was demanded of WPA workers to finance an Albuquerque election campaign, a gray-haired WPA carpenter testified today at the trial of 35 defendants charged with conspiring to play politics with the New Mexico WPA.

Arthur Campbell told from the witness stand of a meeting of WPA timekeepers and foremen, which government witnesses said was organized for the purpose of capturing the city hall for United States Senator Dennis Chavez [D., N. M.].

At the meeting, Campbell related, it was decided to assess every one making more than $48 a month—laborer's pay—the sum of $4 to go into the campaign war chest for the City Charter league, a campaign organization supported by Senator Chavez.

Time Payments Refused.

"I told them I would be glad to help out, but needed a little time to pay it in installments," Campbell testified.

"Joe Sandoval [a defendant] said there would be no installments, it was cash on the barrel head. He said it didn't matter to him personally, as he was turning the book over to Dick Durand as treasurer of the organization."

Richard Durand, a defendant, was then a field agent in the federal internal revenue department.

"I suggested," Campbell continued, "some one finance these payments and let us boys pay when we could. I got the horse laugh on that."

Tell of Political Machine.

Several government witnesses testified a political machine was created to foster alleged ambitions of the Chavez organization to get control of the city government.

Walter Oglesby, a WPA worker, testified one of the defendants outlined this goal to assembled supervisory workers, adding, "The senator] already has the postoffice and the federal building, and we want to help him get the city hall."

The theme of the proceedings was the political rivalry between Senator Chavez and Clyde Tingley, then governor of New Mexico, over elections in the fall of 1937 on amendments to the state constitution.

COURT ORDERS LATE FILER FOR ALDERMAN PUT ON CITY BALLOT

A writ of mandamus ordering the board of election commissioners to accept the aldermanic nominating petition of John J. Broderick Jr., was issued yesterday by Judge Harry M. Fisher. Broderick the son of State Senator Broderick, had sought to file as candidate for alderman of the 27th ward.

J. J. Broderick Jr.

His petition, he charged, was refused because he presented it a few minutes after 5 p. m., the board's closing hour, on Jan. 24, which was the last day for filing. Judge Fisher held that since the law only specifies that the petition be filed thirty-five days before the election, it can be filed legally at any hour during the last day.

"It must be a policy of the law that the public be given every opportunity to present themselves as candidates in an election," said Judge Fisher. "In this case the board abused their own discretion."

WINS PROBATION IN SLAYING OF WPA FOREMAN

Walter Wielgorecki, 12334 South Ashland avenue, was placed on two years' probation yesterday by Judge Benjamin P. Epstein. On Dec. 16 Wielgorecki and Benjamin Simons, both former WPA laborers, were convicted of manslaughter for the death of Charles W. Cummings, their superintendent on a Calumet park project. Cummings was fatally injured in a fight after discharging the two men. Simons was sentenced previously to serve from one to fourteen years in prison. Judge Epstein said the evidence indicated Wielgorecki did not strike Cummings.

NEW DEAL'S NYA HELD PERIL TO U.S. WAGE STANDARDS

A. F. of L. Fears Army of Partly Trained Men.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 31.—(AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders today backed increased federal housing aid as an employment spur, but looked askance at a potential "army" of handymen" being created through the government's youth program possibly "to work at lower wages and break down our wage standards."

The federation's executive council questioned Aubrey Williams, director of the National Youth administration, about the effect NYA's vocational training program will have on the skilled labor market.

Fear for Wage Standards.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., reported the council suggested to Williams the establishment of national and local advisory boards composed of labor and employer representatives to work with NYA in training young mechanics who might be needed to develop an extensive armament program.

The council was concerned, Green said, by the effect vocational training for some 600,000 high school and college students may have on both the supply of skilled labor and craft workers' wage standards.

"We agree that the apprentice system should be flexible enough," he added, "to adjust itself to industrial and national needs. But we must guard against creation of an army of handymen, partially trained, who would be employed at lower wages and break down our wage standards."

The NYA chief assured the council, according to Green, that the surplus labor supply would be used before any new sources of skilled workers would be tapped if the government undertook a large arms construction program.

Housing Plan Doubled.

The federation's executive council voted to support amendments to enlarge the New Deal's slum clearance and low rent housing program.

Its building trades department informed the council that amendments to the low cost housing act already introduced in the senate would double the scope of the program and increase employment.

WARNS PRIMARY RULE IS BINDING ON VOTES IN 1940

Another warning was issued yesterday by Dwight H. Green's campaign headquarters that Republicans must stay in their own party's primary on Feb. 28 if they wish to vote in the G. O. P. presidential preference primary in April, 1940. Green is the choice of the regular Republican organization for mayor in the primary.

A law recently enacted by the legislature provides that Chicago voters may enter either primary on Feb. 28, regardless of which one they participated in last year. However, each voter will be bound by his party choice for twenty-three months.

"If Republicans desert the party in this primary, they will find themselves stranded in the Democratic primary for the next two years," said Mrs. Bertha Baur, G. O. P. national committeewoman.

Four Green meetings will be held tonight. The candidate will speak at two of them—in the 31st ward, at 3945 North avenue, at 8:30, and in the 41st ward, Edgebrook Community church, 6736 Loleta avenue, at 9:15. The other metings will be held in the 10th ward, 9008 Commercial avenue, and the 16th ward, Lundquist hall, 61st and Morgan streets.

Fifty young Republican leaders from all wards will meet tonight in the La Salle hotel to complete plans for a massmeeting in Green's honor on Feb. 15.

Retiring Policeman to Go on a Jaunt to South Seas

Policeman Francis Gallagher retired yesterday after nearly thirty years of service. During the entire time he was assigned to the East Side station. He received two creditable mentions for bravery. Policeman Gallagher, who is 59 years old, lives at 7515 Indiana avenue. Now he will celebrate, he announced, by taking a trip to the South Sea Islands.

Political Notes

State's Attorney Courtney's headquarters in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for mayor yesterday morning listed fifty-eight union labor leaders as members of the Courtney Labor club. In the afternoon, Mayor Kelly's headquarters issued a list of seventy labor organizations represented by 109 individuals on the executive council of the labor division of the All-Chicago committee.

Mayor Kelly's headquarters on Monday announced that the mayor had been indorsed by Jan Romaskiewicz, national president, and A. S. Szczerbowski, national secretary, of the Polish National alliance. Yesterday afternoon Courtney's headquarters announced that the prosecutor had been indorsed by the Polish National alliance of the 13th district.

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, announced yesterday that six employés of the state's attorney's office had resigned their posts to run for memberships in the city council on the Courtney ticket. Four assistant prosecutors he named, with their wards indicated in parentheses, are John S. Boyle [16th], John M. Long [17th], John J. Phillips [21st], and Richard H. Devine [42d]. The other two are Peter Bagnuolo [20th], a librarian, and Howard S. Christiansen [34th], a clerk.

In an indorsement of Mayor Kelly, State Representative Adam S. Mioduski, a Horner man who broke the regular organization slate in the 13th district last year, said:

"Mayor Kelly represents precisely the party principles and public service ideals of Gov. Horner and has thoroughly demonstrated his understanding of and his sympathy with the objectives of that great leader."

In a radio speech in behalf of State's Attorney Courtney last night, State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski said:

"I am gladly and willingly supporting the candidacy of Thomas J. Courtney. I know every civic minded person with pride for Chicago and its future will do likewise. His administration as mayor of Chicago will be as conscientious, economical, and decent as has been his service as state's attorney."

Mayor Kelly's headquarters announced that Circuit 23 of the Polish National alliance, which includes the Calumet district, last night unanimously indorsed the Kelly-Schreiber-Gordon ticket.

CONSTIPATED?

Don't Let Gas, Nerve Pressure Keep You Miserable

When you are constipated two things happen. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure causes headaches, a dull, lazy feeling, bilious spells, loss of appetite, and dizziness. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach, acid indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Then you can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sour. You feel tired out, grouchy, and miserable. Adlerika gives you the DOUBLE ACTION you need. This efficient carminative cathartic relieves that awful GAS almost at once. It usually clears the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight relief.

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

THEY NEEDN'T DIE!

Shield your baby from the deadly effects of unsuspected syphilis by being examined early in pregnancy by your physician or this clinic!

MEDICAL authorities have found that nine out of every ten babies of mothers with untreated syphilis are born dead or diseased!

And they have also found that of the babies who are born alive but diseased, only about one-fourth live beyond the first year unless given proper treatment!

Doesn't this suggest the wisdom of being examined for syphilis early in your pregnancy? For if infection is discovered before the fifth month, treatment can be started which will give you ten chances in eleven of bearing a healthy child!

Remember, it is entirely possible for you to be infected and not even suspect it. For syphilis can be innocently contracted, from drinking cups, towels, eating utensils, etc., and exist for months or years without your knowledge.

Mothers can also suffer!

Aside from its deadly effects on babies, untreated syphilis can be the cause of serious trouble in mothers. It may, for example, lead to heart disease, blindness, deafness, paralysis, or even insanity! Untreated gonorrhea is likewise a source of grave danger, as it can easily blind an infant's eyes at birth unless certain precautions are taken. Also, it frequently condemns women to mutilating pelvic operations that make it impossible for them ever to have children!

For these reasons, why not make up your mind to be examined for syphilis and gonorrhea before another week has passed? Such an examination can be obtained from your family doctor, or you can get it confidentially and inexpensively in the Women's Department of the Public Health Institute.

The Public Health Institute is the largest low-cost venereal disease clinic in the entire world. Since 1920, it has given more than 5 million examinations and treatments for syphilis and gonorrhea! Thus you are sure of getting medical attention of proved dependability.

No one is turned away!

Because the Public Health Institute was organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, it is able to provide expert venereal disease treatment at charges to fit the lowest income. The cost of a thorough examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including blood tests, urinalysis and gonorrheal smears, is surprisingly moderate, while individual treatments are available at fees so small that any employed person can readily pay them!

Nor does the Public Health Institute stop there in its efforts to make dependable venereal disease attention available to the entire community. Even persons who are temporarily short of money can make arrangements to be cared for! Thus there is no reason why any responsible venereal disease sufferer should be deprived of treatment.

SLOT MACHINE INQUIRY BY HOUSE STRIKES A SNAG

Committee Action Halted by Lack of Quorum.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Representative Peter C. Granata [R., Chicago] today blocked consideration of the Saltiel resolution to investigate slot machines in Illinois.

By raising the question of a quorum in the house executive committee Granata prevented a roll call on the resolution, which appeared in a position to be approved by a majority of the representatives present. A quorum of the committee is twelve; only seven were present.

Quiz of Two Demanded.

"What's the hurry?" Granata demanded when Representative Edward P. Saltiel [R., Chicago] proposed that the house help Attorney General Cassidy and T. P. Sullivan, chief of the state bureau of investigation, in their war against slot machines. "Let's call Cassidy and Sullivan before the committee to find out the facts."

"The executive committee is a clearing house, not a hearing body," Saltiel told him.

"I move that the committee send this resolution to the whole house and urge its adoption," Saltiel continued.

"And I move as a substitute that we ask Cassidy and Sullivan to appear before us," Granata said.

Representative Ira H. Streeper [R., Alton], who was in the chair, held with Saltiel that Granata's motion was out of order. Granata replied with the question of a quorum. This forced a roll call and Streeper had to adjourn the committee.

Saltiel said he would ask for another hearing on his resolution next week and would attempt to see that a full committee attendance was present.

John A. Pelka [R., Chicago] introduced a bill to prohibit the manufacture of slot machines in Illinois. He sponsored a similar measure in the 1937 session but it died in committee.

A bill to repeal the Saltiel law requiring couples to show proof of freedom from venereal diseases before receiving a marriage license was introduced by Representative Oral P. Tuttle [R., Harrisburg], who contended it discouraged matrimony.

More Diversion Asked.

The house adopted these resolutions:

By Representative Warren L. Wood [R., Joliet]—To send a delegation to Washington to ask increase in diversion of water from Lake Michigan to the Illinois and the Des Plaines rivers.

By Representatives Everett R. Peters [R., St. Joseph] and Clinton Searle [R., Rock Island]—Memorializing congress to continue the Dies committee on un-American activities.

And a third to encourage use of Illinois crude petroleum in petroleum products to be used in the state.

Investigation of the production and distribution of milk and recommendations for legislation by a committee of five members of each house was asked in a resolution presented by Representative Charles H. Weber [D., Chicago].

MARTIN ASSAILS FOES' COMPLAINT TO LABOR BOARD

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Homer Martin tonight termed the action of his foes in the United Automobile Workers contemptible in citing him to the National Labor Relations board on charges of unfair labor practices.

The status of the complaint filed by the C. I. O. recognized group contesting with Martin for control of the union was in doubt. The regional NLRB office here said it would be forwarded to Washington for a decision.

An unofficial source predicted there was little likelihood the NLRB would assume jurisdiction. Maurice Sugar, attorney for the anti-Martin faction, contended Martin may be termed an employer because he is acting in the interests of the employer in the Ford Motor company case.

JEALOUS, FATHER OF 6 SHOOTS HIS WIFE, KILLS SELF

Because he was jealous of his wife, Anna, Joseph Shuch, a retired tailor, critically wounded her yesterday, then shot himself to death in their home at 6951 Lowe avenue. The couple, both 52 years old, were parents of six children. Englewood police said Shuch had accused his wife of going out with a younger man.

After a quarrel yesterday, Shuch shot her three times through the body, then fired a shot through his own head. Neighbors found him dead on the kitchen floor. Mrs. Shuch fled to a rear porch and collapsed. The children are Helen, 27; Herman, 26; George, 22; John, 20; Leo, 18, and Mary, 17.

BILL FOR CURB ON MORONS PUT BEFORE SENATE

Habitual Criminal Penalties Urged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Mayor Kelly's bill to increase penalties for sex crime repeaters was introduced in the senate today by Harold G. Ward of Chicago, majority floor leader.

Nine days ago a delegation of club women led by Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, president of the Women's Civic council, appealed to Mayor Kelly to take action against sex criminals, and the bill brought in today is his answer.

Four Crimes Covered.

The measure would include four sex crimes under the provisions of the habitual criminal act. Upon a second conviction for any of these crimes, or the others listed in the act, the offender would have to be imprisoned for the maximum term possible for a first offense.

A third conviction would be punished similarly, but for at least fifteen years.

The four crimes and their present penalties are: Rape, one year to life imprisonment; crime against children, one to twenty years; crime against nature, one to ten years, and incest, one to twenty years.

The bill was referred to the judiciary committee, of which Ward is chairman.

Gateway Amendment Up.

Ward also introduced a resolution which if adopted by the house and senate would permit the so-called Gateway amendment to the state constitution to be submitted to a referendum. The Gateway amendment would make it possible to ask the people to vote on four changes in the constitution at one election, instead of just one change.

The senate adjourned until Tuesday.

CHEER GOV. HEIL'S LABOR PLAN FOR WISCONSIN PEACE

Wisconsin is going to have industrial peace through coöperation of labor leaders and industrialists. Members of either group who refuse to be honorable in their dealings can get out of the state. Gov. Julius P. Heil laid down that promise and those terms last night in an address at the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce of Waukegan and North Chicago.

The banquet, held at the Glen Flora Country club in Waukegan, was attended by 500 persons who cheered Gov. Heil as he outlined his principles of fair treatment for workers in industry. He is president of the Heil Manufacturing company of Milwaukee, a concern where labor troubles are unknown.

"I was wondering," said Gov. Heil, "if Illinois couldn't elect a Republican industrialist as governor. I am not criticizing your present governor, but there is nothing like a business man for a business administration."

REDUCE WOMAN BANK TELLER'S TERM IN THEFT

Mrs. Hazel Cornwall, who was convicted of embezzling $4,300 from the Western Springs State bank, where she was a teller, was sentenced yesterday to one year in the women's reformatory at Dwight.

When Mrs. Cornwall was tried in November and found guilty, she was sentenced to one to ten years in prison. Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in Criminal court heard a motion to vacate the sentence, reduced the charge to larceny, and fixed a lesser penalty. Mrs. Cornwall pleaded that she had stolen to give money to her husband Francis, who was unemployed at times.

Cornwall denied knowing anything about the theft, and was acquitted as an accomplice. When he kissed her good-by yesterday she showed no enthusiasm for his affection.

Why can't the King rent a house in London?
What's it like to "keep house" on $2,050,000 a year?
Do the King and Queen drink? Or smoke?
Are they good dancers?
What sort of a working day do Their Majesties have?
Do they get free tickets when they go to the theatre?
What's this "color routine" the Queen has for her clothes?
Where does the King's income go, anyway?
What do the King and Queen eat when they don't have "company"?

Yes—It Can Happen In Chicago Too

An eminent health authority recently said: "The Common Cold is civilization's worst enemy."

Every year, 50 million people lose 500 million dollars as a result of colds, through loss of work or health.

At the first sign, use something dependable—something that has proven merit. For the past 84 years millions have used Father John's Medicine as a proven treatment for colds and a body builder. Rich in vitamins.

The high reputation—the good will—that this family medicine has earned and maintained for generations could never have been built up by advertising alone. Its record of results speaks for itself.

HITLER TO THE WORLD.

One impression left by Herr Hitler's speech to the reichstag on the sixth anniversary of the Nazi taking over of power is that he was quite as much on the defensive, explaining his régime on the ground of necessity rather than desirability, as he was aggressive and proud. Much of what he said was true, much was untrue, and much of what he omitted to say also was true.

The politicians of Europe have learned that Herr Hitler's speeches on state occasions frequently are less bellicose than had been anticipated, and for that reason are no safe indication of what his next move will be. A regard for public opinion may prevent even the dictators from being too Nietzschean in their public utterances. That seems to affect Hitler more than it does Mussolini. At any rate, the fuehrer, when he knows he's talking to the world, doesn't apparently care to be the blond beast.

In some of his allusions to the United States the Nazi leader was crafty and showed political sense, centering responsibility for irrationality and irresponsibility in international affairs in Mr. Ickes, a job holder for whom few Americans can find a kind word. Herr Hitler's disagreeable characteristics are about evenly matched by Mr. Ickes' and an interchange between them would be mephitic.

Mr. Roosevelt creates international hostilities to use them in domestic affairs. Herr Hitler utilizes the injustices he says Germany has suffered to buttress his autocracy. Both find such conditions favorable or try to make them so. Nevertheless this country, in spite of the Morgenthau-Bullitt conspiracy, will not be dragged into war so that France and England can retain the German colonies. Nor will the country ever have an alliance with Josef Stalin, the greatest murderer in recorded history.

AMERICAN PEASANTS.

Now the college and high school girls are wearing wooden shoes. A couple of years ago the girls began wearing kerchiefs over their heads in Ellis Island style. Then came the dirndls and, more recently, bright colored mittens and the wooden shoes. A high school principal recently was heard to say that the clatter in the corridors is growing more deafening from day to day. Evanston has been taken by storm and even the Midway is tottering. What's it all about?

Looking like a peasant seems to satisfy some kind of longing among our young women. Perhaps the explanation is the obvious one that, as 90 per cent or thereabouts of our population is descended from peasant or equally humble stock [and most of the remaining 10 per cent from African primitives], the girls have decided to quit pretending they can overcome the handicap of their lowly ancestry. If that is, indeed, the explanation America has undergone a revolution of the mind which dwarfs anything that has happened in Russia or Germany. America was founded on the principle that men and women could rise above the station to which they were born. Our government, our economy, and, of course, our educational system were devised precisely with a view to encouraging men and women to make the most of themselves and it seemed to many observers that the results had pretty well proved the soundness of our faith.

Do the wooden shoes mean that the girls of the rising generation have now decided that it was all a mistake; that it would have been better if we hadn't made the effort; that living and dying a peasant is better than trying to become a portrait painter or a biochemist? Have the intellectual standards of our high schools and colleges become so exacting that girls by thousands are advertising their despair of making the grade?

CAREER BOY.

Mr. Harry Hopkins, he of the bleeding heart and atrophied political conscience, has been kicked upstairs. In consequence, Mr. Howard Hunter has also been elevated to a more exalted station. He now holds the rank of deputy administrator of the WPA. Mr. Hopkins, famous for his slogan, "tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect," is no longer in charge of WPA, but his somewhat peculiar kind of idealism continues to dominate the organization, as the appointment of Mr. Hunter all too clearly demonstrates.

Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Hunter have much in common. Both of them are professional uplifters and have lived on the uplift, and lived pretty well on it for most of their adult lives. Mr. Hunter laid the foundation for his fame and fortune in the Boy Scout business. From this he graduated into the community chest business. Here he had an even larger opportunity to display his undoubted talent for spending other people's money. There was a sudden demand for business men of his type about six years ago and inevitably Washington and the New Deal got him. Since 1933 he has risen like an Alger hero. In no time at all he was shoveling it out for the CWA in six states and for the Federal Emergency Relief administration in eleven. When WPA came along Hunter was made chief dispenser for thirteen states extending from Kentucky to Canada and from Ohio to Nebraska, with headquarters in Chicago.

It has been the realization of an uplifter's most ecstatic dreams. The money was there in fabulous amounts; billions of it. The treasury was wide open. There was no need to convince anybody outside a docile congress that the money would be well spent. On the contrary, the cash came from enforced contributions with heavy jail sentences awaiting any one who dared hold out. The faster the money was tossed away, or so it was thought at the time, the most certain it was that the next congress would be more docile than the last.

Through it all Mr. Hunter was rather less than grateful to the taxpayers whose sacrifices had made him of his kind a big shot. As long ago as March, 1935, he was addressing a social workers' meeting. He did not believe the moment for the revolution had come. We should have to get along for perhaps another twenty years or so with our present social economy based upon private ownership and profit. "In the meantime," as he put it, "we must get along as best we can until new views find acceptance with the people."

Mr. Hunter's achievements as a squanderer of the people's money had made him a marked man; his orthodoxy in looking forward to the revolution established him in the minds of his superiors as a fit man for promotion. When the opportunity came the ex-Boy Scout and ex-Community Chester inevitably got the promotion.

Mr. Hunter is less a disease than a symptom, and as such one of the most revealing which Washington has provided in some time. His promotion shows what the New Deal is really up to.

CONGRESS CHECKS MR. ROOSEVELT.

The sum provided for the WPA in the appropriation voted by the senate is sufficient if the money is honestly used and not stolen. Much will be stolen if it is handled as such money has been, for political control and the Roosevelt revolution.

In 1937 WPA expenditures averaged 125 million dollars a month. In the first six months of 1938 they averaged 140 million dollars a month. Mr. Roosevelt for the first six months of 1939 wanted to spend 250 million dollars a month. The demanded increase has no explanation in the anticipated need or the honestly estimated requirements of the administration of Works Progress.

Although the senators had to withstand a bombardment of charges that they were playing politics in opposing the humanitarianism of Mr. Roosevelt, the reverse was the truth. Mr. Roosevelt was playing politics under his humanitarian pretenses and wanted to lay his hands upon an excessive amount of money and use it in the continuance of his revolution and the promotion of his subversive ideas.

His recent appointments to the Supreme court and the departments, commissions, and administrations in which there were vacancies completely revealed that he is endeavoring to put the government in the hands of the most radical and communistically minded men he can find. The success of this revolution requires a federal spending which will exhaust the resources of the country, a continuance of destitution which will reduce a large percentage of the nation to despair, and such a restriction of private enterprise that it will be unable to pull itself out of the hole and furnish employment to the people now looking to the government as their sole means of subsistence.

To continue such a campaign against the American political and economic system Mr. Roosevelt must have unlimited spending powers if he is to produce the financial conditions and the deterioration of morale needed for the progress of dictatorship. Any one who doubts that his purpose runs in this direction will have a hard time otherwise explaining any of the evidence which comes out of Washington.

The moral claims made for the appropriation Mr. Roosevelt demanded of congress stand in odd contrast to the record of the WPA in last year's primaries and election. The political corruption which flowed out of the WPA administration fills the record submitted to congress by the Sheppard committee of the senate and none of it is or can be contradicted. It was so incontrovertible and so damning that when Harry Hopkins was questioned he could make no effort to refute or to gainsay it. As to his own personal conduct in the campaign and as to the uses to which the relief money was put he could only say that he was sorry, that he would not do it again, and that it was all a very sad thing.

By these confessions Mr. Hopkins made it easier for the senate to confirm him as head of the department of commerce, but he didn't wipe out the disgrace and scandal of the relief administration. He left the record standing as it is, showing how the New Dealers not only squandered the sums the nation provided for the needy but used them to intimidate and coerce voters, to deprive them of their free citizenship because they were poor, and to enrich every hypocritical New Deal politician who could lay his hands on the money.

In the face of this proof that WPA had become a national scandal which, as Senator Sheppard said, ought to be on the conscience of the nation, the New Deal had the gall to demand another excessive appropriation and to accuse the protesting congressmen of being indifferent to human suffering. That reaches a high water mark of sham and political turpitude new in American political experience. It is a wonder that senators against whom the calumny was chiefly directed could stand out against it. But they did and they have given the country a new hope.

The only way to stop the waste of public revenue and the ruin it threatens is to take money away from the New Deal.

Wherever a decrease is proposed there will be an uproar. It is the hardest job in the world to take money away from politicians and burocrats who have learned how easy it is to get, how easy it is to spend, and how much fun it is to play with the power it gives them. If the senators had knuckled under when the high pressure and false humanities had begun to hit them in the backbone, the anxious people of the land might have said the conflict was hopeless, that it was impossible to withstand the terrific impact of this autocratic government which could successfully bulldoze the legislative branch.

With the start which has been made on the toughest problem that congress must handle, there will be more confidence that the country can at last fight its way out from under the most destructive government it has ever known. Mr. Roosevelt may be stopped, and if he is the people can be relied upon to work their way out of the débris of his administration.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

UP POPS THE GROUNDHOG.

Tomorrow is Groundhog day, and in every newspaper office in the country where the old, sound traditions persist some bright young man will whack out on his typewriter a merry little nature faking tale about the strange critter that foretells the weather. It is an old American custom to attribute magical powers to Marmota monax, alias the groundhog but properly the woodchuck, on Feb. 2. He arouses from his hibernation, emerges from his burrow, and takes a walk. If he sees his shadow, he darts back to earth, and winter will continue for six more weeks. If it's a cloudy day, he stays awake, and an early spring may be counted on.

How come?

Well, in the first place, Feb. 2 is Candlemas on the church calendars—the fortieth day after the birth of Christ, formally called the Feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin, and of Christ's Presentation at the Temple. A mass of folklore has become attached to the day; the groundhog myth is merely one item in the catalog. It is an inheritance from pagan beliefs, and apparently had its source in Germany, where sunshine on Feb. 2 was regarded as an unfavorable weather sign. There are two proverbial sayings on the subject in German:

"The shepherd would rather see the wolf enter his stable on Candlemas day than the sun."

"The badger peeps out of his hole on Candlemas day, and when he finds snow walks abroad; but if he sees the sun shining he draws back into his hole."

The American settlers in the eastern states transferred this superstition from the badger to the woodchuck. It would have died out long ago but for newspaper humorists.

In the 1890s a Chicago newspaper man named Charles Steiger wrote such amusing groundhog propaganda that the legend is strongly intrenched in this region. Steiger, afterward publisher of a paper in Allegan, Mich., was a career man in groundhog lore. One of his jocular articles, "The Marmot, or Aardvark, as A Weatherwise," was reprinted all over the country.

THE UNDISCOVERED COUNTRY.

In what far pastures do you wander now, beloved?
By what still waters do your footsteps stray,
Delighted with the crystal blueness of their quiet,
Holding the azure of unshadowed day?

My heart grows weary, waiting for an answer;
Despair engulfs me like a surging wave,
Knowing my finite mind can never vision
That undiscovered country past the grave.

In what far pastures do you wander, now, beloved,
These lonely seasons, since you went away?
How shall I know? How shall I ever find you,
When I set forth in them some day . . . some day?

What That Name (1-24-'39) Means.

Many, many moons ago, when the Nipmuck Indians lived, hunted, and fished in central Massachusetts, there dwelt a certain village of their tribe by the shore of a lake abounding with fish. As is common with all fishermen, each man had his favorite fishing grounds, and in exploiting them a brave often ran afoul of the preserve claimed by another. So many squabbles resulted from this continuing state of affairs that finally the wise old chief ruled that each was to have fishing rights to a certain portion of the lake, and that the middle, being more open to dispute, should be closed.

So the braves agreed among themselves, "You fish on your side, I fish on my side; nobody shall fish in the middle," or in their native tongue, "Chargoggagoggmanchauggagoggchaubunagungamaugg."

This lake, now known as Lake Webster, is near the point where Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts come together. My information comes from what is common knowledge in Boston.

Tribute to a Lost Poet.

There is moaning in many parts of the land because of the death of E. Leslie Spaulding. The title of another author's book comes to mind as I think of him and the path of beauty which he now and then traced up and down the limited areas of the Line—"Singing in the Wilderness."

There will come, some day, a patient one who will reveal in all its splendor the new literature that has been arising throughout Illinois during the last twenty years—and then, Spaulding will come into his own. Donfarran could write at least the introduction to that book.

THE DANUBE AT BUDAPEST.

The bridge across the Danube spans tomorrow and today,
Where Budapest is curved about the bend, and pine trees sway,
As frightened little breezes hush their music and their play.

The Danube where romance had lived,
where hearts and lips would meet,
While music waltzed the hours away for lovers' dancing feet.

The Rhine, the Main and Danube—soon
this great canal shall be Both up-to-date and cheaper than to Balkans by the sea;
But little winds now wail and sigh,
are sobbing drearily.

For Germany will load her freight,
her barges dot the stream—
The Danube's bosom bears the weight of dead romance and dream.

HOARSENESS THAT HANGS ON.

NOW that colds and nasal irritations are more frequent, we may encounter many with whom a smoldering infection will remain for weeks—reluctant to give up a comfortable berth. Thus a hacking cough, the result of some bronchial inflammation, may prove annoying and—more often than not—speech may be altered because the disorder has spread to the vocal cords. The old rule that investigation of the speaking apparatus is in order if huskiness persists for more than two or three weeks is a good one.

With children, a sudden onset of the symptom may be due to diphtheria. The bacilli growing in the vicinity of the larynx may bring about the formation of a plugging membrane, and if a child wakens in the night with a "brassy" cry and with the face somewhat cyanotic because of the inability to draw air into the lungs, an immediate search should be made for the presence of the "choker."

With older youngsters and with adults hoarseness may follow irritation within the nasal passages, because bacteria may move downward into the larynx [voice box]. Then again we have all experienced the manifestation after indulging in too much talking or cheering. Of course, excessive smoking, particularly for those who inhale, must be considered as well as the so-called singer's nodules—tiny protuberances which prevent the natural, smooth approximation of the cords and hence interfere with their ability to vibrate evenly.

Whenever the difficulty appears in one who is a victim of pulmonary tuberculosis we must think of that affliction as a possible factor. Ulcers may form and become sufficiently deep-seated to destroy the flexibility of the phonating device.

Among women, especially, total loss of the voice or the onset of whispering means that the natural reeds either have not closed or that they are not vibrating with enough power to produce normal sounds. Hysteria may be responsible in some cases for—as soon as the crisis from which one desires to escape has passed—the voice will be recovered as suddenly as it was lost. But every now and then paralysis of one or more muscles of the throat will prevent a single intelligible utterance. This situation can be detected through viewing the movements of the parts.

In older persons cancer must always be kept in mind. Here the symptom will continue indefinitely until the cause is removed. Much can be done with radium and even complete removal of the larynx has been achieved with success. At first hoarseness will be so slight that it may pass unnoticed. Gradually, however, it becomes more pronounced. In the meantime, routine remedies will be without avail and only after examination by an expert will the facts be disclosed.

Syphilis, of course, falls into the group of inflammatory reactions, but sometimes it is impossible from outward signs to determine whether a tumor, an ulcer, or swelling is guilty. There is only one certain method and that is a careful study at the hands of a skilled throat specialist. A Wassermann or Kahn test may point to a luetic infection, whereupon anti-syphilitic treatment may be instituted. In the event of tuberculosis the best procedure is to conquer the active lung disease. If the causative organisms are not coughed up from the lungs, for example, there will be but little opportunity for them to reach the voice machinery and there set up new islands of growth.

For the usual type of laryngeal irritation [subsequent to a cold] recovery may be anticipated within a week or two. But the voice must not be used and silence is the best management. In addition, much help may be obtained by breathing water vapor [steam] or inhaling the fumes of tincture of benzoin compound which has been added to boiling water. A croup kettle may be useful.

BOOKS AND CONTAGION.

J. R. A. writes: What degree of contagion is connected with influenza? I have been well for about two weeks, after a six weeks' siege, and the members of my family are afraid to read any books that come from my room. Is this precaution essential?

REPLY.

Maybe you have been reading the wrong books. Your illness affords an opportunity to pass up your choice of literary gems. While we feel that ordinary precautions are necessary—many people make this a fetish. Spread of contagion from books is practically unknown.

TOOTH DECAY.

Mrs. B. writes: Is there anything to prevent decay of a baby's teeth? They look as if they were being eaten away. I brush them twice daily.

REPLY.

Decay of the teeth is possible only when the mouth reaction is highly acid. Fermentation processes may follow the eating of candy or sweet starchy foods and allow bacteria to do their dirty work. Lack of saliva may be a factor. Since the saliva contains a saturated solution of calcium, this prevents the teeth from being dissolved. Strict attention should be paid to oral hygiene.

MAY BE RINGWORM.

Mrs. M. writes: I have an acid rash in the folds of my skin. It itches and burns and sometimes little white blisters appear. What can be done about this condition?

REPLY.

There is no such thing as "acid rash." The trouble may be due to some type of sensitivity or ringworm. The latter causes much annoyance when it attacks the region of the groin. If the lesions do not yield to some simple measure, such as sulphur ointment, consult your physician.

SHAVING IRRITATION.

J. R. writes: What can I use to alleviate irritation after shaving? This is worse in winter.

REPLY.

The irritation may be caused by soap which is too strong or too caustic, by too close shaving, or by a dull razor. Washing off the soap thoroughly is suggested. This may be followed by massage with some oily substance such as lanolin. A fine dusting powder that contains boric acid may then be applied. Many after shaving lotions supply so much alcohol that a drying effect is produced.

THEY HAVE NO EFFECT.

E. M. writes: Does the hair fall out after taking an anesthetic during an operation?

REPLY.

Loss of hair results when the circulation to the hair follicles is decreased. Anesthetics have no effect.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY W. A. O'CARROLL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia.—Deportation of 20,000 organized Nazis in Australia, so that their places might be taken by 20,000 refugees from Germany, has been urged by officials at the Trades hall, headquarters of industrial unionism in New South Wales. Labor's official organ, the Labor Daily, says that the "Nazi organization in Australia is growing at an alarming rate," and that "Germans are coming in steadily."

The paper declares that they are enlisting as stewards and seamen on vessels Australia-bound and deserting on arrival. Nazis also are coming here from Java as Dutchmen. It is possible to become a naturalized Dutchman at a cost of 30 shillings [$7.50] after only six months' residence in Holland or a Dutch possession.

"Nazis are pouring into Holland and Java, which is close to Darwin. If the Dutch migration scheme is approved by the commonwealth government more Germans will arrive. Hitler also is sending Nazis to Australia as Jewish migrants.

"Die Brücke, official organ of the Sydney Nazis, has called for agencies for German rifles and ammunition. It also announced that the German consul general in Sydney, Dr. Asmis, has applied for permission to import, duty free, thirty-nine radio sets especially tuned for reception of overseas broadcasts. He proposed sending these sets to various branches of the Nazi party throughout Australia. The application was refused by the federal government."

The Nazis' official organ, Die Brücke [the Bridge], bears on the cover maps of Australia and Germany, with a bridge joining the two, and a kangaroo jumping from Australia to Germany. The cover also has a photograph of the memorial to the men killed in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's first Munich putsch on March 9, 1923. In big, black, German letters are the words, "You are victorious after all."

A recent issue contained an order that German residents in Australia must contribute to a fund for the relief of distress in Germany. Annexation of Austria and Sudetenland has made the economic position acute, the order states. Australian Nazis were ordered to give up personal pleasures and make any sacrifices rather than fail with their payments.

The New South Wales labor council has decided to petition the commonwealth government to order the return to Germany of Dr. Asmis. It was also decided to oppose the return of New Guinea to Germany.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

DIVORCE SUIT.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it necessary for a woman plaintif in a divorce suit to have a lawyer to file suit and appear with or for her in court?

2. If or when a decree by default is granted is it necessary for her to obtain a copy of the decree and record it?

3. Does the clerk of the court have to record it?

4. If so, where?

5. Have divorce suits ever been heard in the Chicago Municipal court?

6. If during negotiations for sale of property owned by the woman many years after her divorce no record of the divorce is found, would that constitute a flaw in the title to the realty even after her divorced husband had married and been divorced again [the latter divorce being of record]? A title policy was issued to the woman when she purchased the property; at that time there was no question of record of divorce by the title issuing company.

7. Why should that constitute a flaw?

8. Could the prospective buyer of the realty, now bound by a signed agreement to purchase, legally refuse to buy if the title company refuses to issue a policy because of the divorce record, or lack of it?

9. Is it ever possible for a decree of divorce or any other to fail of record?

10. Who is responsible, the court officials?

11. Is it not the duty of the court clerk or other official to see that the decree of divorce is recorded properly and promptly? J. L. N.

1. Theoretically, so. As a practical matter most women would not be capable of handling their cases to advantage.
2. No.
3. No.
4. See 3.
5. No.
6. The importance of the divorce depends on who previously owned the real estate. The fact that no record of the divorce can be found can indicate that you may be mistaken in assuming that the decree was entered.
7. Depends on facts that are not before us.
8. He probably could.
9. It is a common mistake for parties to assume that when the judge announces orally that he is satisfied with the evidence that the divorce is complete. The fact is that the divorce is not complete until a written decree has been signed.
10. Depends on facts that are not before us.
11. The important point is whether it was signed by a judge rather than recorded. We advise you to go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TAX ON GIFT.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My brother, who lives in Pittsburgh, has received a gift of $500, which he has used to make a payment on a mortgage on his home.

1. Is it necessary for him to declare this to the assessor and be thus subject to income tax?

2. If so, what would tax likely amount to? J. T. S.

1. In general, gifts are not taxable as income.

2. It seems probable that it would not be taxable. If you wish to pursue the matter we suggest that you read the printed instructions accompanying the form for return. The question depends in part on the parties' other income.

WOMEN IN THE CABINET.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—We women appreciate the fact that President Roosevelt was the first to appoint a woman to the cabinet, but the choice of Mrs. Perkins was unfortunate. She has been a misfit from the start. To save herself and the President from a bad situation she should step out. The sooner the better.

There are plenty of other women far better qualified for a cabinet job. Government is merely housekeeping on a larger scale. The trouble is men have run the world so long that they still think they own it. Women really are the practical sex and know the value of a dollar far better than men do. A few more women in the cabinet might curb reckless spending. They could well replace some of the dreamers [to use a polite term] that are now in there.

MARY ONAHAN GALLERY.

A PRESSURE GROUP IS BORN.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—In your paper of Jan. 24 there was an item about a bill being introduced to the congress for the reduction of interest rates from 6 to 4 per cent on money borrowed by veterans on government life insurance policies. Anything having to do with government interests me and I am writing you about something that has been sticking in my craw for a long time.

Here it is: Following the payment of the first half of the bonus a few of us paid the interest rates as required by law, for we were told if we didn't when the second half came due we would owe the government money. Then, when the second half was paid, the warnings about interest eating into the principal proved to be the bunk, for it was dished out in full, as perhaps it should have been. But what about those of us who paid the interest charges? We were penalized, it looks like, for obeying the law.

In the eternal fitness of things I think now and have thought from the beginning we should have whatever we paid refunded. I am not alone in this effort to see justice done, for today I have discussed it with those who have come banging on the front and back doors. The old gold man, the rock wool, asbestos shingle, and three way electric lamp salesman, the optimistic soul who wants to sell us our next winter's coal, and the man who wants to clean out the catch-basin all agreed "'taint right" and that something should be done about it. The old gold man was quite worked up and said "If you can get it, get it while the gettin's good." He also thought we should be paid interest, compounded. I said "Interest on the interest we paid on the money we borrowed?" "Why not," he replied, "we owe so much now that to total it up would burn out the motors on the adding machines; a few million more would make no difference." If by any movement of the earth this offering should find its way into the Voice of the People department, it might be noticed by others who have the same yen on as I have and maybe a "we want our interest back" organization will be created, with local units meeting in vacant stores, a lobby in congress, speakers on the radio, and a march on Washington threatened.

THOMAS K. DAVEY.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S FACE.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—No doubt a good many readers were as amazed as I was upon noting Parrish's cartoon in THE TRIBUNE last Friday, depicting the change of attitude on the part of Messrs. Murphy and Hopkins when they were seeking senate confirmation for cabinet appointments. Mr. Murphy was drawn with a sharply receding forehead extending into a long and misshapen skull.

Mr. Murphy was a captain in the world war and was with the A. E. F. in France for about a year. I was in his command there for several months and recall clearly that his forehead was nearly vertical and not nearly horizontal. I have seen Mr. Murphy since then and am sure that his facial angle has not changed.

He entered the first officers' training camp on his own volition and this fact should be considered along with the charge that he is communistic. The law was enforced in his army command and probably there were no better disciplined and more loyal troops in the A. E. F. than those led by Capt. Murphy.

CLAUDE S. HYMAN.

COMPLAINT FROM CHAMPAIGN.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 17.—What has THE TRIBUNE against that great institution of learning, the University of Illinois? Every time I look at THE TRIBUNE I see a slam against the university. Will you ever write about the good things we do? As a matter of fact, I feel that the people who have really known the university can never run it down the way THE TRIBUNE has, and therefore I conclude that the person writing such stuff does not know us or has flunked out of school here.

$50 MILLIONS FOR HEALTH.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—"President Roosevelt proposes health measure involving outlay of $850,000,000," says a news item.

If he is really interested in promoting health he could accomplish a lot more by proposing to save the above amount, thereby helping several million taxpaying insomniacs to get a little sleep.

KELLY SAYS CITY IS READY TO ACT ON 'L' HIGHWAYS

County and State Asked to Examine Plans.

City officials are ready to unite with state and county authorities to speed to completion a program of superhighway development in Chicago, Mayor Kelly said yesterday. The city has plans and definite suggestions, based on preliminary surveys, which it would like to submit.

County officials were invited to confer with city engineers to devise a comprehensive program. In a letter to Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, Mayor Kelly wrote:

"You are aware that the arterial development of Chicago's streets has been a prime concern of my administration. I have directed comprehensive surveys to be made by our engineers and they have studied in detail every plan submitted.

Four Year Plan Proposed.

"The preliminary surveys and cost estimates for the major portion of such projects already have been prepared and it is my studied opinion that such a program could be scheduled for completion within the next four years."

The mayor listed four considerations in connection with highway building:

1. The projects should be planned and built without any additional tax burden on property owners. Part of the future motor fuel tax collections could be earmarked by the legislature. The cost of the project could be spread over a period of years.

2. To insure a balanced growth of every section of Chicago, the superhighways should radiate to the north, northwest, west, southwest, and south sides. Congress street development has been made mandatory but the city must include a complete program.

3. The new highways must be planned strategically to attract industry and trade. As commercial networks, their most important contribution will be to stimulate business.

4. Benefits of the proposed superhighways include a reduction in the accident toll and the relief of congestion. And the projects will supply useful work for the unemployed.

Two Projects Already Surveyed.

The proposed projects on which city engineers have made surveys are the Congress street development, which would cost approximately $31,000,000, and the conversion of the Lake street elevated structure, which would cost $6,750,000. Also civic groups throughout the city have been petitioning the three governmental agencies to prepare plans for a $53,000,000 elevated highway program serving all sections.

Mayor Kelly pointed out that with the legislature in session now is the time for the various officials to decide upon a plan and find what enabling legislation is needed. Then they can coöperate in getting the legislature's approval and seeking federal aid, he said.

LUCAS DEFENDS AAA PLANS BUT ADMITS DEFECTS

Senator Scott W. Lucas defended the New Deal crop control program last night, but he conceded that there have been legitimate complaints about its administration. He spoke before the annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural association in the Stevens hotel.

"We do have a program, regardless of any minor defects which might exist within it," Lucas said. "It is a program which can and will be of benefit to the farmers if given a chance." He assailed a substitute agricultural adjustment measure now before the senate agricultural committee.

Earl C. Smith, president of the association, asserted that the No. 1 problem confronting America is the continued disparity between industrial prices and wages and agricultural prices. He urged that his more than 3,000 listeners coöperate with the government's farm program.

Smith was reëlected president for the fourteenth consecutive term last night. Talmage De Frees of Smithboro was reëlected vice president. Arthur States of Joliet was chosen to succeed Ed Harris of Grays Lake, in the 11th congressional district, on the board of directors.

MOVE TO DELAY JOB SALE TRIAL OF KONKOWSKI

Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th] and Stephen Idzikowski, one of his precinct captains, appeared yesterday before Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court. They were indicted on charges of conspiracy growing out of the alleged acceptance of $1,200 from two men who said they paid the money to get police jobs which never materialized.

Their attorney, James M. Burke, said he would like an early trial, because Ald. Konkowski is a candidate for reëlection in the city primary Feb. 28. Because of publicity given the case, Judge Lindsay suggested the alderman might like to wait until after the primary. The court agreed to set a date for trial at the next hearing, on Feb. 16.

WAUKESHA GRAND JURY INDICTS 5 IN GAMBLING QUIZ

Waukesha, Wis., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Former District Attorney Herman R. Salen, a prominent political figure in Waukesha county, and four other persons were indicted today by a grand jury which has been investigating a slot machine ring here for more than a year.

Herman Salen.

Salen was charged with perjury, false swearing and obstruction of justice in connection with the inquiry into the ring, of which he allegedly was a member. He was indicted in the case last spring, along with Municipal Judge David M. Evans and Walter A. Liskowitz, then sherif. Salen was found not guilty at a subsequent trial, but Judge Evans was sentenced to two years in prison, but won a new trial, and Liskowitz to six months in jail.

The others indicted today are Deputy Sherif David W. Mutch, Anton Vogt, alleged treasurer of the ring; Mrs. Marie Trost, owner of a tavern, and her bartender, Alfred A. Rudig.

HEIL APPOINTS GEORGE I. HAIGHT COLONEL NO. 44

Madison, Wis., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—George I. Haight, Chicago attorney and former president of the University of Wisconsin Alumni association, today was appointed the forty-fourth honorary colonel on the staf of Gov. Julius P. Heil. One captain also has been appointed.

In office only a month, Gov. Heil has named thirty-seven residents of Milwaukee, his home town, to the honorary rank, once considered a distinction because of scarcity. He also appointed three colonels from upstate Wisconsin, two from New York, and one from Florida.

Asked about the large military staf, the governor said the colonels cost nothing, since they receive no pay. "The statute sets no limitation," he said, "and I have appointed many of my friends. Who can object to that?"

Former Gov. A. G. Schmedeman appointed Heil a colonel on his staf of sixteen. During six years in office preceding Heil, Gov. Phil La Follette named only six colonels.

CAREFUL DRIVING SAVES LIVES OF 7,643 IN YEAR

1938 Auto Deaths Show Record Decline.

Careful driving last year saved the lives of 7,643 persons, compared with 1937, and reduced the national automobile trafic death toll 19 per cent. This was the greatest life saving record in the nation's automotive history, according to the National Safety council.

The council also announced a reduction of 10,205, or 10 per cent, in the number of accidental deaths from all causes.

35,000 Die of Accidents.

Accidental deaths of every kind last year aggregated 95,000 compared with 105,205 in 1937. Moreover, 9,200,000 persons were disabled in 1938, a reduction of 700,000, while the amount of economic loss from accidental deaths and injuries dropped $400,000,000 to $3,200,000,000.

In contrast to the all time record for highway fatalities of 39,643, set in 1937, last year's toll reached 32,000. This was only the second year in history to show an actual decrease in the number of lives lost.

The other decline came in 1932 and was only about half as great as the 1938 reduction. In addition the 1932 decline was attributed in part to decreased motor travel. Last year the highway mileage exceeded the 1937 figure by about one-half of 1 per cent.

Every Month Shows Decrease.

Following are the monthly savings in lives last year:

January	450	July	710
February	440	August	931
March	551	September	640
April	400	October	890
May	730	November	690
June	711	December	500

Based on mileage traveled, 1938 also was the fourth consecutive year to show a decrease in the death rate. The deaths per 100,000,000 vehicle miles last year totaled 12.7, representing a steady decline from 18.4 in 1934.

Rhode Island led the states with a decline of 36 per cent in fatalities, while Illinois was tied for 18th place with a decrease of 16 per cent.

With a reduction of 155 in the number of persons killed in automobile accidents, Chicago had the greatest numerical decrease of any city. Among cities of more than 500,000 population Milwaukee led the field in keeping down the trafic toll. Fatalities there decreased 6.8 per cent.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Clarence Hatry, whose gigantic financial manipulations during the boom years of the twenties ended with a crash which shook the business world, was free today after serving nine years in prison.

Officials disclosed he was released secretly last week.

He was arrested in September, 1929, just before the depression struck Wall street and after losses of millions of dollars to his investors. Tipsy Driver Gets 60 Days; Auto Hit a Good Samaritan

Judge Jay A. Schiller in Safety court yesterday sentenced Charles Vodraska, 1016 South Lyman avenue, Oak Park, to sixty days in the county jail for driving while intoxicated. On Nov. 8 his automobile struck Joseph Gorman, 3556 South Union avenue, who was pushing another motorist's stalled automobile at Ogden avenue and Rockwell street.

BACKS AUTO INTO PATH OF A TRAIN; SNOW SAVES LIFE

The snowstorm Monday sent Frank Kozicki, 45 years old, to the Ingalls Memorial hospital. Yesterday it was also credited with saving his life.

Motoring over a one lane snow filled road at 155th street, near Vincennes avenue, in Phoenix, Kozicki met another motorist after crossing the Grand Trunk railroad tracks. Kozicki backed up to give him room just as the International Limited passed the crossing.

The train struck the rear of Kozicki's automobile. But the impact hurled him into a snow drift. At the hospital physicians found that Kozicki, who lives at 729 East 43d street, suffered only from shock.

Cook county passed the twenty-four hour period ending at 4 p. m. yesterday without an automobile fatality. At that time ninety-four persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these seventy-six were killed in Chicago where 1,783 persons were injured in the same period.

PAROLE VIOLATOR PLEADS GUILTY TO KIDNAP COUNT

Charles W. Griesemer, 19 years old, a parole violator, yesterday pleaded guilty to violating the Lindbergh kidnaping law. Martin Ward, assistant United States district attorney, said the government would not demand a jury or infliction of the death penalty.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes deferred sentence until this afternoon, when he will hear the evidence. Griesemer's victim, Mrs. Adele Schreiner, 51, of the Windermere East hotel, was unable to be in court yesterday.

Griesemer has confessed to federal agents that on Oct. 25 he kidnaped Mrs. Schreiner from in front of the hotel. He drove Mrs. Schreiner into Indiana and raped her and struck her on the head, he told the agents. Seven days later he shot and critically wounded a motorist who gave him a ride, he admitted. Griesemer was wanted for parole violation by the St. Charles School for Boys.

KELLY SAYS CITY IS READY TO ACT ON 'L' HIGHWAYS

County and State Asked to Examine Plans.

City officials are ready to unite with state and county authorities to speed to completion a program of superhighway development in Chicago, Mayor Kelly said yesterday. The city has plans and definite suggestions, based on preliminary surveys, which it would like to submit.

County officials were invited to confer with city engineers to devise a comprehensive program. In a letter to Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, Mayor Kelly wrote:

"You are aware that the arterial development of Chicago's streets has been a prime concern of my administration. I have directed comprehensive surveys to be made by our engineers and they have studied in detail every plan submitted.

Four Year Plan Proposed.

"The preliminary surveys and cost estimates for the major portion of such projects already have been prepared and it is my studied opinion that such a program could be scheduled for completion within the next four years."

The mayor listed four considerations in connection with highway building:

1. The projects should be planned and built without any additional tax burden on property owners. Part of the future motor fuel tax collections could be earmarked by the legislature. The cost of the project could be spread over a period of years.

2. To insure a balanced growth of every section of Chicago, the superhighways should radiate to the north, northwest, west, southwest, and south sides. Congress street development has been made mandatory but the city must include a complete program.

3. The new highways must be planned strategically to attract industry and trade. As commercial networks, their most important contribution will be to stimulate business.

4. Benefits of the proposed superhighways include a reduction in the accident toll and the relief of congestion. And the projects will supply useful work for the unemployed.

Two Projects Already Surveyed.

The proposed projects on which city engineers have made surveys are the Congress street development, which would cost approximately $31,000,000, and the conversion of the Lake street elevated structure, which would cost $6,750,000. Also civic groups throughout the city have been petitioning the three governmental agencies to prepare plans for a $55,000,000 elevated highway program serving all sections.

Mayor Kelly pointed out that with the legislature in session now is the time for the various officials to decide upon a plan and find what enabling legislation is needed. Then they can coöperate in getting the legislature's approval and seeking federal aid, he said.

LUCAS DEFENDS AAA PLANS BUT ADMITS DEFECTS

Senator Scott W. Lucas defended the New Deal crop control program last night, but he conceded that there have been legitimate complaints about its administration. He spoke before the annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural association in the Stevens hotel.

"We do have a program, regardless of any minor defects which might exist within it," Lucas said. "It is a program which can and will be of benefit to the farmers if given a chance." He assailed a substitute agricultural adjustment measure now before the senate agricultural committee.

Earl C. Smith, president of the association, asserted that the No. 1 problem confronting America is the continued disparity between industrial prices and wages and agricultural prices. He urged that his more than 3,000 listeners coöperate with the government's farm program.

Smith was reëlected president for the fourteenth consecutive term last night. Talmage De Frees of Smithboro was reëlected vice president. Arthur States of Joliet was chosen to succeed Ed Harris of Grays Lake, in the 11th congressional district, on the board of directors.

MOVE TO DELAY JOB SALE TRIAL OF KONKOWSKI

Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th] and Stephen Idzikowski, one of his precinct captains, appeared yesterday before Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court. They were indicted on charges of conspiracy growing out of the alleged acceptance of $1,200 from two men who said they paid the money to get police jobs which never materialized.

Their attorney, James M. Burke, said he would like an early trial, because Ald. Konkowski is a candidate for reëlection in the city primary Feb. 28. Because of publicity given the case, Judge Lindsay suggested the alderman might like to wait until after the primary. The court agreed to set a date for trial at the next hearing, on Feb. 16.

WAUKESHA GRAND JURY INDICTS 5 IN GAMBLING QUIZ

Waukesha, Wis., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Former District Attorney Herman R. Salen, a prominent political figure in Waukesha county, and four other persons were indicted today by a grand jury which has been investigating a slot machine ring here for more than a year.

Herman Salen.

Salen was charged with perjury, false swearing and obstruction of justice in connection with the inquiry into the ring, of which he allegedly was a member. He was indicted in the case last spring, along with Municipal Judge David M. Evans and Walter A. Liskowitz, then sherif. Salen was found not guilty at a subsequent trial, but Judge Evans was sentenced to two years in prison, but won a new trial, and Liskowitz to six months in jail.

The others indicted today are Deputy Sherif David W. Mutch, Anton Vogt, alleged treasurer of the ring; Mrs. Marie Trost, owner of a tavern, and her bartender, Alfred A. Rudig.

HEIL APPOINTS GEORGE I. HAIGHT COLONEL NO. 44

Madison, Wis., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—George I. Haight, Chicago attorney and former president of the University of Wisconsin Alumni association, today was appointed the forty-fourth honorary colonel on the staf of Gov. Julius P. Heil. One captain also has been appointed.

In office only a month, Gov. Heil has named thirty-seven residents of Milwaukee, his home town, to the honorary rank, once considered a distinction because of scarcity. He also appointed three colonels from upstate Wisconsin, two from New York, and one from Florida.

Asked about the large military staf, the governor said the colonels cost nothing, since they receive no pay. "The statute sets no limitation," he said, "and I have appointed many of my friends. Who can object to that?"

Former Gov. A. G. Schmedeman appointed Heil a colonel on his staf of sixteen. During six years in office preceding Heil, Gov. Phil La Follette named only six colonels.

GIVE YOUR HEART A CHINAMAN'S CHANCE: RELAX

Specialist Urges Oriental Calm for Americans.

Follow the example of the Chinese if you would avoid heart disease: Be gentle, serene, and peace loving.

Or live as the southern colored man lives: Take each day as it comes, hurry not at all, and worry little.

In other words, relax, Dr. William D. Stroud of Philadelphia told the members of the Chicago Heart association last night at their annual meeting in the Vassar house restaurant.

Dr. Stroud, vice president of the American Heart association, said that a colleague who spent most of his life in China reported that the painful heart ailment, angina pectoris, had never been found among the Chinese. The happy southern colored man, Dr. Stroud said, seldom has heart trouble.

Here Is Some Free Advice.

If the modern, busy city dweller can't follow his advice literally Dr. Stroud suggested:

Avoid emotional upsets.

Stop working under nervous tension.

Take adequate vacations.

Don't worry.

"The white man, particularly one living a life of stress in urban conditions of competitive work and strain," Dr. Stroud said, "makes his little plans and lays up cares and riches, and takes much thought of the morrow."

Urges Cultivation of Serenity.

The physician listed frequent emotional upsets as first among the causes of heart disease. Serenity, he said, is a quality which human beings should begin cultivating in childhood.

"As to excesses of nicotine, coffee, tea, and so forth," Dr. Stroud said, "it is a comfort to note that no one has been able to prove that alcohol plays much of a part in this condition.

"As to nicotine, this must be decided in each individual patient, as apparently some people can smoke almost ad libitum without producing symptoms, while others have an apparent reaction to even small amounts."

Ralph H. Norton and Miss Mary Westphal were elected new members of the Chicago association's board.

FISHBEIN LEVELS NEW ATTACK AT U. S. MEDICAL BILL

One million dollars worth of charity services is given every day by the physicians of America, the Chicago Rotary club was told yesterday by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of The Journal of the American Medical association. He spoke at the Rotarians' luncheon in the Hotel Sherman in opposition to the measure pending in congress for compulsory federal sickness insurance.

Dr. Fishbein declared it tends toward communism or fascism and that any sickness insurance should be made available on a cash and voluntary basis.

"As the measure stands," he said, "it would force Americans to submit to services by a government doctor, who would be subject to the whims of politicians. The indigent already are provided for and can get medical treatment if they have the patience to fight their way through the government's red tape."

COURT HOLDS NBC RESPONSIBLE FOR TALK OVER CHAIN

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Three county court judges today upheld a $15,000 verdict against the National Broadcasting company, ruling that broadcasting companies must accept responsibility "for whatever goes out over the air."

The verdict was awarded the Summit Hotel company of Uniontown as the result of an "ad libbed" remark about the hotel by a Radio Comedian Al Jolson, during an interview with Sam Parks Jr., Pittsburgh golfer.

The broadcasting company contended it was not responsible for what Jolson said because it had not employed him and the alleged remark was not in the original script. The hotel charged Jolson's comment injured its "good name, credit, and reputation."

Winter Club Ice Carnival to Be Saturday

BY JUDITH CASS.

AFTER playing peek-a-boo with old man winter for several weeks the Winter club in Lake Forest finally has set the date for its annual children's ice carnival for Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The event will start with a grand march and the judging of costumes.

Then come the junior and senior figure skating championships, highlights of the afternoon, and races for boys and girls of all ages. Following the club's original and popular chariot race, which is last on the program, every one will go to the clubhouse for cocoa and wafers and the awarding of prizes.

It is probable that the club will hold figure skating eliminations on Friday night because the number of contestants makes judging difficult and prolongs the program during the carnival. Mary Birch Broeksmit, last year's junior champion, has moved into the senior division, and Deborah Smith, the senior champion, has gone away to school this year, so competition for both titles should be keen. Especially good skaters among the seniors are Alice Keith Carpenter, Olive Robbins, Helen Priebe, and Betty Peabody.

The junior girls who show promise include Laura Broeksmit, Connie Dunham, Jean Alice Fleming, Harriet Stuart, and Barbara Priebe. The six boys who will pull the three chariots in the last event will be chosen from eliminations tomorrow or the next day. There will be a feminine passenger in each chariot.

In the large audience that will watch the carnival Saturday may be Olive Robbins' aunt, Mrs. Henry G. Boston, who doesn't often see ice carnivals, for she lives in England. Mrs. Boston is arriving tomorrow to spend two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Granger Farwell, at Ferry Hall in Lake Forest. Mrs. Boston and Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins, Olive's mother, are sisters.

Plan Entertainment for Squash Players.

Mrs. Donald F. Bowey and Mrs. C. Wallace Johnson are co-chairmen of a group of feminine squash enthusiasts who will see that the contestants in the 1939 national squash racquets tournament, to be played in Chicago Feb. 11, 12, and 13, have a pleasant time.

Mrs. William B. Freer, Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., Mrs. Elmer T. Stevens, Mrs. Homer L. Dixon, and Mrs. Robert H. Reid are some of the women helping them with a dinner-dance to be given for eastern players and officials of the United States Squash Racquets association on Saturday, the 11th, at the Casino.

The Racquet club, the Chicago Athletic association, and the Lake Shore Athletic club, which is to be the tournament headquarters, will share the tournament play. The singles matches will be held at the Lake Shore, the team championships will be played at the C. A. A., and the national veterans' tournament will be held at the Racquet club.

There will be luncheon parties on the 11th and 13th at the Lake Shore. The C. A. A. is planning a luncheon and the Racquet is arranging a dinner for the 12th.

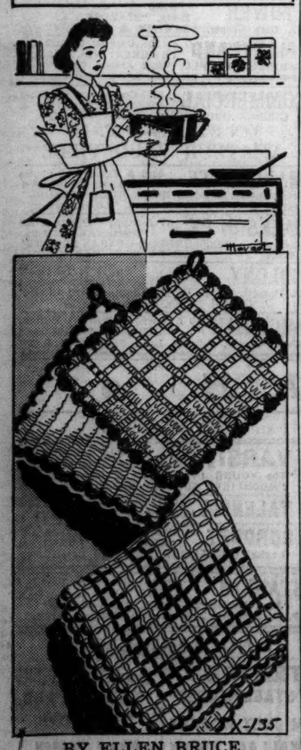
Crocheted Pot Holders and Dish Cloths Are Smart



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Pot holders and dish cloths might well match the color scheme of every well regulated kitchen. Handmade dish cloths and pot holders are the simplest of crochet jobs and can be created for virtually nothing in expenditure. The waffle stitch holder is finished with a contrasting shell pattern. The block pattern holder is edged in the same way. Two colors for the dish cloth provide added charm to an otherwise commonplace article.

For instructions for crocheting the pot holders and dish cloth, No. X-135, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Mrs. Torrey and Baby Visit Chicago

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Thomas M. Torrey and her baby daughter, Hope Ellis, of Scarsdale, N. Y., have been spending a fortnight with Mrs. Torrey's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank E. Brawley, of 1448 Lake Shore drive. There has been a round of parties for Mrs. Torrey, the former Betty Brawley. Last night the Lampert twins, Miss Lillian and Miss Myrtle, gave a dinner for her. Mrs. Torrey and the baby are returning east on Friday.

Stylish Throng Fills Theater to See Toscanini

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The most distinguished musical event of a decade was heard by what will be remembered as the most distinguished audience of the winter. If "everyone" means those whose names are mentioned frequently in social columns, then "everyone" was there, and wearing his best finery.

To Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, gracious and sagacious president of the Ladies' Aid society of Passavant hospital must go the credit for talking the conductor into making this long-heralded one night stand. Mrs. Kirk worked for three years on the project, and her smiles last night rightfully were the proudest in the Auditorium.

"Thirteen thousand dollars" is the answer Mrs. Kirk gave to those who inquired about the proceeds. She and Mr. Kirk, who occupied a center box, had Mme. Toscanini among their guests. Mrs. Kirk and Mme. Toscanini both wore black, the former in velvet, the latter in lace, and both wore identical corsages of fragile white orchids.

With the Kirks also were Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, in a confection of cream tulle over silver lamé; Mme. Ania Dorfmann, the pianist, and Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Frank.

Although the concert was scheduled to start promptly at 8:30 o'clock, there was a twenty minute delay in closing the doors, a delay that permitted the John P. Bents and their box guests, the Daggett Harveys and the Harris Wards, newcomers to Lake Forest, to slip in their seats just under the wire.

Mrs. Frederick C. Thwaits, who is head of the Milwaukee Orchestra association, Mr. Thwaits, the Thomas Van Alyeas, and the George B. Baldwins, came from Milwaukee for the two hour program, and returned home last night. They had a little reception of their own outside their box, greeting Dr. Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony, and Mrs. Stock, Hans Lange, the assistant conductor, the Edward L. Ryersons, and many other Chicago music lovers.

Mrs. Ryerson was looking especially pretty in gray lace with a sash of cerise moiré. Another lovely gown was Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed's of white crêpe with an encrusted jacket. Mrs. Goodspeed's box guests included Monroe Wheeler, youthful head of the Museum of Modern Art in New York; Miss Alice Roullier, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins. Mrs. James Ward Thorne was a cameo in pink moiré satin.

The Henry sisters, Mrs. Gordon Kelley and Mrs. Michael Cudahy, were interesting contrasts in black and white. Their beaux last night, instead of their husbands, were Philip Dalton Jr. and Arthur M. Wood, and the four sat with Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry in their box.

The doors opened at 7:50 o'clock. The first arrivals this reporter recognized were the Percy B. Eckharts. Mrs. Wentworth Field and Mrs. William B. Greenlee were the first dowagers; the junior George A. Pooles were the first young married people; Miss Kay Stenson, the first debutante; Durand Smith and William C. Parke, the first bachelors.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., who was outstandingly chic, wore a black satin dress and jacket banded in crimson and carried a short coat of blue fox. Silver fox jackets, like the one worn by Mrs. William B. Cudahy, and red ones like Mrs. Edward B. Smith's, and white ones like the junior Mrs. Robert F. Carr's, outnumbered mink and ermine wraps, it seemed.

One blizzard tale of the dozens that came in yesterday we feel impelled to print! A girl named Gertrude O'Brien, unable to get transportation, started to walk to the board of education offices. A tall man who saw her struggling told her to hang on to the belt of his overcoat, which she gratefully did. They proceeded down Clark street and Miss O'Brien saw a blind man also trying to get downtown. She shouted to him, above the howling of the wind, to hang on to the belt of her coat. He did so. The man ahead didn't know he was piloting a second person. There might have been some one else hanging on to the blind man's overcoat belt for all Miss O'Brien knew.

Toscanini Uses Simple Way to Great Music

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A giant with a shoe horn could hardly have slipped another human being into the Auditorium last night. Galleries, balcony, boxes, main floor, and even orchestra pit were jammed with people in whom the lust to see Arturo Toscanini was stronger than the terror induced by the almost unheard of ticket prices.

When the men of the NBC symphony orchestra had taken their places on the stage, and when Mischa Mischakoff, formerly concert master of the Chicago orchestra, had made his way to his first desk position among volleys of friendly applause, the more excitable members of the audience began to shudder with anticipation.

Some sort of a miracle was expected. Perhaps Toscanini, who is regarded in his own lifetime as a semi-supernatural character, would descend from the ceiling on a ladder lined with angelic forms. Maybe a soft celestial light would play over the unusual scene.

Nothing of the sort happened. The most famous musician in the world walked out upon the stage like an ordinary human being. This small, white haired, white mustached man bowed gravely and graciously to his audience, then turned briskly to the business of the evening and cut short an ovation which was showing signs of turning into a standing tribute.

The business of the evening consisted of a presentation of Rossini's "La Cenerentola" overture and of such familiar works as the Beethoven "Eroica" symphony, the Brahms-Haydn Variations, Weber's "Invitation to the Dance," and excerpts from Wagner's "Siegfried" and "Die Meistersinger." The conclusion of each piece was marked by intense, rapid fire applause from the more sedate sections of the house and by fine, airy shouts from the less inhibited upper regions.

Maintaining in all of his work a gravity of demeanor and a dignified economy of gesture, Mr. Toscanini displayed the qualities which have made him, at 71, a half legendary figure whose name is customarily spoken in hushed and reverent tones.

What he did last night was what he has been doing all his life—merely presenting music as he thinks it should be presented. Curious that in this age of ballyhoo a man should be able to accomplish by such simple means a feat that all the ballyhoo in the world could not duplicate. Curious that in the twentieth century, just as in the nineteenth and the tenth and the second, B. C., sincerity and integrity and ability should draw the ultimate plums.

Delving deep beneath the printed notes of the scores, Mr. Toscanini put before us his conception of how the music should sound, his conception of how the composer wanted it to sound. The ideas which his deeply burrowing musical imagination brought to the surface were translated into actual sound by conductor and orchestra.

The way Toscanini and his men can suddenly set a blinding musical reality before us by such simple means as a finely thought out change of coloring in the middle of a phrase! And how those pronouncements of the strings, humanized and made overwhelmingly urgent by an aptly chosen modification of pace, can overturn a listener's smugness!

This was Mr. Toscanini's first Chicago appearance since 1921.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Observation Post.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 31.—The movie fans, in answering a recent query in this space, lashed out at the practice of Hollywood's cycles of pictures. . . . That is what is happening at the moment, and I defy you to go into a movie theater which last week, this week or next week won't offer an aviation flicker and the throbbing roar of airplane motors.

In rapid succession we've had "Test Pilot," "Men with Wings," "Dawn Patrol," "Wings of the Navy," "Women in the Wind," and "Tailspin." . . . In preparation now are "Plane No. 4," "Air Raid," "Wings of Tomorrow" and then there is the Corrigan picture. . . . It totals up to ten aviation pictures, which is about nine too many, any way you look at 'em.

Perhaps it is a good sound sales policy for studios to rush in, after one company has made an air picture, and imitate 'em . . . Yet how can it be a sound sales policy when the fans, who pay the freight, register violent objections? . . . I know that this reviewer is so fed up with aviation pictures that he goes timidly to theater doors, listens carefully, and, if he hears somebody yell "Contact," leaves the premises quickly.

To date your reviewer has seen Clark Gable, Fred MacMurray, George Brent, John Payne, Errol Flynn, Basil Rathbone, David Niven, Connie Bennett, Joan Davis, Alice Faye, and Nancy Kelly slithering through the atmosphere and it has reached the saturation point.

A reader kindly has sent along the October, 1919, issue of Picture Play Magazine. . . . You'd enjoy most Celia Brynn's interview with George Hopkins, Fox designer, who was interrupted by the interviewer in the midst of designing some gowns for Theda Bara. . . . He explains: "If Miss Bara plays a vampire, then I design something to invite and seduce at once. Is she to be a siren, then flame is the motif! You see, a vampire and a siren are not the same at all. A vampire sucks at emotions, she feeds upon her victim's very life-blood as it were; she takes all, but she gives nothing. A siren, however, is like a vivid flame. She burns men's hearts out of their breasts, but the flame she kindles in others is in her, too; she will give love as well as take it. The vampire is a merciless, bloodless creature; the siren is a burning fountain of passion." . . . Woo-woo-o-o!

Reason that the Hedy Lamarr picture is being held up is that M. G. M. estimates that she has the potentialities of a $2,500,000 property. . . . As a result, the picture that was started by Director Von Sternberg and carried forward by Director Frank Borzage now will be turned over to King Vidor.

Chief difficulty in the treatment of Hedy has been to retain that quality of mystery she projected in "Algiers," and they learned that it was dissipated when she spoke too many lines. . . . The amusing thing to Hollywood is that Spencer Tracy's pessimism about a picture finally has been borne out.

Story about the "Dead End" kids was a bit garbled in transmission. . . . The mother of one of them called up a few minutes ago to tell the youngsters' side of the story, and after checking back, her facts are as accurate as the previous version was inaccurate. . . . Gabriel Dell, who took a punch at Director E. A. Dupont, had gone up in his lines and the director bawled him out. . . . Embarrassed, the kid started to leave the set and Dupont then shoved him: Dell let fly with a punch. . . . Perhaps the most conclusive fact is that Dupont has been released from his one picture deal. . . . You may argue that the kids cost him his job, but Warner's doesn't humor performers.

Notes—What's all this about Marion Davies? . . . Aside to Big Bill Edwards: Thank you, Tiger. . . . Vic Shapiro succeeds Russ Birdwell as Selznick's Boswell. . . . Mary Brian with Russell Swan. . . . George Raft and Virginia Peine at the Brown Derby.

Most performers have little facial mannerisms that they must get rid of in front of a camera. . . . Nancy Kelly has to be broken of her habit of arching her eyebrows when she reads a line, because it detracts from the timing of the line and pulls the attention of the audience to the upper half of the screen. . . . This youngster has a wealth of stuff on the ball, and you'll be hearing from her.

Smart Pleats Give Costumes Touch of Spring

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There is something perennially spring in pleated costumes. Though you've dug out the old galoshes, battled a couple of snow drifts, and tied up the ears with fancy heating units to dash to town, it's the showings of the young looking pleated clothes that hold you spellbound.

Snappy little daytime numbers boast sharp, flat, and extremely narrow pleats in the short skirt. And the skirts are tucked to the bodice to give the impression of pleats. Pleats appear again in the short sleeves. Otherwise unadorned, these pleated beauties are tempting for immediate wear under either fur coat or fur trimmed winter. A stunning shade of fuchsia, unusually flattering, is a good contrast color as a seasonal pick-up for that dull wait till warm weather.

Navy, black, and a lovely new shade of beige are three other foundation ideas with which to play the game of costume accessories for individuality.

The same pleat ideas appear in swanky long dinner costumes. These outfits do a super job of figure flattery, achieving a most graceful silhouette because of the flatly stitched to the hipline pleats of the skirt.

Also scheduled for success are the many pleated suits—the short pleated skirt swinging gayly below the shortest and newest of either bolero or bull fighter jackets in brilliant tones or in the pastel shades of the skirt. If these charmers don't take your cash you won't succumb to anything!

Ritz Brothers Sued for Snubbing 'The Gorilla'

Los Angeles, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The three goofy Ritz brothers stopped clowning today as Twentieth Century-Fox Films sued them for $150,000, alleging breach of contract. The studio said that the Ritz brothers contracted on July 20, 1937, to appear in pictures but refused rôles in the newest picture, "The Gorilla." It asked damages from the brothers, Al, Harry, and Jimmy—to compensate for expense of preparing the story for production, including the casting of 75 other actors. The comedians said the scenario did not suit them.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards the train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks him to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs. Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. In the middle of the night Pete sends his nurse for "John" and has him open the safe and burn a paper. When Matilda finds him there she fires the nurse. Charles and Mary are to be married next morning.

INSTALMENT XXI.

THE DETECTIVE REAPPEARS.

If I, or any one, expected a miracle to happen it didn't.

Shortly after noon the strains of pipe organ music began to thunder on the air.

I was waiting, with Mary, in the ranch house and she laughed when I looked puzzled.

"It's one of those new electric instruments which Charles had instaled in our house," she explained. "You'll see it after the ceremony."

She seemed calm. Perhaps the consciousness of exquisite loveliness buoys a woman over treacherous crises. Never, at any time, does the female of the species seem more serenely virginal than in her wedding dress. Mary was no exception. Her white gloved hand lay lightly on my arm, a simple flowered circlet head dress, without a veil, sat snugly over her hair and her gown, as simple as a girl's confirmation dress, cleared the ground by several inches. I could see that was a practical idea for an outdoor ceremony.

The music swung into the wedding march.

"Here we go," she said.

A bell boy, standing by, handed her a bride's bouquet.

The guests were lined up on both sides of a lane which led to the altar. We walked up the slope to where Charles and his best man, whom I had not seen before, and Aunt Matilda stood waiting with the minister.

Charles took Mary's hand from my arm and together they stood before the minister.

The services began and ended while I was still in a sort of a daze of unbelief that such a thing could happen.

They left the altar and, with the organ still playing, went down the slope which Mary and I had so recently ascended.

Mechanically I offered Aunt Matilda my arm and we followed. It was only then, as I turned toward the crowd, that I picked out from among that sea of faces, the grinning, triumphant features of Clancy, the detective whom I had eluded, I thought forever, in the railway station in Chicago.

Perhaps it was right that Clancy should appear at that moment. I tried to convince myself as I walked down the slope, half supporting Aunt Matilda, that such was the case. Actually my sphere of usefulness at the Bowman ranch was about over and to leave with Clancy might be as easy a way to step out as any.

And yet, in spite of the fact that his presence portended so much trouble for myself, I could not put my mind on my own affairs. Time was dragging Mary toward so much unhappiness. I couldn't do anything to stop it as witness the wedding ceremony which had just been performed.

Clancy did not try to speak to me then. There was no need. He had me in a trap and knew it. But I was nevertheless grateful for the respite.

The next thing in order seemed to be the wedding breakfast. Charles and Mary went immediately to the tables which had been set out in the open and the rest of the party followed them, all but the Indians who had a special feast of their own.

My importance had dwindled to the extent that no one was clamoring for me to sit at the head table with the bride and groom so when I looked around for a place I found that Josephine was saving one for me.

I was glad to be with her. I didn't even mind when Clancy sat down across from us. It seemed kind of cozy having my trouble all in one little group like that.

"My name's Clancy," he said to me, thus preventing any sparring for places. "I met you in Chicago, I believe."

I introduced him to Josephine.

"You came a long way for the wedding, Mr. Clancy," she said graciously.

"Yeah. I had some other business out in this part of the country, though, so I combined the two."

"Mr. Bowman and I are to be married, too," she said, indicating me. "Perhaps you'll stay over for that, also."

"Bowman?" Clancy repeated.

"Yes. This is Mr. John Bowman, son of the owner of this ranch," Josephine explained. "Our wedding will be just a quiet affair. Perhaps with a judge or justice of the peace officiating."

"A judge, huh? And a life sentence. Well, you were expecting something like that, weren't you, Mr. Bowman?"

"Not in exactly the way you mean," I replied. "It's going to be rather difficult to satisfy both of you—I'm afraid."

Josephine laughed. "O, you can't get out of it, John."

"Just what I was thinkin'," Clancy chimed in. "I'll keep track of him for you, lady."

I thought it was very decent of Clancy not to make a scene as he well might have by declaring his purpose in being there. I made a mental note to thank him for that later.

I realized that I would have time to perform only one more service for the woman I loved. In an hour or so would come the end of the twenty-four hours since I had first set eyes on her and to have loved a woman like that for an entire day was, I suppose, all that a man had a right to expect in a lifetime.

Time was drawing intersecting lines all meeting at a point just a little way ahead. Clancy would take me away in disgrace, the masquerade over, the honeymoon in that forbidding looking, but lovely house on the hill would be beginning. Pete Bowman would take up the tiresome business of dying, Dr. and Mrs. Lodge would some way piece together something out of the wreckage and Aunt Matilda, blinking like a carrion buzzard, would gloat obscenely over the success of all her plans.

One more service! What could it be?

The shadows were lengthening when we rose from the tables.

"Attention, friends!" Charles Ferdinand was speaking in his ringmaster's voice. "Before you go, I want you all to inspect the new home, our house of happiness there on the hill."

I followed the rest. Clancy fell in beside me.

"Well, brother," said Clancy when he saw that I was not going to start anything, "you seem to be setting pretty around here, or was 'til I come."

"Isn't there some mistake, Mr.—er—Clancy?"

"No. No mistake except the one you made yourself in Chicago in 1935. Of course I don't quite get the layout here yet, but you are certainly the guy I pinched at the Dearborn Street station in Chicago."

"Pinched?" I repeated vaguely. "You mean 'arrested'? No you didn't arrest me—not technically. You invited me to go with you to police headquarters, but I don't recall any arrest. I would have waited for you but my train was leaving and you were otherwise occupied. By the way, what happened to the young man who was taken suddenly ill? Was it just a drunk or——."

Clancy interrupted me. "I wouldn't know. He didn't die right away, if that's what you mean. He was unconscious the last report I got on him before I grabbed the rattler for this place."

"O, 'took the train',—I see. But why?"

"To follow you. I described you to the gateman at the station. He remembered where you were going. I took the next train out. There's an east bound train out of Clovis tonight. We're goin' to be on it."

Wise Parents Make Home a Pleasant Spot

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

I am coming back again to the subject of encouraging your children to make things with their hands and do things at home, for two reasons. One is that this time of the year is for many families a rather indoor season. Of course, we must see that our children become hardy enough to go out in all sorts of weather and that they have lots of fresh air.

At the same time the days are short, and in addition we have lots of raw, cold, rainy or snowy spells when only a limited time can be spent in the open.

The other reason I'm emphasizing this subject is that you want home to be attractive to your children, especially as they grow along into their teens. If you do all you can to make it so over the years, you will not be like many parents who write me complaining that their sons and daughters never want to stay home and are getting beyond their influence. For you can't wait until the teen years and suddenly try to draw them back within the magic circle of home life. You must make the circle a magic one from early childhood.

In finishing this subject for the time being I want to offer today some good, definite suggestions as they appeared in a letter:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I hope many mothers will help their children to make simple gifts. May I add to your list these suggestions?

"My 8 year old boy has a small saw, a 10 cent hammer and 15 cents worth of nails and two sheets of sandpaper. I have saved cigar boxes, two pound cheese boxes and two orange crates and with practically no help he has made a set of tables, two benches and two stools for his 4 year old cousin. These he stained with what was left from a can of stain we used for touching up window sills.

"He has a fine button box with hinged cover and a lock for me [lock and hinges cost 13 cents of his allowance]; a cigar box covered neatly with cretonne and a hook latch [3 cents] for his sister's hankies, and a stool large enough to sit on, for a 6 year old friend. Ends for this are the solid parts of an orange crate, the seat padded with an outgrown baby pillow covered with glazed chintz [a scrap from draperies] and neatly tacked down with upholstery tacks [left from a job in that line]. Paint for the stool was left from another household repair."

Busy women often have cause to thank manufacturers of packaged baking mixes. Biscuits, pies, pancakes, cakes, and ginger bread all may be prepared in only a few minutes from a readymade mix, and often the difference between these few minutes and the longer time it would take to toss together the batter or dough from the beginning is the difference between calm demeanor and frazzled nerves.

Most of the prepared mixes are very good and need only the addition of liquid to prepare them for the oven. Ginger bread or devil's food mix will produce equally good results in this short cut dinner.

SHORT CUT DINNER.
Orange Stuffed Pork Chops
Boiled Rice with Gravy
Stewed Tomatoes [canned]
Shredded Endive with Green Pepper and Onion, French Dressing
Whole Wheat Rolls [bakery]
Ginger Bread or Devil's Food Cake [prepared mix] with Whipped Cream
Coffee

Orange Stuffed Pork Chops.
[Serves four.]

4 rib pork chops, cut thick
¾ cup fine dry bread crums
¼ cup orange pulp
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ cup finely diced celery
1 egg
2 tablespoons bacon fat or butter, melted
Salt, pepper

Have the dealer cut a pocket in each chop from the side next the bone. Combine crums, orange pulp and rind, celery, slightly beaten egg, and bacon fat or butter. Season with salt and pepper. Stuff pockets in chops. Brown chops on both sides in a hot pan, season with salt and pepper, then turn down heat, add one-fourth cup hot water, and cover. Cook very gently until tender, about an hour.

BOILED RICE.

Wash a cup of rice thoroughly in several waters to remove loose starch. Have two quarts of water boiling in a deep saucepan. Add three teaspoons salt to the water. Drop in the washed rice slowly so that boiling does not stop. Boil rapidly from twelve to twenty-five minutes until rice is tender. Test after twelve minutes by pressing a grain between the thumb and forefinger. It should be entirely soft when done. To prevent the rice from sticking to the pan, lift gently with a fork several times during cooking. Do not stir. Turn cooked rice into a colander or sieve and run a little hot water through it to wash off extra starch and prevent sticking. Cover with a cloth and place the colander or sieve over a pan of hot water over low heat to fluff. Or turn rice into a shallow pan and place in a warm oven for a short time. The grains will swell and keep separate if these directions are followed.

Make gravy for rice from drippings left after cooking the meat.

Leftover cooked rice may be made into Spanish rice by heating with tomatoes, sautéed onion, crumbled bacon, and seasonings. Or it may be used with leftover meat to stuff green peppers for another meal. Leftover rice is good in combination casserole dishes, too.

The gingerbread or devil's food cake is excellent served warm, so might be allowed to finish baking during the first course of the dinner.

Of course, you want to serve something novel when you have that group of women friends in next week. You'll find it in Mary Meade's "Catering to Bridge Appetites," "Tips on Tea Parties," and "The New Sandwich Maker." They are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 3 cents each; by postpaid mail, 5 cents each.

Flatters All Silhouettes

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Whether you are as slim as a reed or decidedly on the rotund side, you will like this dress and thank it for flattering paneling and graceful bodice treatment. It's the type of frock that glorifies any figure proportions. The neckline is V, and may be left plain or be given a touch of ruffling, ruching, or lace. If you like, use a corsage at the base. The sleeves are full at the shoulders, and may be allowed to flow freely [an especially suitable idea if your arms are the least bit heavy], or be captured in bands that are trimmed to match the neckline. Clever darts at the waistline mold the bodice while giving it fulness, and accentuate the waistline's slimness. A self-fabric or lether belt may be used.

Both prints and plain colors make up well. If you're staying in town this spring for a round of social and business life, you will use silks, but if you're going to have a southern sojourn you certainly will make this dress in washable silk, cotton, or linen.

Style No. 3367 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of trimming.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Now It's the "Three F's" of Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Attending the inauguration recently of a school devoted to the glorification of the "Big Three" in successful living, we learned the "Big Three" not to be the three R's of our childhood, but the three F's—face, figure, and fascination. Every woman wants to be a success, it was explained. Analyzing the elements that contribute greatly to success for every woman in every endeavor, the three F's explain themselves.

All in the march of progress, you'll agree! The particular New York salon promoting the new school is nothing if not progressive. In recent years women have learned much about how to take care of their skin, their hair, their figure, nails, makeup. But what was lacking was a completely coördinated program, covering every inch, from head to toe, under the inspired direction of an interested person who would enforce discipline.

The school director has found that transformations in clients can be done in six weeks, but that the coördinated head to toe program is required for truly astonishing results. So, six weeks' school attendance is required. In the curriculum instruction in the daily care of the skin is given so that it can be continued at home after the course is completed. In the makeup class pupils are seated at their dressing tables around a revolving stage where they are initiated into the magical art of optical illusion through makeup. A course in coiffure design initiates the pupils into a knowledge of coiffure lines that foreshorten a long nose, perhaps, help a snub one, give length to the throat, and so on.

In the figure study, carriage correction is gone into thoroughly with walk, rhythmic and ballroom dancing. A class in the chemistry of beauty is conducted by a doctor to acquaint women with what vitamins are essential and what relation food has to skin, hair, teeth, as well as the figure. And, topping it all, instructions in fascination will be delivered, where clothes, voice, speech, gestures are studied and perfected. All of which just gives us an idea of where this beauty pursuit is leading and how vital the need today for a woman to be up on her toes.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It takes a good rousing blizzard to bring out the enthusiasm for winter sports. When we were snowbound the other day [and loving every minute of our enforced day's vacation] we marveled at the number of ski suits, hunter's caps, and even skis and snowshoes that came to light.

We marveled more at all the fun every one was having plopping through the drifts and shouting their heads off. The stillness of snow seems to make the sound of your own voice music to your own ears. Scratch any normal person and you'll find a winter sports enthusiast.

Now that Chicagoans have found out how much fun there is in snow sports we expect them to be climbing into their snow suits every chance they get.

We have one word of advice for all the snow fans: It's fun, but it's death on the old complexion. So arm yourself with some kind of preparation that guards against the removal of so much oil from your skin and in doing so prevents and soothes chapping.

The "ski jelly" created by one of the beauty houses is excellent. It's a colorless jelly, in a tube, that should be massaged into the clean skin before you leave the house. It gives the skin a sheen, but that's considered far more fashionable on snow covered hills than a carefully powdered nose! You can use lipstick with it, of course, but you do not powder over it. It oils the skin wonderfully—and if you're out all day you apply a little more from time to time.

Men can and should use this, too. They suffer from windburn just as much as we do. A protective coating of the rich jelly will save them all the discomfort they usually suffer.

Good Morning!

Gorgeously decked out in technicolor is this new melodrama, staged in the Canadian northwest and telling a story built around the Royal Northwest Mounted police. [NOT mounted in this movie! There's nary a horse to be seen.]

The tale unfolds beautiful backgrounds, expertly photographed. The acting, reminiscent, as is the yarn, of lusty serials so popular with junior audiences, is just what the scenario required.

A river boat, on its way to market, so to speak, is looted of its fur and gold cargo. . . . Suspicion points to the wrong man—of course—and it's up to the indefatigable police to find the real culprits. . . . Of course they get their—men, in this case.

Romance is introduced through the interest of a girl from "civilization" and a local beauty—Gale Page IS a beauty—in Sergt. Alan Baker. . . . Local girl wins out. . . .

That small, clever, gnomelike Janet Chapman elicits some laughs and wangles a tear or two from you as the daughter of an officer killed in line of duty.

Action is fast, vigorous, and not always credible. But "Heart of the North" is a commendable example of its class.

Visiting Nurse Is Heroine of Many Dramas

BY MARCIA WINN.

The 138 nurses of the Visiting Nurse association made 423,099 visits into the homes of the sick in 1938.

These are the bare statistics which Miss Mary E. Westphal, superintendent, gave yesterday in the auditorium of the Chicago Historical society at the association's forty-ninth annual meeting. The figures, however, were merely a starting point for the wealth of detail she added about the work of the indefatigable blue clad nurses who sat quietly before her.

They gave succor to the sick, but they also responded to many emergencies far removed from the field of nursing.

One nurse prevented a woman's suicide. To do it she had to pull the woman by her heels back from the window out which she was leaping. Another was tending a sick mother and baby when the building burst into flames. She called the fire department and the police, but before either arrived she had bundled mother and baby into blankets and carried them to safety.

"And in their thanks," Miss Westphal recounted, "the family offered the nurse its prize possession—a large, black cat."

"Our best work," she continued, "cannot be measured by figures, which do not show the many things that make our work difficult. They do not show indefinable domestic troubles, bad housing, malnutrition, or the many other problems the nurse must try to solve."

An impressive part of the meeting was the presentation of service pins by Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, retiring president. Two nursing supervisors and one clerk, Miss Marion D. Kirkcaldy, Mrs. Margaret R. Milne, and Miss Helen Thorson, received pins for twenty years' service.

Mrs. John H. Blair was elected president for 1939, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston and Mrs. Selim W. McArthur vice presidents, Mrs. T. Philip Swift recording secretary, and Mrs. John P. Bent corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey treasurer, and Mrs. John B. Drake assistant treasurer.

Engaged to One Girl, He Loves Another Dearly

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Hopeful" finds herself in love for the first time in her life. And, from all appearances, her love is returned, BUT the boy is in the awkward position of being engaged to another girl. His parents, he tells, were instrumental in getting him engaged to the particular girl, the families having been friends for a long time. The girl's parents are well off and she is an only child.

The young man tells Hopeful that he is in a mess, loving her as he does, but with his word given to this other girl, who is a nice person whom he does not wish to hurt.

Hopeful isn't one of those predatory women who see what they see and grab it, either.

The young people are not in their teens, either. Their ages range from 21 to 24. So, the decision must necessarily take on a permanent flavor.

If the facts in the case as presented all are true there is but one honorable step to take. Quite aside from the fact that there's no use ruining three lives in such a triangle situation, there is the code of a gentleman to be observed. The young man's duty is to go to his fiancée and explain matters as best he can, asking for release.

It is nice in situations of the sort for the man to permit the jilted one the courtesy of saving her face by letting it appear that he is the jilted one, not she.

According to CULBERTSON

Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.

There were very few questions in the recent examination that involved psychological bidding, and in none of them was the examinee asked to make a "phony" or psychic bid. The conditions of vulnerability, however, made certain "readings" possible, not only in the case of selecting the correct answer, but also when it came to gauging which, if any, of the previous calls around the table had been dishonest. Let us review Question 54.

Only North-South vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	Redouble	?

You are South, and hold:

♠ A Q ♥ Q 8 ♦ 10 4 3 2 ♣ Q J 10 8 4

What call do you make?

The official answer was that South should bid two no trump, and I pointed out that somebody at the table was certainly "lying." I fully agree with those correspondents who wrote that "South could not possibly hold all the strength shown in view of the one spade bid by West, the double by North, and the redouble by East." The point was, however, that South should have had the vision and courage to realize that there was much greater chance that East had made a "phony" redouble, when not vulnerable, than that North had made such a take-out double when vulnerable. It was all very well for certain contestants to protest that in order to answer such questions correctly they would have to know their partner and opponents, but I do not feel that their point was well taken. Every one has had the experience of sitting in at a strange game, with a strange partner, against unknown opponents. He has no opportunity to acquaint himself with all their bidding habits, hence must let the known conditions speak for themselves and rule his own actions. In this case, the vulnerability alone was sufficient to decide the issue as to "who was lying."

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	1 heart
Double	1 spade	Pass	Pass
2 clubs	2 spades	Pass	Pass
3 clubs	3 spades	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's bidding in this sequence should be studied as a model of caginess. It will be noted that South, holding an eight card spade suit to the A-K, and with excellent distribution outside, meekly passed over East's one club. South's idea, of course, was to enter the bidding later and perhaps coax a double without having to go too far for it. As it happened, South's plan was given a tremendous lift by the immediate course of bidding. When North put his neck out to bid one heart and was promptly doubled by East [not that I approve the double] South's modest one spade bid made its initial appearance in the apparent rôle of a rescue bid. Thus, when South later bid two and three spades, West finally was lured into the action that South had hoped for from the start. Undoubtedly West did not have a good double, but the fact remains that this particular West was a far better than average player. If he fell for South's psychology, the assumption is that thousands of other players would have done the same.

In the play of the hand, South applied equally sound psychology. West opened the club king. The ace won and, instead of attempting the hopeless, ruffing a diamond, South won and ran off seven spades. East had great difficulty in discarding, eventually reducing to the A-Q of hearts, the A-J of diamonds, and the queen of clubs. South then threw East on lead with the club queen. East returned the ace and jack of diamonds. By covering the latter, South established his ten spot for an overtrick.

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Al Shibicky and the Colville brothers, Neil and Mac, did all the scoring tonight as the New York Rangers gained a 3 to 2 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks in a National Hocky league game before 6,000 in Madison Square Garden.

Three minutes from the final buzzer, with the count tied at 2 to 2, Neil clinched victory on a pass from Brother Mac, after Shibicky had scored two earlier goals, both on double relays from the Colvilles.

Before the game the Hawks arranged a deal with the Rangers whereby Alex Levinsky, veteran defense player, goes to the Philadelphia Ramblers, the Rangers' minor league farm, in exchange for Joe Cooper and a cash consideration which was not made known.

Usual Route to Rangers.

Cooper, who played with the Rangers in 1936-'37 and 1937-'38, stands 6 feet 1½ inches and weighs 195 pounds. He was born in Winnipeg Dec. 14, 1914. Other deals for players now making good in the minors are pending.

Cooper followed the same hocky oute in reaching the Rangers as most of the youngsters now on the New York team. At the age of 20 he was an amateur star with the Columbus Club of Selkirk, Manitoba, and entered the hocky school conducted by Manager Lester Patrick of the Rangers in the early fall. From there he went to the Brooklyn Crescents of the Eastern Amateur league, then to the Ramblers, the Philadelphia professional team, and finally to the Rangers.

Cooper was sent back to Philadelphia at the start of the season because the Rangers, with Babe Pratt, Ott Heller, Art Coulter, Muzz Patrick and Larry Molyneaux, had an abundance of defense talent.

Thoms Misses Penalty Shot.

Cooper will play his first Blackhawk game against the Canadiens in Montreal Thursday night.

Chicago went into the lead early in the first period tonight on a freak goal—scored by Clint Smith, Ranger forward, into his own net. Jack Shill was given credit for the goal in the official records. The other Blackhawk goal was driven in by Bob Gracie on a pass from Bill Thoms halfway through the third period.

Dave Kerr, Ranger goalie, held Cully Dahlstrom during a Hawk rush and the punishment was a penalty shot which Thoms drove wide.

The victory put the Rangers in sole possession of second place in the league standing.

Great Possessions.

Great possessions are the gift of Him,
The food we eat, the warming sun,
The friends we love, the joy within,
The restful sleep when day is done.

The beauties of the earth and sea,
The fragrant bloom, the azure sky,
The singing birds and sheltering tree,
All priceless gifts we cannot buy.

Great possessions these indeed,
Nor do they tarnish, as does gold;
Plant in your heart this fertile seed
And crops of joy your soul will hold.

—Charles E. Perry.

Whoops!

O, say that they have lied—
These people who report
That baseball's greatest team
Has given up the fort.

And yet it must be so,
For now the papers say
The New York Yanks of beer and brawn
Are under woman's sway.

Indeed I fear that Manager Joe
His last campaign has won;
His sluggers now must be concerned
With stockings that won't run.

And, more than that, the baseball caps
Now worn by doughty males
Will soon be all adorned
With feathers and with veils.

And after this the question—
A thing too near a fact, I fear—
Will Gehrig, Rolfe, Di Maggio
"Up their hair" this year?

So let the women have their fun
And join the teaching ranks,
But when it comes to baseball—
O, keep 'em away from the Yanks!

PITT PUTS SELF UNDER CARE OF GRIFFITH, BIG 10

Signs Co-operative Pact with Conference.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The University of Pittsburgh tonight ratified a coöperative agreement whereby it will abide by athletic regulations of the Big Ten and be "policed" by Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference.

Officials declined to comment upon the possibility that the step meant Pitt might become a member of the Big Ten.

James Hagan, director of athletics, said the plan originally was submitted by Pitt and approved by the conference, and that in guarding against violations of eligibility, subsidization, and proselyting the university here will have "full" coöperation of the conference.

Griffith Will Investigate.

Maj. Griffith will be in Pittsburgh shortly to go over the entire athletic setup at Pitt, at which time the same information demanded by Big Ten schools will be turned over to him.

Announcement of the agreement was made immediately upon its ratification tonight at a meeting of Pitt's faculty committee on athletics and Pitt's full time coaches.

The agreement may end post-season games for Pittsburgh. Big Ten regulations bar such contests.

Director Hagan released the following statement:

"The faculty committee on athletics at the University of Pittsburgh voted approval of a coöperative agreement with the Western conference whereby the commissioner of the conference will render the same service to the University of Pittsburgh as he does for the ten universities comprising the conference.

Help from Ten.

"By this agreement instead of the university acting alone in an investigation of all types of rumors concerning alleged violations of eligibility, subsidization, and proselyting in relation to the conduct of its athletics the university will have the coöperation of ten other similar institutions. The plan is that the coöperative institutions file all information coming to their attention in the office of the commissioner, who proceeds in confidential manner to investigate the validity of any charges.

"The coöperating institutions further agree that all members of their respective athletic departments will not carry gossip but that all substantial information coming to their attention will be given to their athletic director who in turn forwards it for clearance through the office of the commissioner.

Tell Commissioner All.

"According to the terms of the agreement the commissioner will be given full information respecting the present status of athletics at the University of Pittsburgh and the facts will then be made known to those interested. This means that the University of Pittsburgh will have the services of a neutral official, who will be free to pass on to the public or rival institutions all information regarding the conduct of athletics at the university.

"This friendly alliance cannot help but work to the advantage of the University of Pittsburgh in its determination to maintain its athletics on an amateur basis."

NO CHANGE PLANNED.

Maj. John Griffith, western conference athletic commissioner, said last night he knew of no plan to alter the membership of the conference, in connection with the University of Pittsburgh's ratification of a coöperative agreement with his office.

"The plan is one simply of mutual coöperation," Griffith said, "whereby Pittsburgh can use the office of the commissioner just as Big Ten schools do.

"There is no movement underway that I know of to enlarge or change the membership of the conference. Schools in the Big Ten have agreed to work with Pittsburgh in carrying out its revised athletic program."

Talun Disregards Mat Script; Floors Dan O'Mahoney in 10:55

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Wladyslaw Talun, the Polish rassler who makes Boris Karloff, Bela Lugosi, and the other Hollywood horror gents resemble so many Little Lords Fauntleroy, didn't require any of his double barreled grimaces to pin Danno O'Mahoney of Ireland in their grappling conference in the Coliseum last night. A body slam in the brief space of ten minutes and 55 seconds proved adequate enough to convince Danno that he is not quite the same broth of a lad who once laid claim to the world championship.

Those in the gathering of 1,600 who were not frightened by the 6 foot 9 inch, 298 pound Talun at his entrance left the old building a mite disappointed by the swiftness of the outcome.

Nothing Much Happened.

The scheduled piece de resistance of the evening hardly merited that title, for it smacked only frugally of those entertainments which made the Coliseum a cradle of rassling a few years back. Wladyslaw and Danno confined themselves to the orthodox pummeling and kneading which most of their colleagues use as warming up didoes.

To add to the general letdown, the ancient Stanislaus Zbyszko sat in Talun's corner for the duration of the match. This was a distinct blow to those citizens who had heard the tale of how Talum, acting as old Stan's second in a Detroit match last week, had reached into the ring, grabbed Stan's opponent, and then sat upon him among the customers. Stanislaus didn't even reach for a stogie last night.

The semi-windup was right lively theater, bringing together one of the better modern juveniles in Louis Thesz of St. Louis and that grand old trouper, Rudy Dusek, looking much the same as when he trod the Coliseum boards with Londos, Marshall, and Zaharias.

Punters Go Into Action.

It was a fitting debut for young Thesz, who never went up in his lines once, despite considerable unethical hazing by Dusek. The latter culminated his little lark by smacking Louis through the ropes and out among the higher priced pews, but ground rules held the wallop to a two bagger. It was then Louie's turn to bat, and he drove out a pair of doubles for himself, much to Dusek's discomfiture. The number was concluded when Thesz reached into his répertoire and hauled out the ancient airplane spin gag, topped off by a body slam in 19 minutes and 12 seconds.

The opening skit saw Jack Conley of Boston and Roy Rickenbacker go through a routine mazurka for a 20 minute draw. The ensuing number turned out to be a football contest between Olaf Olson of Milwaukee and Ray Clements of Lubbock, Tex. They exchanged punts several times, using each other's middles for targets. Olie finally dropped back in a fake kick formation and then called himself for a full Nelson which scored the winning touchdown.

Long legged Fred Grubmier of Iowa had some difficulty in solving the rubber ball defense of Arthur Van Saxon, but finally entwined Art in a figure four scissors in 18 minutes and 20 seconds.

Montanez Beats Vaughn in Furious Eight Rounder

218 MUSH IN TO TAKE EXAMS FOR GOLDEN GLOVES

Chicago may be snowbound, but it didn't prevent 218 Golden Gloves candidates from reaching Trafton's gymnasium last night for their physical examinations. They came from Highwood, Burnham, Hollywood, Lake Villa, Highland Park, Glencoe, Ill., and other outlying districts and suburbs by train and automobile, by bus, street car, and elevated. There were fifteen rejections.

William Owen, apprentice jocky for Otto W. Lehmann, president of Arlington race track, drove from Chesney farm, Lake Villa, to Niles Center and then rode the elevated the rest of the way to pass the doctors. Young Owen, whose father was a jocky before him, is a flyweight.

Private Fred St. Germaine, middleweight of Battery C, 33d division of the 124th field artillery unit, is a full blooded Indian. The young man's father is Jim Catfish, member of the Ojibway tribe on the reservation at Lac du Flambeau in northern Wisconsin.

When Darwin Inman, 160 pounder of 615 Deerfield avenue, Highland Park, walked into the examination quarters every one looked up. Inman, a draftsman in North Chicago, is 6 feet 7 inches tall. It runs in the family, for Dar's brothers, Eb and Ray, who also have entered the tournament, are 6 feet 5 and 6 feet 4 inches, respectively.

Edwin Wagner, 18 year old novice of the Savoy Athletic club, won honors as the heaviest entrant to appear, tipping the scales at 237 pounds. He's rather tall, too, standing 6 feet 6 inches.

Tommy Mair, 1938 novice Golden Gloves bantamweight champion, is back for open division acclaim as a 118 pounder.

Stanford park's three delegates pounded their chests to show their fitness. They are Reedy Evans, welterweight, student at Montifore school; Art Ellis, flyweight, Wright Junior High, and Joe Williams, 112 pounds, Medill High.

The smallest representative was 100 pound Clem Sanders of Wendell Phillips High school.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's sectional Golden Gloves campaign, the twelfth since 1928 when the tournaments were established, gets under way tonight in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street.

More than 200 amateur boxers were assigned to the west side meet after passing their physical examinations. The majority of these boys will report for their first bouts tonight, the others tomorrow. The novice and open division qualifiers from the west side will be determined in the concluding bouts Feb. 8 and 9.

No Seats Reserved.

Admission every night at all sectional tournaments is 75 cents. Seats are not reserved. Doors will be opened at 6:30 tonight and the first bout is scheduled to start at 7 o'clock.

From this west side tournament on Feb. 9 will come eight open division boxers, one in each weight, who will then enter the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 27, 28 and March 1. As the other Chicago meets are concluded [south, Feb. 16; northwest, Feb. 17, and north, Feb. 22] each will also qualify eight boys for the Tournament of Champions.

Deadline Is Saturday.

The thirty-two novice boxers, eight from each tournament, will continue the eliminations in the semi-finals of the Chicago Novice tournament in the Stadium Feb. 28. The novice championship will be held March 1. These inexperienced boys do not compete in the Tournament of Champions.

Amateur boxers may enter this year's competition until midnight Saturday. None will be accepted after that time. The final preliminary physical examination is scheduled for Trafton's gymnasium Feb. 10. Any boy who has received instructions and a parental consent card may report then or tomorrow night at 6 o'clock at the special examination in the Madison A. C.

Hold Physical Exam.

The third regularly scheduled physical examination was held last night in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. Last night was the final opportunity to enter the south side tournament which opens in White City, South Park avenue and 63d street next Tuesday night. Entrants examined later must be assigned to the northwest tournament in Marigold Gardens and the north side tournament in Loyola university gymnasium.

TWELVE NAMED FOR INAUGURAL AT GULFSTREAM

New Florida Track Opens Meet Today.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Twelve thoroughbreds today were named in the overnight field for the $1,000 Inaugural handicap, feature event of Gulfstream Park's opening program tomorrow. The track, built at a cost of $1,400,000, is the third in Greater Miami.

Racing Secretary Fred Burton assigned top weight of 115 pounds in the race to Townsend B. Martin's Galapas, Longchamps farm's Shoulder Arms, and A. C. Calhoun's Bigey. There will be seven other races, one an $800 allowance affair with Dneiper favorite in the field of six. The other six races will be $700 claiming events.

Outlook Is Bleak.

The Gulfstream meeting will continue for forty days and will compete with Hialeah until March 4 and then with Tropical Park. The outlook for Gulfstream's success appears gloomy, for Hialeah already has reported a 4 per cent decrease from last year in its first sixteen days of wagering.

Gulfstream officials are not expecting a huge turnout for the opening card. Only 8,000 can be accommodated now, 6,000 in the grandstand and 2,000 more in the completed clubhouse terrace. A portion of the grandstand has not yet been completed.

Turn Down Reservations.

There are plenty of horses available for the races. More than 500 horses now are on the grounds and another 200 are expected. The track turned down stable reservations three days ago.

Roguish Girl made her first start of 1939 at Hialeah Park today and won the seven furlong Kissimee purse.

The daughter of Roguish Eye got off well, took an early lead, and raced Floragina into the ground. Drawing away in the final furlong, Roguish Girl won by a length and a half. Pretty Pet came up to take second place by two lengths over Floragina, which tired badly.

The winner, a $4.40 for $2 favorite, raced the seven furlongs in 1:23 4-5.

Meade Scores Double.

Don Meade, the season's leading jocky, who was shut out Monday, came back to score a double on Black Arrow and Silent Witness and bring his total for the meeting to 35. Another Hialeah highspot was the first victory of the meeting for Joseph E. Widener, president of the Hialeah Jocky club. Roman carried his silks to triumph in the three furlong race for maiden 2 year olds.

COLISEUM PLANS WACKER VS. KNOX BATTLE FEB. 17

Negotiations have been opened for a ten round bout between Buddy Knox, Dayton, O., heavyweight, and Henry Wacker in the Coliseum Feb. 17. Knox is matched to meet Al McCoy in Boston Feb. 10. . . . Because of Davey Day's expressed willingness to meet Henry Armstrong for the latter's welterweight championship, handlers of Milt Aron yesterday issued a challenge to have Day meet Aron in the Coliseum under the auspices of James C. Mullen.

Milt Aron and Indian Billy Lee, welterweight rivals who were unable to go through with their scheduled ten round contest Monday because of the snow blockade, will try again tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Dick Kist and George Haberski, also welterweights, clash in a five round semi-final. Matches of four rounds bring together Art Lind and George Nyberg, Ernie Valente and Pete Atkins, Jimmy Mason and Young Armando Santiago.

Rufly Silverstein and King Kong will meet in the main event of the wrestling show in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. Other matches involve Farmer Mack and Rufus Jones, Jack Conley and Al Williams, Ray Clements and Chin Lee, and Joe Szabo and Roy Rickenbacher.

The weekly boxing shows in the Park Casino have been discontinued for the duration of the Chicago Golden Gloves sectional tournament, Izzy Kline, Casino representative, said yesterday. . . . Joe Sutka, Wyandotte, Mich., middleweight, has accepted a bout with Tony Cianciola in Milwaukee next Monday. Promoter Billy Mitchell also has booked Henry Armstrong to appear in an exhibition encounter.

An amateur boxing show scheduled for tonight in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue, has been canceled because of the weather.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., lightweight, and his manager, Jack Hurley, will leave tomorrow for Omaha, where Marquart battles Cal McGraw, Sioux City, Ia., welter, for six rounds Friday. In other bouts Art Oliver faces Johnny Paychek, and Pat Kissinger encounters Bud McCrea. . . . Phil Collins, member of the Golden Gloves refereeing staf, has joined the candid camera brigade. . . . Webster Epperson, former Gary sectional Golden Gloves title holder, who was knocked out recently, has been signed to meet Frank Androff in Minneapolis Friday. F. M.

Western Open Meet Awarded to Medinah Club

The Western Golf association, second ranking organization in the game in this country, will hold its 1939 open tournament at the Medinah Country club. This was revealed yesterday following a meeting between Leslie L. Cooke of Bob O'Link, president of the W. G. A. and L. D. Rutherford, vice president of Medinah and a director of the Chicago District Golf association.

Cooke accepted Rutherford's invitation to hold the event at Medinah. The C. D. G. A. recently voted unanimously to postpone the Chicago open for another year in order to lend full support to the western open and national amateur tournaments. No date was set for the western at Medinah, although it is expected that it will be held in July, approximately before or after the St. Paul open event.

CUBS GET A LOT OF SILENCE FROM MARTY, LEIBER

Wrigley Locks Spurned Contracts in Safe.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Corded in P. K. Wrigley's safe are eleven unsigned Cub contracts—contracts which have bounced back without signatures attached. It has been reported previously that the big boss of the Cubs has written nice, friendly letters to most of the bouncerbacks, and it was supposed by some that some of the unsigned contracts had been resent with the aforesaid letters.

It now appears there will be no mailing back until Mr. Wrigley is able to classify two gents who have not been heard from either through signed or unsigned contracts or correspondence. The two silent men are Joe Marty, Cub star of the world's series, if any, and Hank Leiber, obtained from the New York Giants in the winter's biggest player transaction.

Original Figures to Stand.

Until Joe and Hank get some mail into the Wrigley building the eleven debaters will not get another look at their papers, though there is nothing to keep them from wiring they have accepted original terms. Being a hopeful lot, few of the ball players are expected to do this until they get another look at the figures in their official binders. According to Cub headquarters, not a number will be changed before the contracts are remailed.

The "not heard from" list was reduced to two yesterday when Charley Root's and Steve Mesner's signed contracts were received. It was Root's fourteenth Cub contract, and it was accompanied by an appreciative letter typical of the 40 year old pitcher, who pitched the pennant clincher last season.

Mesner May Make It.

Mesner, who currently rates as the Cubs' only infield reserve available for service at stations other than first base, appeared to think this heavy responsibility calls for no more dough than the amount first offered him. Little Steve didn't stick with the White Sox two years ago and he failed to rate a competitive tryout with the Cubs last year, but after a good season in Indianapolis it is expected the stocky youngster will be of service to the team this year.

Seventeen of the Cubs have come to terms, according to the score at the close of business yesterday afternoon.

SPUD CHANDLER, YANKEE PITCHER, BREAKS ANKLE

Athens, Ga., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Spurgeon [Spud] Chandler, young right handed pitcher for the world champion New York Yankees, suffered a fracture of the right ankle today when he stepped into a hole while working out on the University of Georgia running track.

Attendants at the university infirmary said the small bone in the ankle was broken. The leg was placed in a cast. Chandler probably will have to remain in bed about a week and will not be able to put his weight on the foot for six weeks.

Working for Degree.

Chandler, a former football and baseball star at Georgia, has been completing work on his bachelor of science degree at the university and getting into shape for the opening of spring training.

He won 14 and lost 5 for the Yankees last season before he was forced out with a sore arm. He underwent an operation for removal of a bone spur a few months ago and recently had reported his arm again was normal.

PAUL DEAN SIGNS

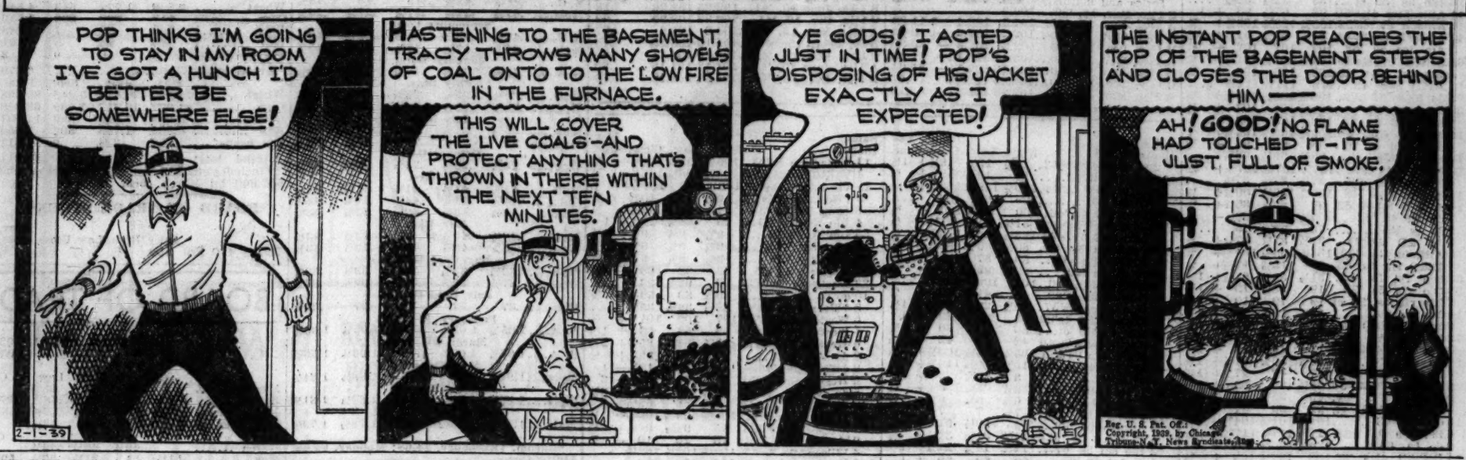
St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Pitcher Paul Dean signed his 1939 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals today. Dean was one of three Cardinals who discussed contracts with President Sam Breadon and General Manager Branch Rickey today.

The others were Pepper Martin, center fielder, who will continue negotiations with Rickey tomorrow, and Don Gutteridge, third baseman, who took his contract to his home in Pittsburg, Kas., to look it over.

Dean's salary was not disclosed. In 1936, the year his arm failed, his pay was reported to be over $10,000.

After appearing in only one Cardinal game in 1937, Paul served with both Houston and Dallas in the Texas league last year before the Cardinals recalled him late in the season in time to score three victories against one defeat.

DICK TRACY—Out of the Flame



POP THINKS I'M GOING TO STAY IN MY ROOM I'VE GOT A HUNCH I'D BETTER BE SOMEWHERE ELSE!
HASTENING TO THE BASEMENT, TRACY THROWS MANY SHOVELS OF COAL ONTO TO THE LOW FIRE IN THE FURNACE.
THIS WILL COVER THE LIVE COALS—AND PROTECT ANYTHING THAT'S THROWN IN THERE WITHIN THE NEXT TEN MINUTES.
YE GODS! I ACTED JUST IN TIME! POP'S DISPOSING OF HIS JACKET EXACTLY AS I EXPECTED!
THE INSTANT POP REACHES THE TOP OF THE BASEMENT STEPS AND CLOSES THE DOOR BEHIND HIM—
AH! GOOD! NO FLAME HAD TOUCHED IT—IT'S JUST FULL OF SMOKE.

THREE GOPHERS MAKE BIDS FOR SCORING HONORS

Kundla, Addington, Dick Well Up in Big Ten.

Minnesota can offer three good reasons for the Gophers' position at the top of the Western conference basketball standings. The three reasons are, in the order of their importance: John Kundla, who is fifth in the individual scoring race with 50 points; Gordon Addington, who is tied for sixth with 49, and John Dick, who has ascended to eighth position with 44 points.

The three musketeers were keymen in Minnesota's 34 to 27 conquest of Chicago in the Midway fieldhouse Monday night, a victory which broke a tie for the lead in the title marathon with Ohio State.

Kundla contributed eight points, Addington ten, and Dick seven, indicating the balanced attack which has made it impossible for any opponent to concentrate on a single marksman.

The rise of the three Gophers in the last two weeks has not endangered the position of the leading scorer, Capt. Jimmy Hull of Ohio State, who, with 81 points, has a margin of seven points over Illinois' Pick Dehner, the pacesetter until last week. Bill Hapac, teammate of Dehner, is in third place in the individual race with 71 points and boasts an edge of fifteen points on Ben Stephens, Iowa's captain.

Cavaliers Play Phillips Five at Coliseum

Another combination collegiate and A. A. U. basketball triple-header will be presented tonight in the Coliseum, with the La Salle Hotel Cavaliers playing the Phillips 66 club of Bartlesville, Okla., in the final contest of the program. Last week the same two Missouri Valley A. A. U. contenders clashed and the Cavaliers won, 55 to 48.

Cavaliers Seek Playoff Place.

In the college attraction La Salle-Peru and Wright Junior college fives are paired. The program opens with the Alderman Connellys opposing the Defenders, south side Negro club.

The Oklahoma five will bid for its third victory in the second half of the Missouri valley race, while the Cavaliers seek their second. After winning but three of eight starts in the first half the Chicagoans aim to gain a spot in the league playoffs.

In meeting the Bartlesville quintet the Cavaliers will face the league's top offensive club. The Phillips scoring machine is headed by Joe Fortenberry, 6 foot 8 inch center. Fortenberry and his mates scored 319 points in the first seven games.

The La Salle lineup also includes several high scorers, chief of whom is Cy Singer. Singer is third among the league's individual scorers with 74 points. Ray Meyer, coach-player of the Cavaliers, is tied for fifth place with 57 points.

SAMMY ANGOTT ADDS BRINK TO KNOCKOUT LIST

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Sammy Angott, hot on the trail of Henry Armstrong and his lightweight title, scored his second spectacular victory within a week tonight by battering Eddie Brink of Scranton into helplessness in the fifth round.

Brink fought a game battle against odds, but when old cuts over his eyes were reopened and three new wounds inflicted, his manager, Pete Reilly, tossed the towel into the ring.

The crowd paid $3,500 for the show.

Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids, Mich., veteran, ended a winning streak of 18 straight for Emil Joseph of Pittsburgh, winning a ten round decision. Ramey weighed 135, Joseph 136. Petey Scalzo, 127, New Yorker who recently knocked out featherweight champion Joey Archibald, won by a technical knockout from Jimmy Buckler, 129, of Cincinnati, 26 seconds before the end of the second round.

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 31.—Henry Armstrong will defend his lightweight boxing title against Bobby Pacho in a twenty round fight on March 5 in Havana, it was announced tonight.

Sachs Just Won't Concede Haggerty a Single Point!

The basketball teams of Loyola and De Paul universities, whose rivalry is rapidly reaching the proportions of a civil war, already have begun battling in preparation for their annual contest to be played a week from tonight in the Stadium.

The players themselves are not involved in this phase of the competition. Right now they are more concerned about the double-header in which they will take part in the Madison street armory Friday night, Loyola meeting the City College of New York quintet, while De Paul argues it out with Butler.

The present argument concerns the coaches of the two teams, Lennie Sachs of Loyola and Tom Haggerty of De Paul.

They recently met with officials of the Catholic Youth organization, which will conduct the game, in order to complete final details. Sachs and Haggerty went into overtime in their verbal struggle, settling only upon one point—the officials for the game next Wednesday. These will be Ike Craig, who has officiated in the last two Loyola-De Paul games, and Sam Pecoraro, who has become one of the ablest court officials in the game within the last few years.

Sachs and Haggerty are still deadlocked on two other issues in the battle between their two teams. One is the seating of the rival rooting sections. Haggerty, whose Blue Demon fans have watched their boys lose while sitting on the Warren avenue side of the Stadium, would like to have them try the Madison street side this time for luck. Sachs, however, refused to yield the Madison street pews, and also declined Haggerty's request for a change in the dressing rooms of the two quintets.

Lennie pointed out that he's just as superstitious as Tom is, and as far as he's concerned, Loyola will stay in the east end dressing rooms.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

HERE'S A SPECIAL SHAVE CREAM

It's Not a SOAP... Not Greasy
Needs No Brush... Leaves Your Skin Soft and Smooth

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. This is especially true of the man who, because of his business and social status, must shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed a special cream for daily shavers. It's called Glider. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. After washing face thoroughly with soap and warm water to remove razor-dulling grit, spread on Glider quickly and easily with your fingers. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich, smooth cream. It softens each whisker right down to the skin, yet forms a protective layer over your face to keep blade from scraping. Swiftly and gently your razor glides over your skin without tearing or irritating. Like a cold cream, Glider helps smooth and soften your skin and prevent chapping and roughness. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

Try Glider at our Expense:

Send your name and address on a penny post card, for a generous FREE tube of Glider "No-Brush" Cream. The J. B. Williams Co., Dept. CT-22, Glastonbury, Conn.

Fred Swan Gets Job as Temple Coach

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Fred S. Swan, former Stanford star and assistant to Pop Warner at Temple university for the last six years, succeeded Warner today as head coach. Warner resigned Sunday, for reasons undisclosed, and recommended that Swan a former Wisconsin coach, be promoted to the position.

Fred Swan.

Swan was given a three year contract at a reported figure of $7,500, half of what Warner was getting on the three year agreement which had another season to go. His appointment was announced by Earl R. Yeomans, director of athletics at Temple, who also announced that J. Charles Winterburn, back field coach under Warner, would remain as Swan's first assistant. Winterburn also was given a three year contract.

Will Keep System.

"Warner style football, which I played at Stanford and coached under him here, will continue to be Temple's basic mode of attack," Swan said. "There will be considerable variations, however. The gossip that the Warner system is obsolete and ineffectual is untrue. The Warner style, like other recognized systems, only needs a few variations to keep pace with the changing trends of the game. I am confident that we will have a good and an interesting team next fall."

Played Under Warner.

Swan, who is 35 years old, played under Warner at Stanford and captained the 1926 team. He played in two Rose Bowl games. He is a native of Georgia and with his wife and two daughters, makes his home in Philadelphia. In addition to serving as line coach at Wisconsin, he also was on the staf at Cornell before coming to Temple.

Winterburn played at the University of Pittsburgh and was an assistant coach at Stanford before joining Warner's staf at Temple.

Galento Pulls a Gun—to Start 6 Day Bike Race

Cleveland, O., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Tony Galento, the New Jersey heavyweight, will fire a revolver tomorrow night to start twelve bicycle racing teams on a six day whirl.

Splitting up the German team of Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel will more closely balance the field, officials said, and prevent them from repeating their joint triumph of last year.

Kilian will ride with Freddie Ottevaere, Detroit, and Vopel with Jules Audy of Montreal. The other teams:

Jimmy Walthour, New York City, and Al Crossley, Boston, Mass.; Tino Reboli and Angelo De Bacco, both of Newark, N. J.; Torchy Peden and Douglas Peden, both of Victoria, B. C.; Jerry Rodman, Chicago, and Bobby Thomas, Kenosha, Wis.; Gerard Debaets, Belgium, and Bobby Echevaria, San Jose, Cal.; Cecil Yates, Chicago, and Henry O'Brien, San Francisco; Archie Bollaert, Detroit, and Charley Bergna, Patterson, N. J.; Ewald Wissel, Germany, and Charley Yaconio, Chicago; Danny Esposito, Newark, N. J., and Albin Jurca, Kenosha, Wis., and William Anderson, Cleveland, and Charley Thomas, Buffalo.

PAIR RODMAN AND YATES.

Manager Harry Mendel is anticipating putting Cecil Yates and Jerry Rodman together to form a Chicago team in the Stadium six-day race which opens Feb. 12. Rodman and Yates were two of Chicago's outstanding amateurs for years, and since joining the professionals have established good records.

The last Chicago team to win a Chicago six-day race was Ernest Kockler and Carl Stockholm, and that happened many years ago.

Angelo de Bacco and Tino Reboli, two Italian-American youths, will form the Italian team.

Americans and Bruins Tie, 2-2; Carr Is Injured

Boston, Mass., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins were tied for the second time this season by the New York Americans, in an overtime National Hocky league contest tonight before 13,000 in the Boston Garden. The score was 2 to 2. Lorne Carr scored both of the Americans' goals and two minutes before the final bell was carried off the ice after colliding with Eddie Shore.

The Americans had turned back one of the Bruins' five man rushes and Carr and Shore skated out of the New York zone together. They became tangled and both fell. Carr toppled over backward and his head struck the ice. He suffered a gash on his skull and a slight brain concussion.

UTILITY'S ISSUES FOR 105 MILLION PUT ON MARKET

Part of North American Simplification Move.

In one of the largest financing operations in recent years, a group of 127 investment houses headed by Dillon, Read & Co. today will offer securities of the North American company aggregating $105,000,000. North American is one of the nation's largest public utility organizations.

In another financing operation, a syndicate headed by the National City Bank of New York yesterday placed on the market $30,000,000 in New York City securities, a large part of which was sold during the day.

These two offerings are the only large issues placed on the market in weeks. Their success will be watched by investment houses for an indication of the desire of institutional investors and the public to make security purchases now.

Offering Includes Stock.

The North American offering consists of $20,000,000 of 3¼ per cent debentures, due in 1949, priced at 101¾; $25,000,000 of 3¾ per cent debentures, due in 1954, priced at 101; $25,000,000 of 4 per cent debentures, due in 1959, priced at 101¼, and 696,580 shares of $50 par value preferred stock, 5¾ per cent series, priced at $52 a share.

The financing is a step in the program of North American to simplify its corporate structure. This involves the elimination of the North American Edison company as an intermediate holding company. The parent company proposes to contribute to the capital of North American Edison a portion of the proceeds from the sale of the securities offered today sufficient to redeem North American Edison debentures and preferred stock held by the public.

After the redemption of these issues North American Edison is to be dissolved and its assets transferred in liquidation to the North American company. Its direct subsidiaries will become direct subsidiaries of North American.

Four Groups in System.

Public utility holdings of the North American companies are embraced in four groups of operating companies: the Missouri-Illinois-Iowa group, the Wisconsin-Michigan group, the Ohio group, and the District of Columbia group.

The offering of New York City securities consisted of $10,000,000 of corporation stock, due Feb. 1, 1979, bearing 3 per cent interest, and $20,800,000 of serial bonds maturing Feb. 1, 1940 to 1979 as 3s. The bid price of the National City group represents an interest cost to the city of 3.08393 per cent. The bankers reported that all the corporate stock had been sold and that only a little more than $5,000,000 of the serial bonds remained in the syndicate account.

The bonds were reoffered at prices to yield from 0.50 to 3.05 per cent for the 1940 to 1959 maturities and at dollar prices of 102½ for the 1960-'64 maturities, at 102¼ for the 1965-'69 maturities, at 102 for the 1970-'74 maturities, and at 101¾ for the 1975-'79 maturities.

PURE OIL PREFERRED?

Investors' Guide: What do you think of Pure Oil preferred as an investment for a business man? As I understand it, this preferred was offered a year or so ago for $100 a share, but didn't sell very well. The price is now much lower, and it looks like a good buy at the 5 per cent dividend rate. Does Pure Oil have some wells in Illinois? Have earnings been stable?—D. B.

Answer: Profits of oil companies, including Pure Oil, slumped sharply last year. This slump was caused by an unsettled condition throughout the oil industry. More fuel oil and gasoline was produced than industrial users and motor car owners were able to buy. The result was a wave of price cutting which reduced earnings.

Pure Oil's net income in the first nine months of 1938 amounted to $3,734,000, or less than half the indicated net income of $8,619,000 in the same 1937 period. The company's net income for the year 1937 reached an all time high of $11,404,000, or $2.19 a common share after preferred dividends. The 1936 net income was $7,658,000, compared with $8,150,000 in 1935 and a net loss of $885,000 in 1934.

The offering of 5 per cent preferred stock was made in September, 1937, just as the stock market began to dip sharply. As the market declined, the $100 offering price looked less and less attractive to buyers, and the underwriters were forced to absorb a large part of the issue of 434,000 shares. In March, 1938, the underwriting syndicate was dissolved without a public offering of the shares, and underwriters were free to dispose of the stock as they pleased. They still held unsold more than 168,000 shares on Nov. 30, 1938.

Because the issue was underwritten, the Pure Oil company lost nothing on the price decline and "failure" of the offering. It used the $43,000,000 from the issue to retire $8,400,000 of 8 per cent preferred stock and to pay off $28,000,000 of bank loans.

The company also has outstanding 278,300 shares of 6 per cent preferred and 3,982,000 shares of common. Regular dividends are being paid on the 5 and 6 per cent preferred. The only common dividend since 1930 was one of 25 cents a share in 1937. The preferred is somewhat speculative, and the common is speculative.

Pure Oil engages in all three branches of the petroleum business—it produces crude oil, refines it, and markets refined products. Its biggest fields are in eastern Texas, but substantial holdings are in the fields of southeastern Illinois.

U. S. STEEL'S NET IS $4,394,454 IN 4TH QUARTER

Inland Also Makes Better Showing.

The United States Steel corporation, world's largest steelmaker, operated in the final quarter of 1938 at a profit of $4,394,454, compared with a loss of $5,847,791 in the third quarter, the company reported yesterday.

E. R. Stettinius Jr. reports improved earnings.

Other steel companies reporting yesterday included the Inland Steel company and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, both of which operated at a profit in the last 1938 quarter. Inland Steel came through 1938 with a profit, but Youngstown Sheet had a loss.

For the entire year 1938 United States Steel's preliminary report showed a loss of $7,755,914, against a net profit of $94,930,836 in 1937.

In the last quarter of 1937, when business had started its sharp decline, the company had a net profit of $4,577,983.

Income in the fourth quarter of 1938 was equal to $1.22 a share on the preferred stock, against $1.27 a share in the corresponding 1937 period.

Vote Dividend on Preferred.

The directors yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock, payable Feb. 20 to stock of record Feb. 3.

E. R. Stettinius Jr., chairman of the board, said that as a result of better demand, earnings in the fourth quarter, while insufficient to cover the full quarterly preferred dividend, reflected an improvement over earnings in the preceding three-quarters of the year. Only in three of the last ten years were smaller tonnages shipped than the 1938 total.

In the first four weeks of January the corporation's shipments averaged approximately 47 per cent of capacity, compared with 32 per cent in the corresponding 1938 period.

Shipments Sharply Lower.

The corporation reported that steel tonnage shipped in the year totaled 6,625,368 tons, representing 36.6 per cent of capacity, against a total of 12,748,354, or 71.1 per cent of capacity, in 1937. Shipments in the fourth quarter of 1938 totaled 2,037,144 tons, or 44.6 per cent of capacity, compared with 1,577,870 tons, or 34.6 per cent, in the third quarter of 1938.

The corporation's plant expenditures in 1938 approximated $66,800,000, against total capital outlay of $133,600,000 in 1937. There remained on Jan. 1, 1939, an unexpended balance of approximately $22,000,000 out of appropriations for property additions.

There was an average of 202,108 employés on the payroll during 1938 compared with 261,293 in 1937.

Inland Earnings Rise.

The Inland Steel company, Chicago, one of the largest independent steel companies in the country, in the fourth quarter of 1938 had net profit of $1,579,785, equal after charges, to $1.11 a share on the capital stock. This compared with $1,098,245, equal to 69 cents a share, in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter of 1937 the company had a net profit of $867,571.

The directors of the company declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock, payable March 1 to stock of record Feb. 14.

Preliminary figures for 1938 showed that Inland Steel and its subsidiaries had consolidated net profit, subject to final audit, of $4,916,203 after interest, depreciation, depletion, and estimated federal taxes, equal to $3.12 a share. This compared with net profit for 1937 of $12,665,317, equal to $8.05 a share.

Youngstown Profit $90,108.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube had a net profit of $90,108 in the fourth quarter, against a net loss of $727,546 in the third quarter, and a net profit of $1,696,022 in the last quarter of 1937. Preliminary figures for the full year 1938 showed the company was operated at a loss of $658,933. The loss was after all charges but before deductions for preferred dividend payments. The company had a net profit of $12,190,648 in 1937.

A. M. Castle & Co., Chicago, iron and steel merchandiser, reported 1938 net profit of $216,406, equal to 90 cents a share, compared with $958,932, or $4 a share, for 1937. Fourth quarter net profit was $59,700, equal to 25 cents, against $71,698, equal to 30 cents a share, in the fourth quarter of 1937.

DUTCH GUILDER LOSES HALF OF MONDAY'S GAIN

The Holland guilder yesterday fell 0.17 of a cent in transactions in the foreign exchange market, closing at 54.83 cents. The decline erased the gain made Monday.

After rising in value in early transactions, British and French currencies also weakened, closing slightly below Monday's quotations. The pound ended at $4.67⅛, or ⅛ cent lower. French francs were 0.00125 cent lower at 2.64 cents.

Exchange dealers were unable to explain the reversal in the market trend.

Gold engagements for shipment to the United States included $3,700,000 in England and $500,000 in Holland.

Urge Midwest Firms to Push Sales Abroad

More than 500 middle westerners interested in foreign trade yesterday heard discussions of the outlook for business abroad at the annual Chicago World Trade conference. The meeting, held at the Hotel Sherman, attracted the largest number ever to attend the conference. The event is sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce and the Export Managers Club of Chicago.

More than 400 companies doing a foreign business were represented. Among the cities sending delegations were Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Milwaukee. There were a few present from eastern cities.

Despite uncertain conditions throughout the world, prospects are good for American companies in international markets, many of the speakers said. They urged American business to continue to go after foreign trade, which for the last ten years has averaged 5½ billion dollars a year including exports and imports.

Franklin Johnston, New York, publisher of the American Exporter, said foreign trade last year held up well despite unrest and turmoil abroad. He said that world foreign trade in 1938 declined only 13 per cent from 1937 and that this decline was after five consecutive years of advance. American exports, he said, fell off 6 per cent from 1937.

Discounts German Drive.

Johnston said reports that Germany is gaining on the United States in a struggle for Latin American trade should be discounted. He said Germany's trade drive in Latin America reached its peak in 1937 and since then has been declining. He also said Germany has slipped elsewhere in foreign trade.

"Since the Nazi régime began," Johnston said, "Germany has abolished unemployment, doubled production, and trebled steel output, but it has not done this by increasing its exports. Germany's exports, including Austria's, have since 1933 increased only 15 per cent in value. In the same period our total exports have increased 109 per cent and our finished goods exports are up 141 per cent.

Says Sweden Leads.

"In Europe, Sweden, not Germany, has made the greatest export gains. In fact Germany has made the worst showing except for one nation—and that is another totalitarian state—soviet Russia.

"Many exporters will be surprised at what I say about German exports, since they have met such vigorous German competition in certain markets, based on barter and subsidy. The explanation is that while Germany has made truly startling export gains in certain markets, these gains have been based on barter and subsidy. Her gains have been in markets short of dollar and other foreign exchanges—in South America and southeastern Europe. Germany has lost ground with the cash customers."

Calls Selling Inefficient.

Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas, at the conference banquet last night said that although America did not gain anything sensational at the recent Pan-American conference it did move a step forward in making relations more friendly with the Latin American nations. Allen said our sales efforts in Latin America have been inefficient.

William H. Stanley, vice president in charge of foreign business for William Wrigley Jr. company of Chicago, said that despite many handicaps this country is enjoying a sizable foreign trade and will continue to do so.

Rates Britain First.

He said he would rate business opportunities with European nations in the following order: Great Britain, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, Finland, Holland, Denmark, France, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Turkey, Poland, Greece, and Albania. Countries hardest to do business with, he said, are Germany, Italy, Spain, Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary, and soviet Russia.

TRUCK REGULATION BILL IS INTRODUCED IN ILLINOIS HOUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—A truck regulation bill which would revolutionize public control of freighting on the highways was introduced in the house of representatives here today. A duplicate bill was introduced in the senate last night. It is sponsored by a legislative commission consisting of six members of each house.

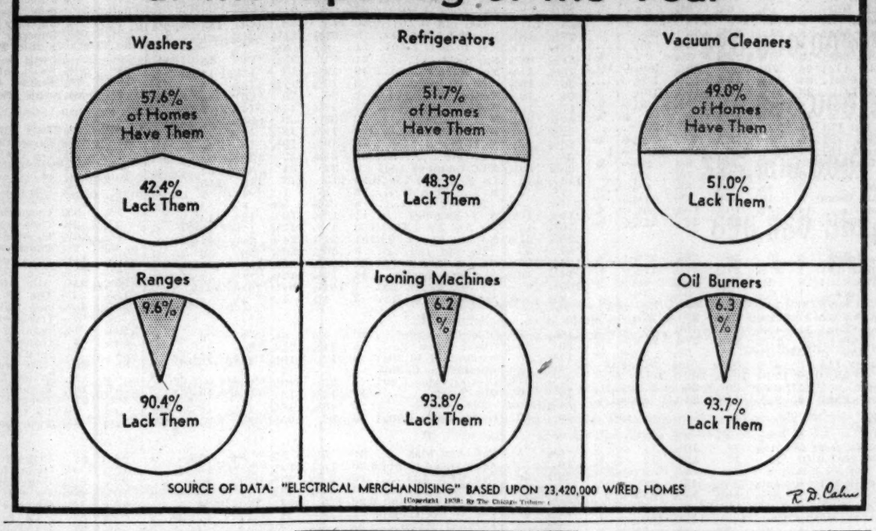
Senator Menges, head of group which drafted bill.

The bill would repeal sections of the public utilities act of 1921 relating to trucking. It is the 1921 act that gives the Illinois commerce commission jurisdiction over for hire motor vehicles in intrastate service. This existing law has been attacked for its provisions giving monopolistic use of specified routes to carriers certificated by the commerce commission.

There would be no exclusive rights under the proposed law. This would be true of the common carriers—those offering service to the general public—and it would also apply to contract carriers, those serving only employers under continuing agreements.

Senator Louis J. Menges [D., East St. Louis], chairman of the commission which drafted the bill, said public hearings will be held before the roads committees of the house and the senate.

Extent of Saturation of American Market for Electrical Appliances at the Opening of the Year



Int. Paper Will Sell Utilities; Plan Outlined

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The International Paper and Power company today announced it will sell its utility properties and confine its activities to paper and other nonutility enterprises. The announcement was made in a telegram to William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission.

The company controls most of its utilities through the International Hydro-Electric system, a subsidiary with properties mostly in New England and Canada. International Hydro-Electric has assets of more than $100,000,000.

Investment Written Off.

However, International Paper's investment of 40,000,000 shares of common stock of the electric subsidiary was written off the parent company's books in 1934, and operations of the subsidiary have not been included in International Paper's consolidated statements.

The parent company shows book assets of some $250,000,000 in nonutility enterprises.

Douglas said the plan for selling the utility properties had been worked out in six months of conferences between company officials and SEC experts.

Separate Utilities at Once.

The proposal agreed upon, according to Douglas, calls for the immediate separation of the utility from the paper interests. The utility holdings of International Hydro-Electric would be transferred to independent trustees, who would administer a liquidating trust.

Officials of International Paper announced in Boston that they had selected three trustees to do the job. They are Redfield Proctor, former governor of Vermont; Henry G. Wells, former member of the Massachusetts department of public utilities, and C. Brooks Stevens, textile manufacturer of Lowell, Mass.

The trustees, under the plan, will have two to four years to sell the properties and will administer them in the meantime.

CORLEY, MAYER ARE RENAMED BY STATE ST. GROUP

Frederick D. Corley, president of Marshall Field & Co., and David Mayer Jr., of Maurice L. Rothschild, were reëlected principal officers of the State Street council at its annual meeting in the Palmer house yesterday. Corley was named chairman of the board and Mayer president. Robert E. Peacock was elected vice president, J. L. Kesner, treasurer, and H. W. Rieger, executive secretary.

The meeting was given over to a subway forum. Members of the PWA subway commission and city subway engineers answered questions.

Charles E. DeLeuw, city subway engineer, said a start will be made on subway construction in the loop in May. The State street property owners were told that every precaution will be taken to prevent settling of building foundations when the tunnelling is going on.

SPLAWN ASSERTS RAILS NEED TO SPEND 2 BILLION

It would take nearly 2 billion dollars to replace and repair the railroads' equipment and to bring the number of units up to the total of 1926, Walter M. W. Splawn, member of the interstate commerce commission, asserted last night. He spoke before the Bankers' club of Chicago at the Blackstone hotel.

The club elected Philip R. Clarke, president of the City National Bank and Trust company, as president to succeed Hugo Anderson, vice president of the First National bank. Laurence B. Robbins of the Northern Trust company was elected vice president, and Howard M. Sims, manager of the Chicago Clearing House, was reëlected as secretary and treasurer.

Union Pacific Has Decline in Net Operating Income

Net operating income of the Union Pacific railroad for 1938 was $19,867,391, against $22,886,260 in 1937, the road reported yesterday. Revenues totaled $150,213,214, against $162,064,311. Net operating income for December was $2,646,369, against $2,315,821 in December, 1937.

ROOSEVELT SAYS SEC WON'T HELP APPRAISE UTILITY IN TVA ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—President Roosevelt announced today that the Securities and Exchange commission will not accept an invitation to set a value on certain properties of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation. The properties were those which the company offered to sell in its battle with the Tennessee Valley authority. Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, recently suggested that the SEC evaluate the plants, the worrth of which was in dispute.

Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference that the SEC had requested him to make known its position to clear up public misunderstanding. He recalled that Willkie had recommended that the TVA refer the question of valuation of properties of Tennessee Electric company, a subsidiary of Commonwealth and Southern to the SEC.

Mr. Roosevelt said the SEC declined the offer because it has no statutory authority to make such a valuation and hence no part of its appropriation was made for such a purpose.

ASK INDEPENDENT BANKER BE GIVEN FIRM'S FINANCING

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Robert R. Young, chairman of Alleghany corporation, announced tonight he had asked United States Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] to use his influence to permit "independent" bankers to handle proposed financing for the Cincinnati Union Terminal company.

In a telegram addressed to Senator Taft as a director of the terminal company, Young said he was informed the company could save $900,000 "by doing business with the same independent bankers" who recently marketed a Chesapeake and Ohio railway $30,000,000 bond issue. [The issue was offered by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago, and Otis & Co. Half of the bonds were reported still unsold on Jan. 12.]

The C. & O., he asserted, saved $1,400,000 by accepting the bid of the so-called independent group instead of that tendered by a Wall street syndicate.

Chesapeake and Ohio, of which Young is a director, owns a one-seventh interest in the terminal company.

U. S. INVESTORS TO BE PAID LESS THIS FEBRUARY

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Interest and dividend payments to American investors in February will amount to $263,740,000, the New York Journal of Commerce estimated today. This is slightly less than the corresponding 1938 figure of $268,711,000.

Dividends will total $118,850,000 in February compared with $121,462,000 in February, 1938, the journal estimated. The interest totals were placed at $144,899,000 and $147,249,000 respectively.

The publication also announced $279,372,000 as the revised dividend and interest total for January, 1939.

Ohio Edison Improvement Budget 4 Million in 1939

New York, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—The Ohio Edison company will spend more than $4,000,000 in 1939 on improvements and new construction, A. C Blinn, president, announced today. Expenditures in 1938 were $3,000,000.

Butler Profits for Last Year Dip to $718,908

Butler Brothers, Chicago wholesale drygoods company, reported yesterday that net earnings fell to $718,908 in 1938 from $1,673,389 in the preceding year. Frank S. Cunningham, president of the company, said the 1938 figure was based on preliminary unaudited data.

Frank S. Cunningham.

After allowance for preferred dividends, 1938 net income was equal to 28 cents a share on the outstanding common stock, Cunningham said. In 1937 profit amounted to $1.12 a common share. Included in the 1938 net income were special nonrecurring credits totaling $337,380, arising from adjustment of federal income tax provision for 1934 and recovery of processing taxes paid prior to Jan. 6, 1936.

Business Volume Is Less.

Cunningham said the business volume in 1938 was 12 per cent less than in 1937. Up until Nov. 1, he said that consumer demand was at a depressed level, but that during November and December Butler Brothers' holiday goods business was the best in several years.

Because of a decline in primary markets, especially in textiles, until May last year, the company had an inventory loss of about $500,000 in the first half of 1938, Cunningham reported. Inventories on Dec. 31 were 12 per cent less than a year earlier.

The final detailed report on 1938 earnings will be sent to stockholders before their annual meeting March 23.

Butler Dividends Authorized.

The board of directors yesterday authorized payment of the regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share on the preferred stock and an interim payment of 15 cents a share on the common issue. Both will be paid March 1 to holders of record Feb. 9. The last previous payment on Butler Brothers common stock was 15 cents a share March 1.

Net earnings of Remington Rand, Inc., makers of office equipment, amounted to $921,188, or 45 cents a common share, in the last quarter of 1938. In the corresponding 1937 period the company had net earnings of $1,391,497, or 76 cents a share. For the nine months ended Dec. 31 net profit was $1,427,463, or 50 cents a share, against $3,774,066, or $2.02 a share, in the corresponding nine months of the preceding year.

ILLINOIS BELL'S 1938 INCOME OFF TO 11 MILLIONS

Dig Into Surplus for Part of Dividend.

The earnings of the Illinois Bell Telephone company declined in 1938, A. H. Mellinger, president, reported yesterday in his annual statement to stockholders.

A. H. Mellinger.

The decline in business activity in the early months of 1938 coupled with higher taxes and other costs, caused the shrinkage in income, he said.

The 1938 net income was $11,036,479, equal to $7.36 a share on the outstanding capital stock. Net income was $13,207,545, or $8.81 a share, in the preceding year.

Dividends Not Covered.

The company paid dividends of $8 a share, drawing on surplus to the amount of $963,521 to make the payments. Nearly all of the company's stock is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Mellinger said the company's business was adversely affected by the depression in the first half of the year. The recovery in the later months of 1938 was pronounced, he said.

There was a net gain of 33,920 in the number of telephones in service. This compared with an increase of 72,416 phones in 1937 and 73,309 in 1936. The gain last year brought the number of telephones in operation to within 3.3 per cent of the record attained in 1930. In the year 1938 phones in service totaled 1,712,273.

Taxes Set a Record.

Taxes in 1938 cost the company $14,111,020, the highest in its history. This included social security taxes. The company's tax bill in 1937 was $12,933,970. The taxes amounted to $10.19 for each phone in service.

Wages and salaries in 1938 totaled $41,950,000, compared with $40,770,000 in 1937.

Phone calls originating in the company's system averaged 6,098,000 in 1938, Mellinger said. This was a gain of 1 per cent over 1937.

The company's business was aided, Mellinger reported, by the growth in the Illinois oil industry.

Errors made in handling more than 6,000,000 calls daily averaged less than 8-10th of 1 per cent. This is the best service record the company has ever attained, Mellinger said.

AUDITING FIRM FOR M'KESSON COMPANY SUED

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Two security holders of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., today brought a damage action against Price, Waterhouse & Co., the accounting firm which audited McKesson books. They charged fraud in framing McKesson balance sheets and profit and loss statements.

The suit, asking $5,331, specifically charged that balance sheets from 1933 to 1937 were false in including as a current asset a sum representing an inventory of crude drugs which various investigations have indicated were nonexistent.

It was the crude drug department through which the late F. Donald Coster-Musica, president of McKesson & Robbins until his suicide in Connecticut on Dec. 16, concealed his manipulations of company assets.

A second allegation was that the balance sheets also were untrue in including among current assets a sum representing accounts receivable from supposed purchasers of crude drugs. These customers' accounts, the suit alleged, were fictitious.

Stocks Mount Again as Fear of War Wanes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 31.—The stock market made further progress today, as Wall street continued under the favorable influence engendered late yesterday by Chancellor Hitler's speech.

More complete appraisal of the German leader's remarks and British prime minister's message today urging mutual coöperation in many fields were interpreted to mean at least a temporary lull in Europe's troubles.

Gains at the close ranged from fractions to around 2 points. Most of the progress was made in a burst of strength at the opening. Demand from many quarters as well as some short covering flooded the market and the prices jumped fractions to 3 points.

Stocks Dip, Then Recover.

Shortly after that some selling forced stocks to relinquish part of their gains. After a period of consolidation, the list hardened near the close and many issues returned to around their best levels of the day.

Transfers totaled 1,123,190 shares. Of 774 issues traded, 593 issues advanced, 71 declined and 110 closed unchanged. The opening here was preceded by improved stock markets in London and on the continent.

Steel shares again attracted considerable attention. United States Steel advanced 2 points. Bethlehem Steel, beset by selling at one time after Monday's spurt of 5 points, steadied to close ¾ point higher. Youngstown Sheet and Tube was another feature, rising 2⅜ points.

Motor Group Advances.

Motors gained up to 1¼ points in Chrysler. General Motors added ½ point on good buying. Motor equipment stocks, notably Electric Autolite and Briggs, ruled substantially higher.

Rubbers closed fractionally higher under the leadership of United States Rubber. Oils behaved in similar fashion.

In the metals International Nickel and American Smelting each showed gains exceeding one point.

Railroad shares contributed their quota of gains. Minor fractional changes ruled in the utility section. Building industry stocks were bid up fractions to 3 points. Westinghouse featured the heavy machinery section with a rise of 3 points. Airplane issues closed irregular.

January stock sales on the New York Stock exchange of 25,185,780 shares were the smallest since last September and compared with 27,492,069 in the preceding months and 24,151,931 in January last year. September, 1938, sales amounted to 23,826,970 shares.

Foreign Markets Firmer.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—[Special.]—European security markets soared today in response to Hitler's speech. In many instances losses recorded during the last month were regained as investors and speculators rushed to buy. The London market set the pace for the upturn, with Berlin, Paris, and Amsterdam also recording advances.

STOCK MARKET IN CLEVELAND TO EXTEND SESSION

Cleveland, O., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Cleveland Stock exchange announced today it will close at 3:15 p. m., instead of 3 p. m., starting tomorrow. The purpose is to give traders an opportunity to act after the New York exchange closes at 3 p. m., and to enable odd lot traders to complete deals made just before the close in New York. On Saturdays the close will be at 12:15 p. m., instead of noon. The arrangement will be tried for ninety days.

NO CHANGE IN CHICAGO.

Officials of the Chicago Stock exchange said the market will continue to close at the same time as the New York Stock exchange. They were of the opinion that a fifteen minute overtime period would be too short to be effective.

Federal Monopoly Inquiry to Be Resumed Monday

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Chairman O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] announced today that the federal monopoly committee would resume hearings next Monday to study leading insurance companies. Witnesses will include officials of the Metropolitan Life and New York Life Insurance companies.

GIANNINI BANK LOSES FIGHT TO BLOCK SEC QUIZ

Plea for Injunction Denied by Court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Bank of America, fourth largest bank in this country, today lost its court fight to prevent the Securities and Exchange commission from investigating it along with Transamerica corporation, its parent holding company.

Federal Judge Daniel O'Donoghue dismissed the bank's bill of complaint against the SEC, saying that "the plaintiff is not entitled to an injunction against the SEC or its members." The bank had contended that the SEC lacked jurisdiction over a national bank; also that an exchange of information between the controler of the currency and the SEC was illegal.

Sought to Exclude Bank.

It sought to bar the SEC from including the bank in the commission's proceedings against Transamerica, top holding company for the banking and investing enterprises on the Pacific coast of A. P. Giannini, leading branch banker and former administration supporter.

Transamerica is charged with filing false and misleading statements with the SEC, and must show cause why its stock should not be delisted from New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco stock exchanges.

Immediately after the court's decision this afternoon the SEC announced that Transamerica hearings, which were suspended by court order, will resume not later than Monday. Counsel for the bank also announced that an appeal will be taken to the Circuit Court of Appeals on Friday. It is expected that the case ultimately will reach the Supreme court.

Future Course Not Decided.

The SEC has not decided yet whether it will include Bank of America in its proceedings immediately. Officials said this depends upon circumstances, keeping in mind the proposed appeal, which may again keep the bank out of SEC hearings until a final decision is made on the issue.

In dismissing the bill of complaint, Judge O'Donoghue said of the SEC's power under the securities exchange act of 1934:

"This is a new act passed after the market crash of 1929 and the bank closings of 1933. It does not exempt national banks either specifically or by implication."

He pointed out that Transamerica filed registration statements with the SEC contemplating the sale of "millions of dollars" worth of stock to the public.

Terms Quiz Duty of SEC.

"The SEC has duty aplenty to ascertain the value of that stock," said the judge, since Transamerica holds 42 per cent of Bank of America's stock, a large block of the holding company's assets.

"It is the duty of the SEC to use all reasonable means to arrive at that value," he continued.

The court also decided that the SEC had the right to go to the controler of the currency, through the secretary of the treasury, for the information contained in bank examining records and ruled that the controler had the right to give that information.

Judge O'Donoghue, however, warned the SEC that this decision does not mean that the commission can "run wild" and put banks to great inconvenience and loss "on a fishing expedition or a wild goose chase." The present case merits the investigation, he said.

Tells SEC How It Can Investigate.

The judge held that the SEC had four ways in which it could investigate the value of bank assets:

1. Take the bank's own statement of assets and liabilities.
2. Ask the controler of the currency for such information as he might have.
3. Request similar information from the secretary of the treasury.
4. Make an "independent investigation."

"The different commissions and departments of the government should cease regulating as though each was a water tight compartment," the court said. "Each should help the other. As in nature you can't separate one cell of the brain from another, so it should be with the government of the United States."

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A buying spurt in the bond market lifted all sections into higher ground today.

After opening the week with the dullest session since last September, the list experienced a sudden reversal of sentiment coincident with reviving hopes of continued European peace.

Transactions expanded to $7,282,225 face value from $4,367,250 yesterday. United States government obligations, foreign bonds, and secondary rail issues made sharp advances and other loans joined in the upward movement.

A heavy demand for federal loans was ascribed to bank buying. The net gains ranged as high as 16/32.

The rise in foreign bonds was the best in many sessions. German 5½s and 7s, Belgium 6s, and Italy 7s gained 1 to 2 points.

Total bond transfers on the New York Stock exchange in January totaled $159,507,350, face value. Sales were smallest since last November. This compared with $217,609,000 in the preceding month and $165,910,000 in January a year ago.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks moved upward yesterday. Trading, however, was still thin. Only 28,000 shares changed hands. THE TRIBUNE average of twenty stocks closed at 10.86, up 0.30 from Monday.

Volume leaders set the pace. General Motors gained 1⅛ to close at 46½ and Bendix Aviation was up ¾ at 26. Commonwealth Edison advanced ⅛ to 27¾. Marshall Field finished at 12⅞, up ⅝. Zenith Radio and Wisconsin Bank Shares each lost ⅛.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks closed generally higher yesterday in light trading, dealers said. Final bids were from $1 lower to $3 higher. Shares of the Chicago Title and Trust company and the First National bank advanced $1, Northern Trust company, $3, and Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, 50 cents. City National bank shares declined $1.

QUASHES ACTION TO PUT FIDELITY IN RECEIVERSHIP

Judge Decides Investment Concern Is Solvent.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 31.—[Special.]—Federal Judge William E. Baker, confirming a special master's report, today dismissed receivership proceedings against the Fidelity Investment association.

Judge Baker overruled an exception by Edward Lamb, attorney for a Toledo, O., contract holder who intervened in the case. Lamb had objected to the report because the solvency was determined by the "sound value" rather than the "market value" of the association's securities.

Supports Master's Finding.

The report of Special Master Charles P. Mead of Wheeling, which was issued last Thursday, found the investment loan firm was solvent. The report also recommended dismissal of the receivership petition filed by nine Pennsylvania purchasers of the association's investment contracts.

"I found consolation," Judge Baker said, "in the fact that representatives of the insurance departments of Virginia, Ohio, and Indiana, and the state auditor of West Virginia informed me in open court that they were thoroughly in accord with the report."

Calls Firm "Well Managed."

Attorney Seymour M. Heilbron of New York, counsel for the receivership petitioners, had coöperated in preparing the report. He said it showed the association was not only solvent, but "well managed."

The receivership petition was filed forty-four days ago after the Securities and Exchange commission had obtained an injunction in Detroit prohibiting the association from certain practices which the SEC charged were fraudulent. The petitioners charged the association "recklessly, carelessly, and wrongfully" managed its accounts."

Fidelity attorneys denied the charges and asserted the action was unwarranted because the value of the petitioners' contracts was only $8,000.

December Trade in Chicago Best for Nearly 1½ Years

Business in Chicago during December was the best for any month in almost a year and a half, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday. The statement was based on a survey of varied lines of activity. There were about three times as many reports of gains as of declines.

The building industry showed to especially good advantage. There were 136 building permits issued, contrasted with only fifty-eight in December, 1937. Cost involved in the contracts totaled $2,408,725, against $886,175.

There were 335 contracts awarded on building projects, against 131 in December, 1937. The cost was $11,820,000, against $3,975,000. Subway contracts helped to swell the December, 1938, total.

Real estate transfers in number, 3,575, were slightly above the December, 1937, figure, but the consideration of $5,798,003 was considerably below the $9,229,013 total for December, 1937.

Stock exchange transactions and bank clearances were sharply above the 1937 figure. Travel to and from the Chicago municipal airport was almost double that of December, 1937. Freight loadings, telephones in use, and automobile registrations were up, the latter by 30 per cent.

Declines were registered in factory personnel and pay rolls. And department store volume slightly under that for December, 1937.

A tabulation of the results of the survey in which December, 1938, is compared with December, 1937, follows:

BLASTS NATIONAL SPENDING POLICY AS SURE TO FAIL

The federal government's scheme of trying to spend the country into prosperity is doomed to failure, Harold G. Moulton, nationally known economist and president of the Brookings institution of Washington, D. C., declared yesterday. He spoke at a Union League club meeting.

"The disbursement of public funds may, indeed, prove a stimulus to business revival," he said. "But to the degree than other policies serve to prevent an expansion of production, the real national objective is defeated. Herein lie the fundamental shortcomings of the industrial recovery and the agricultural adjustment programs of the government. They were designed to raise prices and money incomes through curtailing or restricting production."

"A new theory has recently been developed which seeks to justify government spending as something more than a pump priming device," Moulton said. "It has been suggested that the government's accounts might well distinguish certain forms of disbursement as investments."

Most of the federal money, he said, has gone for consumptive purposes, which do not produce capital assets.

The offering prospectus, which must be furnished to each purchaser, should be read prior to any purchase of these securities.

THE COMPANY: The North American Company is a public utility holding company, organized in 1890 under the laws of New Jersey, and owns stocks, bonds and other securities of subsidiaries (including public utility holding companies) and other corporations. The principal operating subsidiaries of the Company are electric utility companies; the principal cities served are St. Louis, Milwaukee, Cleveland and Washington, D. C. Certain subsidiaries are also engaged in other activities, including the furnishing of transportation, gas and heating services and the mining of coal. The Company has substantial minority investments in the common stocks of Pacific Gas and Electric Company and The Detroit Edison Company and controls North American Light & Power Company and Capital Transit Company. The investment in Pacific Gas and Electric Company and The Detroit Edison Company comprises a substantial part of the total investment of the Company and dividends received from such companies have constituted a substantial part of the Company's income.

The North American Company owns no plants or real property. Property and plant of utility subsidiaries include land, structures and equipment required in the electric light and power and auxiliary steam heating business, local and interurban transportation business and gas business. Substantially all of such properties and plants are subject to mortgages and other liens for the most part securing indebtedness of the respective subsidiaries.

The Company has registered as a holding company under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 which Act, among other things, imposes upon the Securities and Exchange Commission the duty to require steps to be taken to limit the operation of a holding company system to a single integrated public utility system (or, under certain conditions, one or more such systems) and to simplify the structure of holding company systems. In response to a request of the Commission addressed to a number of public utility holding companies for the presentation of plans, even though tentative, looking towards compliance with the provisions of the Act above referred to, the Company, under date of November 1, 1938, submitted such a tentative plan. The Commission has advised the Company that it would treat the plan as confidential, and the details of the plan have not been disclosed to the underwriters or in the registration statement or offering prospectus. For the purpose of this newspaper prospectus the Company makes no representation that the tentative plan complies with the requirements of the Act, or as to the position of the Commission with respect thereto, or as to the effect of the Act upon the operations of the Company and its subsidiaries.

The Company is informed that on December 30, 1938, about 9.85% of the Company's voting stock was owned beneficially by Harrison Williams and certain corporations controlled by him. The Company disclaims admission of the existence of control by Harrison Williams or by such corporations.

The net proceeds, together with treasury funds of the Company to the extent necessary, are to be applied to the redemption of the outstanding debentures of the Company and of North American Edison Company (a subsidiary holding company) and the preferred stock of the latter company; the total redemption price of such debentures and preferred stock is $105,628,810, exclusive of accrued interest and dividends. After such redemptions, North American Edison Company will be dissolved and its assets transferred in liquidation to the Company, which will assume its liabilities existing at the time of such transfer.

DEBENTURES: All of the Debentures are to be issued under an Indenture to Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, as Trustee, and under an indenture supplemental thereto, both dated February 1, 1939. Debentures of the 3½% Series due 1949, 3¾% Series due 1954, and 4% Series due 1959 are limited in aggregate principal amount to $20,000,000, $25,000,000, and $25,000,000, respectively. The Debentures are not secured but the Company covenants in the Indenture not to secure other indebtedness of the Company (with certain exceptions) without securing the Debentures equally and ratably with such other indebtedness. Additional debentures of other series, and other funded debt, without limit as to amount, may be issued if consolidated income (computed as provided in the Indenture) for 12 months within the preceding 15 months is equal to at least 1½ times total annual consolidated interest charges and subsidiary preferred dividend requirements (both computed as provided in the Indenture) on total consolidated debt and subsidiary preferred stock to be outstanding after the issuance of such additional debentures or funded debt. In certain cases of refunding, such income requirement need not be complied with. The Supplemental Indenture contains a provision prohibiting the payment of dividends (other than dividends paid in Common Stock) on the Common Stock after the date of such Indenture, if the aggregate of the dividends so paid would exceed the amount of "net income of the Company, after provision for dividends on preferred stock, accumulated after December 31, 1938" (as defined), plus $6,000,000. Certain provisions of the Indenture and indentures supplemental thereto may be modified as provided in the Indenture.

The brief outline of such Indenture provisions as are contained herein is subject to the more detailed statements in the Indenture and Supplemental Indenture, both filed as exhibits to the registration statement and hereby incorporated by reference.

PREFERRED STOCK, 5¾% SERIES: This is to be a series of the Serial Preferred Stock, which is issuable in one or more series in a total authorized amount of 5,606,678 shares. The Board of Directors is authorized to issue the unissued balance of the authorized Serial Preferred Stock as Preferred Stock, 6% Series, as Preferred Stock, 5¾% Series, or as stock of other series and to fix, for each such other series, the distinctive serial designation, the annual dividend rate, the redemption price, the distributive amount per share payable on dissolution or any distribution of assets, and the terms or amount of any sinking fund. All shares of Serial Preferred Stock are to be of equal rank with each other, regardless of series.

FIRM IS ACCUSED OF IRREGULARITY IN SALE OF LOTS

Court Sees Hint of Bucket Shop Tactics.

A report charging irregularity bordering on fraud in the methods of the Illinois Real Estate Improvement corporation, 160 North La Salle street, was made yesterday before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in the Circuit court. Instalment sale of the same lot to two or more parties at the same time is one of the practices alleged.

The report was made by N. E. DeVault, trustee of the corporation, at a hearing of a suit filed by Emil J. Sehrt, 5033 Maypole avenue, against forty officials and stockholders of the company. Sehrt seeks to cancel a contract to purchase four lots in Hinsdale for $12,000. He charges fraud in the execution of the contracts.

State Official Promises Aid.

"If the trustee's report is borne out, it looks like bucket-shopping in lots instead of stocks," Judge Harrington commented after hearing DeVault's findings. Assistant State's Attorney Philip Tierney was present and announced his office would aid in the investigation.

DeVault said the real estate company had title to 700 lots in Cook, Lake, and DuPage counties, with $140,000 in pending contracts.

The trustee will make his report again today in the court of Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe, where a reorganization suit affecting the company is docketed.

Accusations Are Listed.

In the report submitted to Judge Harrington through Attorney John J. Gordon the following irregularities were charged:

1. The company ostensibly dissolved itself as ordered by Attorney General Otto Kerner in 1934, but continued in business as a corporation until last Nov. 8, when Judge Harrington appointed DeVault as trustee.

2. The company resold lots to new purchasers while payments were being made by prior purchasers.

3. Purchasers paid money for taxes and special assessments to the corporation which never were applied to these purposes.

4. Stock in the corporation was sold to contract purchasers. Some received dividend checks, but others received none.

Clouded Titles Shown.

5. Deeds to lots, given to some purchasers when their contracts were paid off, showed a cloud on the title for nonpayment of taxes and special assessments. In two instances the company agreed to return money which had been paid in for taxes and assessments, but no immediate return was made.

6. The company permitted deeds to be bought up for back taxes while the contracts still were in effect.

Among those named in Sehrt's suit are Adolph Loeffler, as president; J. E. Lindquist, as a director, and Eugene C. Mueller as manager.

The Chicago real estate board said the company was not a member of the board.
